A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion is nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation, then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases, which inflate the stomach like a top balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we cructate sour, food, belch gas, or have heartburn, flatulence, waterbrash, or nausea.

or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash, or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast while it is effervescing, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive julces.

Jad Salts is inaxpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined vith lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.—Adv.

CLASSIC WAR POEMS

Selected by J. Howard Wert

KING HENRY FIFTH AND THE

HERMIT OF DREUX BY ROBERT SOUTHEY

History repeats itself again and again. Kingly greed and ambition; the lust for power and conquest; the pillage, ruin, devastation, and death that follow in the wake of marching armies; and the retribution that eventually was lay the tyrant low,-all are here pictured in this gem of Southey's, as they h been enacted, again and again, in the past, in the annals of blood-besprinklet Europe. The same drama is being acted to-day on a yet more colossal scale When will sovereigns, drunk with power and insatiate in their demands for blood, learn to heed the lesson taught by the humble hermit?

To Henry's tent a hermit passed;
Their heads the soldiers bent
In silent reverence, or they begged
A blessing as they went:
The king was seated all alone,
The map before him lay;
Fresh conquests he was planning there
To grace the future day.

No. 34.

King Henry lifted up his eyes, The intruder to behold;
With reverence he the hermit saw,
For the holy man was old.
"Repent thee, Henry, of the wrongs
Which thou hust done this land;—
O king! repent in time,—for know
The judgment is at hand.

"I used to see along the stream
The white sail gliding down,
That wafted food, in better times,
To yonder peaceful town.
Henry, I never now behold
The white sail sailing down;
Tenritor disease and doubt, and the Famine, disease, and death, and thou Destroy that wretched town.

"I used to hear the traveler's voice,
As here he passed along;
Or maiden's, as she loitered home,
Singing her evening song.

"I used to see the youths row down,
And watch the dripping oar,
As pleasantly their viol's tones
Came softened to the shore.
King Henry, many a blackened corpse
I now see floating down!—
Thou bloody man! repent in time,
And leave this leagured town." "I shall go on," King Henry cried,
"And conquer this good land;
Seest thou not, hermit, that the Lord
Hath given it to my hand?"
The hermit heard King Henry speak,
And angrily looked down;
His face was gentle, and, for that,
More solemn was his frown.

No traveler's voice may now be heard-

But I have heard the village maid In vain for succor cry.

In fear he hastens by;

"Thou conqueror king, repent in time,
Or dread the coming wo;
For, Henry, thou hast heard the threat,
And soon shall feel the blow!"
King Henry forced a careless smile,
As the hermit went his way;
But Henry soon remembered him
Upon his dying day.
