Lieutenant Sullivan's belief is accepted by the authorities here and there will be no further investigation.

Every Man Read This

This treatment is said to have acquired a wonderful reputation throughout the East, owing to its peculiar propensity to fortify the nerve force and generate health and a consequent personal magnetism, so essential to the happiness of every normal human being. It is claimed to be beneficial to those who are physically impaired, gloomy, despondent, nervous and who have trembling of the limbs, dizziness, heart palpitation, cold hands and feet, insomnia, fever without cause, timidity in venturing and general inability to act rationally as others do. Also of vast benefit to writers, professional men, office workers and the victims of society's late hours and over-indulgence in wines, liquors, etc.

By preparing the treatment at home, secretly, in one need know of another's trouble, while the ingredients are most used in filling various prescriptions, so that even the doctor cadomene, comparatively need occasion no timidity.

If the reader decides to try it, get three ounces of ordinary syrup sarsaparilla compound, and one ounce compound fluid balsam-wort; mix and let stand two hours; then get one ounce compound essence cardoli and one ounce structure cadomene compound (not cardamom), mix all together, shake well and take teaspoonful after each meal and one at night.

Power Plant Struck By Lightning

Carlisle, April 13.—Traffic was temporarily interrupted on the lines of the company and damage amounting to several thousand dollars to the building and equipment was caused, when the generating plant on the Cumberland Railway Company located at Mount Holly Springs was struck by lightning Sunday afternoon but a few hours after the building had been gutted by fire. Repairs have been made temporarily and the plant is again in operation. There is a partial insurance.

WORK FOR THOUSAND MEN

Mills in Pittsburgh and Wheeling, W. Va., Resume Operations

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 13.—Five hundred men were given employment when the puddling and bar mills of the Lockhart Iron and Steel Company were opened yesterday morning. The mills will be operated on double time, or day and night, for five days of the week. Increased orders and reassuring prospects for greater activity in the iron and steel industry have resulted in the determination to add heavily to the company's payroll.

The "Whitaker-Clemons" mill at Wheeling, W. Va., resumed operations yesterday for 500 men, following the action of the Crescent Lodge, Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin workers in agreeing to accept the wage reduction approved by the association officials.

J. DENNY O'NEIL IS ILL

Allegheny County Commissioner is a Leader in Fight for Local Option
Pittsburgh, April 13.—County Commissioner J. Denny O'Neil, chairman of the newly-formed Pennsylvania local option campaign committee, taken suddenly ill aboard a train returning to this city yesterday, had to be helped into an automobile and hurried to his home in McKeesport. It is feared pneumonia may develop.

Mr. O'Neil was to have been in Harrisburg for the reporting out of the local option. He has directed Governor Bumbaugh's fight in the western counties for this measure. His illness may disarrange plans of the "dry" leaders in this end of the State. Within the next few days he was to have come out again for County Commissioner.

Progressive Gets Burgess Plumb

Pottsville, Pa., April 13.—B. J. Yost, a Progressive, was yesterday appointed Chief Burgess of Tamaqua by Judge Koch, as he had more than 700 signatures to his petition, a number much larger than any rival. Yost will succeed Robert H. Harris in the post on a technical charge that borough printing was done in an office in which he was interested.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

SPRING STYLES BECOMING STANDARD

The Long Tunic Appears Slashed and Abbreviated Almost to Apron Effect—Styles for Juniors

New York, April 13.

In April, Spring tendencies begin to crystallize and we are able to surmise what will be standard and what is a mere fad and what is to die.

We now know that the Empire dress has come to stay with us for the Summer at least, and will be worn by the women whose slender, girlish figures will allow of such lines. Others will eschew this type of frock for it is essentially for the youthful figure.

The skirts are full and short, very high shoes being worn to disguise the fact that with the ordinary shoes the dress would be above the shoe-tops. For the street, the skirts are plain and full, being either gathered, or pleated, or placed on a yoke. One smart blue serge skirt was box-pleated at the top, with a slash under every other pleat through which was drawn the patent-leather belt.

linen suits. A very well-cut linen suit in oyster-white was made on Norfolk lines with a belt and very large pockets on the side over the hips. The box-pleats in the coat were duplicated in the box-pleats on the skirt, which, in this case, were pressed down to the hem. In the wool skirts the pleats are often laid in at the top, but are not pressed in.

Braid is also used to give the military effect to jackets or waists with a cut far from military. A dress with a basque-like bodice of dark blue and a plain, full skirt had four heavy braids frogs fastened directly across the front. Narrow braid outlined the lower edge of the waist. The hat worn with this dress was the crowning feature of its militarism. It was black, round and rather shallow, and worn well over the forehead. Directly in front was a cascade of gray, black and red ostrich fronds.

Callot striped and checked taffetas in the sand color and black combinations are extremely smart. One which I liked very much was made with a surplice bodice and a skirt cut bias front and back, with the sides cut on the straight of the material and pleated. A girle of the same material was worn around the waist, ending in the back with a large up-and-down bow of the checked silk.

My first illustration shows the trim tailored lines of an up-to-date shirt waist of sand-colored chiffon and a trim black skirt. The belt, which is noticeable for the placing of its pockets, is of pique and clasps in the front with pearl button-clasps.

The separate waist and skirt are holding a strong place in the wardrobe of the woman of today. The waists are usually trim and tailored in their lines, and the skirt should be short and flaring around the lower edge, while the shoes of sand, gray, black, or tan should lace up the side instead of the front.

Large white linen or pique collars, with cuffs to match, are charming worn over the simple waist of gray or black, giving the effect of a Puritan or a Quaker costume. Gray taffeta is used for one dress, with a skirt tucked in large tucks in the back; while the front, which commences at the hips, is perfectly plain. The full waist is topped with a large unstarched linen collar, and the long, close-fitting sleeves has gauntlets to match the collar.

Some waists are made with a square or oval opening in front—something like the shape of a man's shirt bosom, only not so deep. A tucked or pleated front of white organdy, with a round collar fitting neatly over the back, is used for a chemisette in these waists.

The military effect is to be seen in

An Up-to-Date Separate Waist, Belt, and Skirt

The long tunic has not disappeared, for on some of the most up-to-date suits they are worn. These tunics are so long, however, that it is but an inch or so of the underskirt that is seen beneath. Sometimes the tunic is shorter in front than in the back and the lower skirt may be of a contrasting material. Such a skirt I saw recently of black taffeta and black-and-white striped taffeta. The waist worn with this skirt was made with a black collar lined with the striped material and flaring so that the black and white formed a decided trimming feature of the waist.

Other tunics are slashed up the side and give almost an apron effect front and back. Again, the tunic shrinks to a mere apron in front, which may have rounded corners and be edged with a narrow, fluted ruffle of the same material.

In my illustration is to be seen a checked taffeta dress, which is made with the up-to-date tunic skirt. The check is in gray and black, and white with a touch of sand is used for the body of the waist and for the tunic or overskirt. The vest of the waist and the underskirt are of gray taffeta. A cunning little hat is worn with this dress, and is strictly tailored in its simplicity and extremely smart.

Suits are very smart which have a covert jacket and a skirt of black covert, the connecting link between coat and skirt being a black collar on the coat.

The military effect is to be seen in

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take a Glass of Salts If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers—Meat Forms Uric Acid

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush of the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—Adv.

His 'Junior Partner' Entered

Littleman was telling the young bachelors at a recent affair uptown just how to manage a wife.

"When you young fellows are married, you must take the upper hand at once," he said. "No weakness, no sentiment! Make your wife understand that, though you love her and so forth, she is the junior partner. If necessary, resort to the effective methods of our cavemen ancestors—use the heavy hand! Put his nose to the domestic grindstone. Why, when I speak to my wife—"

The War in a Nutshell

You can hardly put a foot outside your own door without finding some one who is sacrificing something. Yesterday to the collecting station organized by the Lyceum club came a woman with a man's overcoat. Put it down. It was a fine coat. "For some man," she said firmly. "It was my son's. And he's been killed." So the soulless widow walked away tearless.—London Chronicle.

AGAIN STUFFED ELK IS STOLEN

Animal Recently In Harrisburg Lodge Room Is Now In Pittsburgh

Once more has that 800-pound elk been stolen, this time from the Oil City Elk home, and it now reposes in the Elk home at Pittsburgh.

When the Harrisburg Elks made way with the stuffed animal from the Reading lodge, it was predicted that it would not remain in this city very long, and such proved to be the fact as the Oil City Elks, sojourning temporarily in Harrisburg, swiped it one morning about 3 o'clock and sent it to Oil City.

A number of members of the Pittsburgh lodge of Elks heard of the travels of the animal, and decided that it ought to journey south. Last Wednesday night the new officers of the Oil City lodge were installed, one of them being Montgomery Parks as exalted ruler. Mr. Parks is clerk to a Senate committee and was one of those who purchased the elk from Reading.

No sooner were the ceremonies attendant upon the installation of the Oil City officers ended than a party of Pittsburgh Elks pounced down upon the Elk home after midnight, stole it and sent it to Pittsburgh, where it will remain until some other band of midnight marauders gets it away.

That elk is sure "going home."
