SOCIAL and PERSONAL

MAUD POWELL IN RECITAL

One of Greatest Woman Violinists in the World Will Be Heard Here

Maud Powell, one of the really great violinists, comes to Harrisburg Thursday evening, April 8, and will appear in joint recital with Evan Williams, the eminent Welsh tenor, in the Chestnut street auditorium. The musical critic of the Brooklyn "Standard-Union" says of her: "Without any doubt the greatest woman violinist in the world and the peer of many famous men players. There are very few corners of the musical world that Madam Powell has not visited, and she has always won her spurs because she has always been a magnificent artist and a sterling woman. Years only mellow her work."

It is a known fact that fewer women rise to a place of distinction among violinists than in any other musical instrument, which goes to show how highly esteemed is Maud Powell in the opinions of the leading critics and musicians, and Walter Anthony remarks: "To say that she plays as well as a man would be to flatter all the men in the world."

The sale of seats for this most attractive concert will open to-morrow morning at the J. H. Troup Music House, and the prices are popular and within the reach of all.
