

THOUSANDS MARCH ON THE CAPITOL IN LOCAL OPTION FIGHT THIS AFTERNOON

dist march on State street to hold an overflow meeting.
Remarks were made in the church by Judge Davies, magistrate of a Philadelphia police court. There were many cheers for "Billy" Sunday and many songs from the recent evangelistic campaign in the Quaker City.

A "Local Option" Sunday
At this morning's meeting in Chestnut street hall the big crowd unanimously passed a resolution that next Sunday will be designated as "local option Sunday" and every church in the State that was represented this morning will pass resolutions which will be sent to the Representatives in the General Assembly. The resolution asks that every church, every Sunday school, Bible class and young people's organization pass such resolutions.

Sunday's Name Brings Cheers
J. Denny O'Neil, County Commissioner of Allegheny, and chairman of the State local option committee, set the crowd wild at the outset by reading a telegram from the Rev. "Billy" Sunday, the evangelist who recently closed his campaign in Philadelphia and who would lead the fight for the passage of local option in this State. The telegram read:

"Sorry I can't be there. I will work and pray for the movement."
Samuel E. Gill, chairman of the State Sunday School Committee, promised 200,000 supporters for local option in a telegram to the chairman.

Dr. Sharkey's Prayer
Mr. O'Neil introduced Dr. Isaac Sharpless, president of Haverford College, who acted as permanent chairman of the meeting. The Rev. Floyd W. Thompkins, rector of Holy Trinity church, Philadelphia, offered prayer. George E. Alter, former Speaker of the House of Representatives; Dr. George W. Shelton, both of Allegheny, and John J. Kolb, of Philadelphia, a personal friend of Governor Brumbaugh, constituted a committee on resolutions on motion of Mr. Alter.

John R. Farr, Congressman from Lackawanna county and Speaker of the House of Representatives in 1899, was the first speaker. He said it was one of the pleasures of his life to vote for the Hobson prohibition resolution in the national House.

"Any legislative body," he said, "that turns down the people's wish as expressed all over this State for submission to the people of this question of whether they should have liquor or not fails to recognize the purpose of a legislative body."
He bewailed what he said was the fact that it is mostly the "unprogressive man who does the voting at the polls."

Henry W. Temple, Congressman of Washington county, was interrupted at the outset of his speech by the entrance of the resolution committee with two resolutions to report. One was a lengthy one supporting local option and was presented by Mr. Alter and was adopted. The second setting aside next Sunday as "local option Sunday" was presented by Dr. Shelton. It also was adopted.

Temple Favors Prohibition
Mr. Temple continuing said:
"Governor Brumbaugh has surprised a good many people. Many of us voted for him thinking he would not carry out his election pledges and many of us voted against him thinking he would not carry out his pre-election pledges. We were both fooled and we are glad of it. If we cannot get local option this time let us help to get another Legislature that will give it to us, and we can do it."

And whereas, this principle of home rule has been applied successfully in a majority of the States of the Union and the right to its exercise should no longer be denied the people of Pennsylvania.

Resolved: That feeling it our bounden duty to support the Governor and a high privilege to enlist under his courageous leadership in this righteous cause, we, the men of this conference, gathered from every part of Pennsylvania, do hereby pledge ourselves to the effort to secure our Commonwealth a country local option law, to the end that the courts may be freed from the imminent peril by which they are now threatened and the people of the counties given the local control to which they are fairly and justly entitled.

Resolved that, in our judgment said legislation should be enacted now and we hereby give our unqualified approval to the county local option bill, introduced by Hon. George W. Williams, and pending in the General Assembly at this time.

CONCERT AT CHESTNUT STREET
Program Will Be Given in Adjoining Room During Local Option Speeches.

During the local option meeting in the large auditorium at the Chestnut street hall to-night the sixth annual Star Concert of St. Augustine's Episcopal church will be held in the smaller assembly room of the building.

The concert will be one of the big events of the season for the colored population of the city. R. W. Hayes, the negro tenor, will have capable assistants in the rendering of a program of vocal and instrumental music.

Odd Fellows to Install Officers
Officers of State Capital Lodge No. 70, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, will be installed at a meeting to be held in the hall, 304 North Second street, this evening. The installation ceremonies will be in charge of Deputy Grand Master William G. Schreiner, of the southern district. A class of nine candidates will also be initiated as members of the lodge.

party in power that it will be to the interest of their party to enact such legislation and this bill will become an established fact. Politicians set first for the benefit of the party and second for the benefit of the people, and if we can show the dozen leaders that it is to their interest first to support it, it will pass."

F. H. Rockwell, of Tioga, former member of the House, who sponsored the local option bill at the last session of the General Assembly, said:
"This Legislature has no right to say that the people have no voice in whether they should have liquor or not. If this bill is defeated it will be the greatest blow that ever befell the Republican party."

The progress of the meeting was interrupted by the Commonwealth band playing "Tipperary" at the doorway of the hall and the session was stopped while the band led the Philadelphia delegation through the building which was already overflowing with the crowd. There was no room for this crowd of visitors and they filled in one door to the front of the hall, past the platform which was crowded, and out through another doorway.

The "official local option song" set to the tune of "Tipperary" was sung as the crowd filed through. "The Brewers' Big Horses" and other songs were sung.

Huntingdon Delegation Here
Each man wore a white ribbon and was carrying a small American flag. After the cheers and songs stopped, W. Galbraith, former Judge of Butler county, was introduced. He said local option would succeed because the conscience of the people was back of it. This was the first declaration of the sort that the Philadelphia delegation had listened to and they made the most of the opportunity to cheer.

The crowd was so great that it was difficult to maintain order. One knot of optionists at a time would break out into song, and the meeting was adjourned after announcements of the rest of the day's meetings were made. The Philadelphia delegation went to Grace church for the morning overflow meeting. They will leave the city at 9 o'clock to-night.

Almost a hundred optionists from Governor Brumbaugh's own county of Huntingdon were present in Chestnut street hall and were given seats of honor on the stage.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED IN CHESTNUT STREET HALL

The following resolutions were adopted at this morning's conference in the Chestnut street auditorium, being presented by George E. Alter, former Speaker of the House of Representatives:

Whereas, the sale of intoxicating liquors has produced most serious and vital problems and, as these become more fully appreciated, the people are justly claiming the right to a more direct part in deciding the question whether such sale shall be licensed in their respective communities;

And whereas, in the absence of any method by which the voters in the several counties may lawfully and directly pass upon the question of license or no license, they are attempting to determine the important question through the election of judges expressly or impliedly committed to the granting or the refusal of licenses, through which method a system of county local option is, in effect, operative in a large and growing number of the counties of the State;

And whereas, the election of judges upon issues other than judicial ability, fairness and integrity, and particularly upon an issue relating to the manner in which they will decide cases to be heard in court, is a prostitution of the most sacred office in the gift of the people the result of which is a great weakening of that confidence in the judiciary so essential to the preservation of our institutions;

And whereas, the Governor of the Commonwealth, elected under an express pledge to favor a county local option law, is faithfully adhering to that pledge, the redemption of which he began in his inaugural address, wherein he said: "Let this vexed question be taken from partisan control and given directly to the people. They will solve it better than we can." The election of judges in the several districts should no longer hinge upon this question. It has already worked harm to the judiciary and has lessened the regard of our people for the integrity and capacity of the final legal guardians of the people's sacred rights. It is a dominant issue in the public mind. The party that has given this great state its industrial and economic development has now the sacred opportunity of giving the State a great moral uplift. I trust we shall not fail the people in this issue."

Resolved: That feeling it our bounden duty to support the Governor and a high privilege to enlist under his courageous leadership in this righteous cause, we, the men of this conference, gathered from every part of Pennsylvania, do hereby pledge ourselves to the effort to secure our Commonwealth a country local option law, to the end that the courts may be freed from the imminent peril by which they are now threatened and the people of the counties given the local control to which they are fairly and justly entitled.

Resolved that, in our judgment said legislation should be enacted now and we hereby give our unqualified approval to the county local option bill, introduced by Hon. George W. Williams, and pending in the General Assembly at this time.

UNPRECEDENTED THROG IN HOUSE AS THE LOCAL OPTION HEARING STARTS

flow meeting was in progress with several thousand enthusiastic local optionists cheering, presided over by the Rev. Dr. Shelton, of Pittsburgh. The strains of the band from the outside floated into the House and the cold water folks smiled. As the clock sounded 2 o'clock the crowd settled down patiently to wait half an hour.

Option Speakers Announced
It was announced that the speakers for the local option bill would be Father J. J. Curran, Wilkes-Barre; James M. Spanen, Lancaster, head of the Grangers; William McCoach, City Treasurer, Philadelphia, and the Rev. C. F. Swift, Beaver, head of the Local Option League.

Against the bill it was announced that the speakers would be Joseph E. O'Brien, Scranton; Congressman A. J. Barchfeld, Pittsburgh; the Rev. S. G. Von Busse, Wilmington, Del., formerly of Philadelphia, and Robert J. McGrath, labor leader, of Pittsburgh.

The entrance of James Mulvihill, head of the Liquor Dealers' League, who is directing the fight against the bill, was a signal for cheers and applause among the anti's, the first of the day. The anti's at this point made a protest because their speakers had not been provided with seats, but this was soon adjusted and another wait ensued.

While waiting somebody in the gallery began to sing "America." In an instant the great crowd caught up with a refrain and sang it with a will, fairly shouting it and waving small American flags. It was a very inspiring scene and seemed to put everybody in a patriotic good humor. Loud applause greeted the chorus.

The clerk to the committee at 2.25 called the roll of the committee, and virtually all of the members responded, one absentee being Shaaber, of Berks, veteran of the Civil war, said to be an opponent of the bill.

Anti's Get Floor First

The first speaker was Congressman A. J. Barchfeld, of Pittsburgh, who was cheered to the echo as he arose to speak in behalf of the German Alliance, of Allegheny county, in opposition to the bill; for the State, and for himself. The German-American Alliance, he said, is a body of law-abiding and law-abiding citizens with a membership of 139,000 opposed to local option and prohibition in every form because they hold such things as a deprivation of the rights of individuals which should remain inviolable. They believed in the enforcement of the law. They decried "treating" and have abandoned it. Men whose appetites must be curbed are not fit for citizenship in a great republic. Prohibition does not prevent. In Maine it has been a gigantic humbug, he said, and an egregious failure.

"We are opposed to robbing men without just compensation," he said. "The present high income law meets all demands. When the majority of a community do not desire breweries the duty rests on them to grant them." (Loud and derisive cheers and shout of "Oh.") As the speaker went on he was frequently interrupted by decisive cries. He paused a moment and then said:

"This is the same kind of feeling that led to the burning of old sore-eyed women as witches at the stake in the dark ages."

This was greeted with vociferous cheering, which increased as the speaker said he was an American citizen and had the right to free speech. Then he went on to extol the German-Americans and denounce the bill because he said its passage would be a blow aimed at the individual liberty of every man.

"The spirit of intolerance is repugnant to the spirit of the age," he added. "This local option measure infringes on the rights of man."

He then spoke of alleged vices in the army resulting from the prohibition of the canteen, and said there is hypocrisy wherever prohibition prevails.

Father J. C. Curran, of Wilkes-Barre, was the next speaker and he favored the bill. At the beginning of Father Curran's remarks this report closed.

103 MEMBERS VOTE NOT TO SUSTAIN GOVERNOR'S VETO

A break between the Republican organization leaders and Governor Brumbaugh was apparent last night when 103 members of the House voted to pass the Habgood bill, carrying $46,000 to pay back bills of newspapers for advertising constitutional amendments, over the Governor's veto.

Eighty-three members voted with the Governor. It requires a two-thirds vote, or 138, to make a bill become a law after it has been vetoed, and while the Habgood bill needed 35 votes of passage, yet the balloting was considered significant. One more vote would have brought the total up to a constitutional majority, enough to pass a measure on third reading in the lower house. Habgood did not vote, but it was considered a victory for him, for his vote would have made it a majority of the House.

FINANCE PRICES AGAIN ASCEND AT OUTSET OF MARKET TO-DAY

Bethlehem Steel Repeats Its Daily Performance of a New High Record, Rising to 94 1/2, an Opening Gain of 2 Points

By Associated Press.
New York, April 6.—Prices were again pushed upward at the outset of today's market operations, all the leaders, as well as numerous specialties, participating in greater or less measure.

Bethlehem Steel repeated its familiar daily performance of a new high record, opening with a block of 1,200 shares at 93 to 94, and then rising to 94 1/2, an overnight gain of 2 points. Union Pacific, Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Atchison were up a point or more, in most instances attaining their best prices. Some heaviness was evinced by Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, Chesapeake and Ohio and Smelting. Selling for profits soon caused recessions from the top.

Recurrent heavy selling met the initial advance, with the result that most gains were soon lost. Commission houses reported a preponderance of selling orders, particularly in specialties. Dealings in the first hour again exceeded 200,000 shares, with some moderation later. Bethlehem Steel lost most of its further rise, traders preferring to await the outcome of the annual meeting to be held later in the day. U. S. Steel was under pressure and Union Pacific showed the effects of realizing. Toward midday Reading and Amalgamated became features of strength, with irregularity elsewhere. Bonds were steady.

Optometry Bill Defeated
The optometry bill regulating the practice and providing for a board of optometric examiners under the supervision of the Bureau of Medical Education and Licensure of the Department of Public Instruction was defeated on final passage in the House this morning. Last night the House passed the optometry bill placing them under their own board.

Representative Rothenberger, of Berks, introduced a resolution asking the Appropriation committee to present an itemized account of expenses for all moneys spent in their trip to various institutions and to designate the hours and days spent on such trips when the House was in session. The resolution stated that the expenditure of State money was entirely unnecessary as the State Board of Public Charities had already done the work. The resolution was laid aside for printing. The House recessed until 8 o'clock to-night.

LAFRANCE GETS CONTRACT FOR CITY FIRE APPARATUS for $18,000, the balance in the fire apparatus loan fund, which now is available.

The Mayor thought "the only way to be fair to the bidders" would be to readvertise for bids, since the Morton company withdrew. To give the American LaFrance an opportunity to put in a special offer after the amounts of the other proposals submitted by fire apparatus firms became known, and in his opinion is most unfair to the other bidders. The LaFrance company's latest offer, the Mayor pointed out, is comparatively $2,600 less than the one submitted under the competitive bidding and he said, "I cannot understand how a firm can cut prices that way unless it was originally intended to skin the city."

Taylor said he thought the city would be getting a bargain through his latest buying plan, besides he said, he spent several days dickering with the American LaFrance company before it agreed to furnish the two combination wagons and one tractor at his price of $10,800. "We had many telephone conversations and a number of letters passed," he said, "and they called me a Jew and everything else."

Commissioner Taylor sought and obtained a postponement of action on his pending ordinance which provides for the purchase of a plot at Fifth and Emerald streets, to be used as a playground—for $27,000. A similar strip of ground immediately north of the plot in question, Taylor said, has been offered by Joseph L. Shearer, Jr., for $26,500. Besides the owners of the $27,000 plot verbally have agreed to cut $1,000 from the purchase price.

CIGARETTE CAUSES FIRE

Blaze at 438 Market Street Calls Out the Firemen
When firemen were called out to extinguish the flames in one of the rooms of the Bergstresser house, 438 Market street, last night, they found the door of the apartment occupied by Philip Crawford locked. When entrance was gained a bathrobe, flannel shirt and razor strap hanging on the door were reported to be burning. Following an investigation Fire Chief Kessler said a lighted cigarette had ignited some of the wearing apparel.

A slight fire of unknown origin broke out in the cellar beneath the billboard at Third and Walnut streets yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The Friendship truck was called out and the blaze extinguished in a few minutes.

COMEDY IS SUPREME ON PLEASING ORPHEUM BILL

Sam Mann as Funny as Ever in Vehicle, "Lots and Lots of It"—Lawtons, in Character Songs, Have Delightful Act
Comedy is supreme on the new bill at the Orpheum, which might safely be judged to be even better than last week's excellent show. Sam Mann is as funny as ever in his vehicle of the season, "Lots and Lots of It," a real estate play, which is really pleasing.

Diamond and Brennan, in their sketch, "Nifty Nonsense," have some new things to do, and they do them rather better than most performers who present "boy and girl" acts. Bradley and Norris, "In Loveland," may seem to have a sort of flirtation act, too, but it proves in the end to be an exhibition of skillful bicycle riding. Holt, the mimic, deserves all the loud applause he draws forth, as does Trovotto, the violinist, who cannot make his eyes behave. And as delightful an act as any of the kind which has appeared at the Orpheum this season is that of Charles, Mabel and Alice Lawton, in pleasing character songs.

responsibilities for the acts of the British authorities. The note concludes with the hope that the British government, "having considered these possibilities, will take the steps necessary to avoid them, and, in the event that they should unhappily occur, will be prepared to make full reparation for every act which under the rules of international law constitutes a violation of neutral rights."

While the American note does not ask a reply President Wilson told callers to-day he expected one. The President described the American note as not being argumentative but just a statement of the understanding of the United States on the law in the case. Other international questions were not discussed by the President with callers. He refused to make any comment on the Japanese situation, saying the question was so fluid that no definite statement could be made about it.

The President said he was awaiting further information about the case of Leon C. Thrasher, drowned in the sinking of the British ship Falaba by a German submarine before deciding on representations to Germany.

PEGOLD CONTINUES DARING EXPLOITS IN GAME OF WAR

Daring exploit has been added to the long list of those successfully carried out by Adolph Pegold, the famous French aviator, who is reported to have attacked and brought down a German Taube near Saint Meneshold while he was alone on patrol duty April 2. The report of the incident says that when Pegold saw the German approaching he flew rapidly toward the hostile air craft and sent it to earth with a few well-placed shots. Pegold then landed beside the Taube and took prisoner the German pilot and observer, neither of whom was injured.

Earlier in the same day Pegold is reported to have driven off three other German aeroplanes, one of which had dropped nine bombs on a railroad station.

Pegold, who first gained fame in 1913 as the originator of the feat of flying upside down in an aeroplane, was awarded the French military medal early in March for services rendered the army during the war.

The torpedoing of the Italian steamer Luigi Faroldi reported last night, is believed in Genoa to have occurred off the coast of Spain, indicating a considerably increased range of operations for the large submarines such as Germany is now using. Another Italian steamer, the Pina, is overdue at Cardiff by about a month and it is feared she has been torpedoed.
