Mystery enshrouds Elsie Farnin's life. The girl, who is a student at the University of Chicago, is the daughter of a man of means. She is said to be in the hands of a man of means. The girl is said to be in the hands of a man of means.

Elsie loves Elwin Gordon. On the Temple of Larimar, the High Priest Hassa Dal gazes into a crystal globe. In it, he sees a vision of Elsie promising to be Elwin's wife. As the result of the crystal's revelation, Khandia is dispatched to bring the girl to India. What happens to Elsie in India is splendidly told in motion pictures at the Standard Theatre to-night.—Adv.

JOHNSON AND WILLARD WILL NOT FIGHT EASTER SUNDAY

Contest Will Take Place April 5 In Deference to Wishes of Cuban President—Objections Raised on Account of Holy Day

Havana, March 27.—The fight between Jack Johnson and Jesse Willard which had been scheduled to take place here on April 4 for the heavyweight championship of the world has been postponed until Monday, April 5, at 12.30 p. m.

The postponement was due to a request made by President Menocal, of Cuba. In a letter to the fight promoters he said that great objection had arisen in Cuba and the United States to the fight taking place Easter Sunday, a Holy day, and he requested that the event be postponed until the day following.

A meeting of the principals and promoters was at once held and the request of President Menocal was accepted.

Americans here have been surprised at the opposition in Cuba to holding the fight on Easter Sunday. The promoters were assured that at least five thousand more people would attend any day other than Easter. The date originally was set for Saturday, April 3, but it was changed to Sunday at the request of several Havana associations.

It is evident that Johnson had some inkling to this trouble over the date, for he has slower up his training noticeably in the last two days. Both pugilists say the change will not upset their training as they have had a full week's notice. Light road work was the only feature of the forenoon at the two camps.

It is probable that Monday, April 5, will be made an unofficial holiday, Havana merchants and others reciprocating in this manner for the change in date.

60,000 Rebels After Essad Pasha

Rome, March 26, 11.25 P. M. Via Paris, March 27, 8.10 A. M.—Sixty thousand Albanian rebels are said to be engaged in the assault upon Durazzo, designed to force the retirement of Essad Pasha, the Turkish provisional president. The bombardment of the port continues and several persons are said to have been wounded. The residence of Essad Pasha has been badly damaged by shell fire.

REACTIONARY TENDENCIES ARE OVERCOME IN MARKET

Trading Very Extensive and Again Included Some Specialties, General Motors Gaining 8 Points—Bethlehem Steel Advances 8½ Points

New York, March 27.—(Wall Street)—Reactionary tendencies of the past day or two were overcome to-day, the market regaining all its strength of the midweek and mounting in numerous instances to higher levels. Trading was very extensive and again included some of the specialties, general motors gaining 8 points on rumors of disbursements to shareholders.

Bethlehem steel was the outstanding feature, however, advancing 8½ points to 76, or three points above its record price on publication of the annual statement showing earnings of over 30 per cent for the common stock. Reading and U. S. steel were the most conspicuous leaders, the latter selling at its highest since dividends were suspended. The closing was strong. Bonds were firm.

MORE CONSTABLES SEEK FEES

Engage Counsel to Sue County for Back Pay Alleged to Be Due

Many of the county constables, whose claims for back fees under the act of 1901 were rejected by the Dauphin County Commissioners—although other constables obtained back money—because they failed to bring suit for their claims "within the time required by law," have employed counsel and propose to make a court fight for the money.

The claims are based on the act which increased constables' fees. These fees were not allowed by the County Commissioners during the years from 1901 to 1905, inclusive, because the Commissioners at that time thought the act increasing the fees was not constitutional.

Nevertheless some of the constables sued for the increases and they recently were paid in full under a Dauphin county court ruling.

The constables who now plan to make a fight for back money have employed attorneys who will confer with the County Commissioners on the question at a meeting next Wednesday.

The constables held that the board of County Commissioners who originally refused to pay the increases, agreed to pay the claims upon the condition that other counties would pay or that the court would decide that the county is liable. That agreement still is binding, they say.

SHOW SLIDES DESPITE CENSOR

Local Theatres Put on Liberty Bell Pictures Defying Censorship

The Liberty Bell slides calculated to aid the cause of the moving picture exhibitors in their fight to have the state censorship law repealed, were shown in some of the Harrisburg moving picture houses for the first time last evening.

Two slides are in each set sent out from the exhibitors' organization in Philadelphia for use throughout the State. The slides are colored and one shows a bell without a crack. It contains the words: "Public opinion favors laws against bad pictures but abhors the tyranny of censorship."

The second slide shows a cracked bell and reads: "It proclaimed liberty to all the people. Censorship put the crack in it."

The slides call on theatre patrons to use their influence with the lawmakers of their district to induce them to vote for the repeal of the present censorship law.

The slides are being shown despite the fact they have not been approved by the state censors and notwithstanding J. Louis Breitingler, the chief censor, has threatened to arrest exhibitors displaying them.

The exhibitors contend the board has no right, under the law, to put a ban on such pictures inasmuch as they are not films.

The Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of Pennsylvania is planning its

THE POSSIBILITIES OF AN AERIAL TORPEDO CONTROLLED BY WIRELESS

SUGGESTION OF AN AERIAL TORPEDO CONTROLLED BY WIRELESS, LAUNCHED AGAINST A ZEPPELIN FROM A WARSHIP.

This drawing has been made especially for this newspaper, the New York Herald and the London Sphere to illustrate the possibilities of the aerial torpedo, as set forth by a correspondent, who writes as follows:—"In naval warfare the most successful and deadly weapon has been the torpedo, and it seems quite reasonable to suppose that could we but adopt it for use in the air it would prove as effective there as on—or rather under—the sea. At first glance it certainly seems impossible, and to reckon upon discharging such a weapon from an aeroplane is and the additional encumbrance of wings, elevator, tail, &c. But it certainly seems within the realms of possibility to build a machine which in practically all essentials is a small replica of its own, modern monoplane but which, instead of carrying a pilot, shall be controlled by a wireless system operated by an observer in an ordinary aeroplane, while its body would contain a quantity of explosives. The question of controlling an aeroplane in this manner is undoubtedly a difficult one, but that it is possible I am convinced will be definitely proved before long. I myself have seen a small dirigible successfully steered and manoeuvred within the confines of an ordinary music hall by a wireless operator on the stage. Again, there is a gentleman in America who frequently manoeuvres an empty motor boat in and out of the intricate passages between vessels lying in harbor, to the mystification and astonishment of various onlookers.
