Miss Marion Whittaker, of Penn Hall, school, Chambersburg, is at her thome, 1701 North Second street, for the spring vacation.

Southey's inimitable poem here given presents an excellent idea of the folly, not only of the wars that have convulsed Europe in the past, but also of the awful sweep of kingly murders that is now turning the continent into a vas field of horror and death.

Blenheim is a village of Bavaria where was fought a great battle, Augus 13th, 1704, between the English and Austrians on one side, under the Duke of Marlborough and Prince Eugene, and the French and Bavarians on the other under Marshal Tallard and the Elector of Bavaria. The French and Bavarian were defented, whilst the slaughter on both sides was great. This defeat gav a decided cheek to the ambitious schemes of Louis XIV, of France.

MRS ALMA SWATHELL MAYO PHOTOGRAPHS TAKEN IN 1881.

Many persons in Cleveland, Ohio, recall the marriage of Miss Alma Swatell to Virginius J. Mayo, in 1880, and the death of Mrs. Mayo several years later, but all efforts to learn the name of Mr. Mayo's daughter failed.

W. F. Swatwell, the father of Mr. Mayo's first wife, says his granddaughter is married and happy in New York city, and there is no necessity of bringing her name into the case.

Mr. Mayo was regarded by the persons who knew him in Cleveland as a man of high character, and at the time he married Miss Alma Swateli he had made a place for himself in the business life of Cleveland. He was known as a good principled man, who attended strictly to his business. The married life of Mr. and Mrs. Mayo was said to have been a happy one, and when she died Mr. Mayo seemed inconsolable. It was stated that he and Miss Swatell were sweethearts when they went to school together and that the courtship did not stop at the time of their marriage, but that it continued when they were man and wife and lasted up to the day of her death. Mr. Mayo was only nineteen years old and Miss Swatell was sixteen when they were married.
