Temple, give an earnest exhortation for them "to heed the call of duty, with fear of no man, with favor for none, but with justice to all."

The guests listened attentively to the Governor's speech, in which he referred to the launching of the Pennsylvania, which suggested as a motto, to him this: "Pennsylvania for the Union and the Union Forever." As a conclusion he quoted the inscription carved on the linteis on an old Persian building reading: "In the midst of light is the beautiful; in the midst of the beautiful; is the good; in the midst of the beautiful is the good; in the midst of the beautiful is the good; in the midst of the beautiful is the good; in the midst of the good is God."

The banquet hall was beautifully decorated. Spring flowers in profusion added a colorful touch to the scene. The Masonic orchestra furnished the music during the evening.

Frank G. Fnhnestock, worshipful master of the lodge, was toastmaster, and other speakers were J. George Becht, secretary of the State Board of Education, and Judge George B. Orlady, J. Much interest was manifested by the residents of the lower end of the county in the annual James G. Hatz oratorical contest which was staged in the Middletown High school on Friday evening, last. Nine boys and girls competed for the honors which a board of three judges, after half an hour's deliberation, awarded to Miss Eva J. Bleecher, a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Blecher, Middletown, who got first frize, and to Miss Edna Schaeffer, also of Middletown, who got second prize.

Following the decisions, James G. Hatz, founder of the contest, presented the prizes, a $10 gold piece for second. Miss Blecher's subject was "Consecution" while that of Miss Schaeffer and in fact all the competitors. The high quality of the orations was particularly pleasing to the faculty of the Middletown High school whose training it was that qualified the codes for the much coveted honors. The judges of the contests were Professor J. J. Brehm, city supervisor; Professor C. S. Davis, of Steelton, and Professor S. M. Stouffer, of Highspire. Much interest was manifested by the honors and $5 gold piece for second.

BAN ON SALE OF RABBITS This Section of New Game Code Is Agreed Upon by Committee

The Game Committee of the Senate this morning held a meeting to consider certain proposed amendments to the new game code recently passed by the House.

certain proposed umendments to the new game code recently passed by the House.

David Pritehard, president of the United Sportsmen's Association, Scranton, asked that the section prohibiting the sale of squirrels and rabbits killed in this State be stricken out of the bill. Sceretary Kalbfus, of the Statt Game Commission, maintained that it is unfair to permit rabbits to be killed in Pennsylvania and sold at a time when the State is importing rabbits for breeding and to stock the preserves. He said that at present the State is paying for rabbits at the rae of 25 cents each, and if they are permitted to be killed for commercial purposes the farmer boys and pot-hunting sportsmen slaughter them in great numbers and sell them to the hucksters to be sold in the market for fifteen cents each.

The committee decided to retain the section, and under it no rabbits killed in the State can be sold to anybody. The law, however, does not forbid the sale in Pennsylvania of rabbits killed outside of the State.

Representatives of the Blooming Grove Park Association, of Pike county, which has large game preserves, appeared before the committee and asked an amendment permitting the killing of ring-necked pheasants on private preserves all the year round, but could not give satisfactory reasons to the committee why this should be permitted, and will be heard again.
