

HEADACHE

Little Talks on Health and Hygiene By Samuel G. Dixon, M. D., LL. D., Commissioner of Health

Headache is one of the most common ailments. Almost everyone, even people in comparatively good health, are subject from time to time to this malady.

The causes of headache are numerous and cannot be removed by the use of smelling salts, ice bags, cold towels and headache powders.

Undue heart stimulation accompanies a number of organic disturbances and results in abnormally high blood pressure in the brain.

There is always danger, however, in the use by a layman of any drug which is sufficiently strong to have this result when there is some weakness of the heart.
