AN EASTER OF JOY AND SORROW

Easter day will dawn to-morrow on a world half joyous, half sorrowful. To the Christian peoples who are enjoying peace and to the Christian peoples who are plunged in war the occasion will have the same profound meaning and the same wonderful promise, but it will be observed very differently by the one than by the other.

In lands like ours, at peace with all the world, Easter will be a day of rejoicing. The church bells will have a merry sound, and the church music will inspire cheerful thoughts. The streets will be gay with Easter paraders; the fashion show will be pleasing to the eyes and will lighten the spirits. The many colored Easter eggs and the variously formed Easter candies will afford the gay children their great annual enjoyment. All nature will rejoice.

There are other lands where Easter will not seem at all like that. In war-wrecked Christian countries across the sea, where devastation has come despite the resurrection of the Prince of Peace, the day will be a very solemn one,-a very sad one. promise of victory over the grave will carry the thoughts of wives and mothers to their loved ones who may be already at the end of their earthly lives, or who may fall during the future progress of the war. Prayers that on Easter day go up from those women, and from the men who are facing death at the front, will be very earnest petitions. Human beings are so constituted that earnestness is revealed in them principally in times of stress and distress.

Easter this year may have a somewhat deeper significance for Christian Europeans than it will have for Americans. Perhaps in the belligerent countries religious beliefs will signify more to actual war sufferers on resurrection day than they will to complacent, thriving, happy citizens of this peaceful republic. Yet Easter day will have the same fundamental meaning wherever Christianity has spread. No matter if it is observed with joy by the fortunate or with sorrow by the unfortunate, it will commemorate that one marvelous happening of gospel record without which, according to St. Paul, Christian faith would be vain.

CHANCE TO BE A CLERGYMAN'S WIFE

When a man of thirty, who is described by no less of an authority than the Episcopal Bishop of Ontario "as a manly man, in good health, very active, full of pluck and energy, and without any ties," is driven to the expedient of seeking a wife through the medium of the newspapers, the average wellbalanced person is apt to pause and wonder why this apparently altogether desirable candidate for connubial felicity has been unable through his own efforts to find a suitable life companion.

When it is further revealed that he is a clergyman in apparently excellent standing in his church, and a graduate of Oxford University, and that the Princess Fredericka of Brunswick and Lunenburg has joined with the good bishop in declaring him to be an ideal husband for any "well-bred, cultured woman who is healthy, cheerful and preferably not over thirty years of age," the wonder grows as to why such a perfectly desirable "catch" could so long have been overlooked by the designing mammas with eligible daughters who live in Barrie, Ontario, the home of the lonely rector.

There must be some very good reason for the ingleness of this Canadian elergyman—his name is not revealed in the newspaper accounts, though is address is given as "Post Office box 701, Barrie, Intario."

Can it be possible that the bachelors of Barrie of far outnumber the unmarried females that there husband in his own home town?

Perhaps the salaries they pay to clergymen in Barrie,—goodness knows they are far below what they ought to be in other places—are so meager.

There must be some very good reason for the fullness, headache, heartburn, and sometimes nausea.

Dyspepsia is difficult digestion—that is what the word means—and the wall digestive system. Hood's Sarsaparilla, sold by all druggists, is the one medicine which acts on the stomach through the blood and also directly. Its beneficial effects are felt at once. Improvement begins immediately.

Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, makes the rich red blood that is needed for perfect digestion, and builds up the whole system. No other medicine can take its place.—Adv. singleness of this Canadian clergyman-his name is not revealed in the newspaper accounts, though his address is given as "Post Office box 701, Barrie, Ontario."

so far outnumber the unmarried females that there is no chance for a perfectly good minister to become a husband in his own home town?

Barrie,-goodness knows they are far below what they ought to be in other places .- are so meager that the idea of becoming a minister's wife there holds out the prospect of so much drudgery that the Barrie mammas are not enthusiastic about sacrificing their daughters to anything of the kind. Or, perhaps, the Barrie clergyman is one of those hopelessly bashful souls who hasn't got the nerve to propose to a girl; though that seems hardly likely to be true of a man who welcomes the opportunity of publishing his matrimonial ambitions on the front page of the New York newspapers.

Whatever is the reason this young elergyman has failed thus far to get a wife to bring cheer into his around and many were the plans made failed thus far to get a wife to bring cheer into his life, we hope, if he is all the good bishop says he is, that the loneliness of his bachelorhood may not be more occasion than ever to enjoy themof much longer duration. Perhaps some Harrisburg selves. girl who is "cultured, cheerful and not over thirty" may see herein an opportunity.

EASTER PARCEL POST BUSINESS

It is not too much to presume that Uncle Sam's parcel post service will have a lot to do with this it was considered an honor to have year's observance of Easter. The general public the greatest number of nests to one's has been using the parcel post more extensively the Great Oak and a list of the places with each succeeding year, and has now discovered named where the nests were to be conapparently that the mails can be used very con-cealed. veniently in the Easter celebration.

The parcel post business in this city just now is reported to be reaching large proportions. It was even found necessary yesterday that the holiday occasion Miss Rachael Rabbit had been be curtailed five hours in order to accommodate conceded to be the most popular of all senders of Easter packages.

The parcels, it may be readily surmised, contain candies of the forms and flavors peculiar to the who were enamoured of the beautiful Easter season. The contents may vary, but they Rachael and frightfully jealous of each are no doubt principally sweets. With Easter are the chairman of the assemblage offered associated inseparably chocolate bunnies and eggs for a prize a large round head of cab and other candies, and these have now found in the parcel post a very suitable means of transportation.

When souvenir postcards were at the height of the hold of the fair Rachael on their popularity these missives crowded the mails at Easter time, conveying best wishes to and from the idol of his heart. The great pity is separated friends and relatives. Candies, too, were that both Billy and Bunny thought of sent through the mails but not to any overwhelm- identically the same idea. And it was ing extent, because of the rather high rates of post- that he should gather all the eggs he age under the old plan before the parcel post. The cost of carriage would not infrequently reach half Although each conceived this brilliant the value of the candies.

The State Highway Department got orders to begin repairing the roads and the next day it snowed.

The parcels make up a large part. The government's low priced carrying service has apparently encourtaged the sending of Easter candies through the mail. Surely every one will agree that such encouragement is fitting and proper, for who, especially among the kiddies, would not prefer candies to postcards?

It is rather hard on Uncle Sam's employes that they must anticipate a rush prior to Easter as well as before Christmas, although the mail, of course, is not nearly so heavy at this season as at the Yule tide.
