MUNICIPAL LEAGUE PLANS IMPROVEMENT TO CANAL

Most Popular Plan So Far Advocated Is to Fill Ditch Almost to Center, From Each Side, to a Level With Adjoining Ground

Plans for the improvement of the Kellner Park tract, not having been received by the local Municipal League in time for the meeting last evening, the matter of selecting a date to begin the contemplated improvements had to be postponed and the matter will likely be adjusted by the president and the committee in charge of the movement.

The often discussed subject of improvement to the old canal was again taken up last evening. The sanitary and health committee of the league will hold a meeting Thursday afternoon, when it will be accompanied by several members of the borough council, on a trip along the banks of the old stream for the purpose of determining on some plan of beautifying the banks.

One of the plans suggested and which is meeting with much favor, is the filling in of loose dirt to near the center of the ditch from each side on a level with the surrounding ground and then sod the fill-in.

CHURCH EXPANSION LIKELY

Two Denominations Are Crowded for School Room

The wave of religious fervor which has swept the borough this winter has caused large accessions to be made to a number of the borough churches. In several instances these accessions have crowded the structures to such an extent that additions are likely to be made.

None of these improvements have advanced far enough for plans to be drawn, but they are being considered by the church officers of the two organizations. In both instances the additions are needed to take care of the growing Sunday schools. At the First Presbyterian church an enlargement of the space occupied by the organ and choir is being considered, but nothing definite has been decided.

The funeral services for James M. Lambertson, lawyer, teacher and historian, whose death occurred on Sunday evening at his home, 111 North Front street, were held this afternoon at 3 o'clock in St. Stephen's Protestant Episcopal church. Bishop James Henry Darlington officiated, assisted by the Rev. Rollin A. Sawyer, rector of St. Stephen's. The active pallbearers, pastmasters of local Masonic lodges, were: Clark E. Diehl, George E. Whitney, W. Harry Mosser and Dr. John M. Baanick, of Perseverance Lodge No. 21, F. and A. M.; Arthur D. Bacon and Andrew S. Patterson, of Robert Burns Lodge No. 464, F. and A. M., and Worshipful Master Benjamin W. Demming and Charles C. Stroth, of Harrisburg Lodge No. 629, F. and A. M.

The honorary pallbearers as selected by Mr. Lambertson some time before his death were the following: Andrew S. McCraith, W. J. Rose, Leroy J. Wolfe, Thomas L. Montgomery, J. V. W. "I mourn the death of James M. Lambertson as an affectionate classmate at Yale and as a man and a citizen for whom I had deepest respect and whose public interest and loyalty to his country, his church, his alma mater and his Masonic associations were most exceptional. His brave fight with death for two full years and the courage with which he faced it, revealed his high character and his supreme faith."

Resolutions on the death of Mr. Lambertson were passed by the directors of the Harrisburg Hospital this morning. At a meeting this afternoon at 2 o'clock of the Dauphin County Bar Association, resolutions were adopted, and the members of the bar attended the funeral services in a body.

SAYS TURKS' DEFENSES ARE TOO STRONG FOR THE ALLIES

Bucharest, March 30.—Field Marshal Von Der Goltz, the German military commander of Constantinople, interviewed by the "Alders" declared that the defenses of the Dardanelles had proved more effective than had been expected and that he now would affirm the allied fleet would not force a passage.

"We await a new attack without fear," he said. "The more ships there are the better satisfied we shall be. We do not lack ammunition for Turkish factories supply us all we want. Turkish industry has been sufficiently developed to equip a fresh army of 500,000 which it will be easy to mobilize. Constantinople is calm and the Sultan still is in his Bosphorus palace. Enver Pasha, minister of war, is most optimistic and we are convinced we shall win."

VON KLUCK WOUNDED, IT IS SAID, BY BEING RECKLESS

London, March 30, 3:45 A. M.—General Von Kluck, the German commander who led the advance into Berlin, according to travelers from Berlin, was wounded while recklessly inspecting trenches at the most dangerous point on the line, after a stormy interview with Emperor William, says an Amsterdam dispatch to the "Express."

It is learned from the same source that the opinion is expressed in Berlin that as the result of the incident the Emperor will enrust the command of Von Kluck's army to Prince Eitel Friedrich.

Announcement that General Von Kluck had been wounded was contained in an official statement issued yesterday by the German War Office. It was said his condition was not serious.

GOOD COMEDY RELIEVED BY REAL PATHOS AT ORPHEUM

Henrietta Crossman Makes Effective Plea for Universal Peace and Improves Nonsense on Bill Because of Contrast

The week's bill at the Orpheum is satisfying from start to finish. The reason it has a peculiar appeal is, no doubt, that an act of real pathos relieves the monotony of comedy, since even the most pleasing comedy may grow wearisome if it lacks contrast with something serious. It may be safe to say that the comedians on the current bill, and they are good ones, are all the funnier because of the act, "Thou Shalt Not Kill" is all so serious. They benefit by contrast with Henrietta Crossman.

Miss Crossman, in the peace play by Maurice Campbell, appears in the role of a widow of a soldier killed in a previous war and mother of a boy called to the colors in the present war. The plea of the popular song, "I Didn't Raise My Boy to Be a Soldier," is the plea of the little one-act play and, needless to say, it is effectively presented by Miss Crossman. She is naturally the whole act, and through her mouth the entreaty for universal peace is made. The boy, the soldier who comes for him and the peasant surroundings are merely incidental. The mother, in anguish over the sacrifice of her son, and recalling the loss of her husband, teaches unaided the lesson in peace.

London, March 30, 3:10 A. M.—"The enemy's ships have been absolutely cleared from the Black sea," says the "Daily News" Petrograd correspondent.
