YELLOW FLOWERS WILL AID IN SUFFRAGE FIGHT
Supporters of "Votes for Women" Plan an Interesting Campaign and Will Use No Other Color Scheme in Their Decorations

Decorators, florists and hostesses of the city will be kept unusually busy in the future devising new and attractive decorative schemes, table appointments for their dinners, teas, dances and receptions where everything must be yellow, and the pretty bright shade of yellow which the suffragists have declared to be the official suffrage color.

Outdoors suffrage gardens of yellow flowers will supply most of the color, indoors the same color scheme will be carried out at all social functions given by supporters of "votes for women."

This decision was reached yesterday at a meeting of the flower committee, an auxiliary of the Committee of Fifty, which was held at the home of Mrs. Frank A. Smith, 1908 North Second street.

Packages of seeds, containing six different kinds of yellow flower seeds, have been prepared in convenient form by the Pennsylvania Woman Suffrage Association and will be placed on sale in different stores. The packages of seeds are now on sale at State suffrage headquarters and they may also be obtained from members of the flower committee. On the flower committee are the following local women:

ELKS TO HOLD JITNEY DANCE
Social Committee Plan Another Novel Social Affair Which Will Be Held Tuesday Evening

The social committee of Harrisburg Lodge of Elks planned an innovation in the form of a "jitney dance" which will be held at the club home, on North Second street, Tuesday evening, April 20.

The dance will be held in the social room of the club and the jitney service for dancers will be enforced from the time the orchestra begins to play, hence the preparation of the sign, "one dance, one jitney" which will be placed above the ball room door.

The social committee have planned many novel dances and entertainments that have been held at the Elks' home in the past but the "jitney dance" bids fair to outshine all past efforts.

TENDENCIES OF STYLES
Suggestions for the Spring Trousseau—Fashion Demands the Proper Fit

New York, April 17. April, with apple blossoms and arbutus and the fresh green of the first leaves of Spring, has become the bride's month. If not the month of weddings, at least the month when the fascinating garments for the trousseau are displayed.

A traveling costume which I saw not long ago was shown with all the things necessary for a trip across the continent or for European travel. The suit was of a very finely-twilled gray covert cloth, a fabric which is both stylish and serviceable. The jacket, made with raglan sleeves, had a back slightly fitted and flaring below the waistline.

The front was the unusual and distinctive feature of the jacket. It might be called surprise, for the right-front buttoned with cloth buttons diagonally over the left side, and at the waistline it was extended into a tab, which buttoned again beneath the arms. Braid was used at the sides, on the back and on the sleeves. The collar was a round affair which reached around the back and the sides, with the rounding part in the front. The plain skirt, in two pieces, had the front cut with an extended tab to correspond with the tab on the jacket.

A Rose Colored Linen With the New Smart Bolero and the Flaring, Pleated Skirt

With this suit was shown a trim little turban of straw the same color as the suit, but with gay double wings of rose color placed directly on top of the hat. These divided so that one of the wings went on one side and one on the other. A pair of high gray kid shoes that laced up the side instead of up the front and had narrow black patent leather tips was displayed to go with this costume.

Batiste and handkerchief linen with inch-wide stripes of blue, gray, lavender, green, pink, or yellow and white are extensively used for tailored shirt waists and are a decidedly smart innovation after the vogue for plain colors. Therefore, the bride may select one, or two, of these striped waists to go with her traveling suit unless a plain colored voile, crepe de Chine, or chiffon would be more useful. These are also smart and often more serviceable.

A very stylish linen suit for the bride, or for others who are adding to their wardrobe, may be seen in the illustration. Rose-colored linen is the material from which the suit is fashioned. These new, long-sleeved bolero jackets are often closed only at the collar and a button or two below the neck-line, from which point they flare open in the approved manner. Beneath the jacket one glimpses a dainty blouse of sheer linen, which hangs free. The skirt, pleated and attached at the waist and hips, is made with wide tucks at the bottom. A sailor hat with simple trimming is the accompaniment of this costume.

A frock which will be a standby in any woman's wardrobe is of sand-colored twilled taffeta. The bodice is full, with a high white organdy collar, which opens and flares in the front; this gives it the name of the Henry Clay collar. The sleeves are set in and rather full, having wide cuffs flaring over the hands. The many-gored skirt is very plain, but bears the earmarks of the latest cut.

An evening dress is made of changeable green taffeta, with a bodice rounded low, in front and back, and edged with a pleated fringe of fringed taffeta. Following the line of the neck are several buttonholed slits, through which is drawn a lavender ribbon. This ties in the front in a large lover's knot, is invisibly tacked to the waist and has the ends finished with tassels of flowers, which hang free. The taffeta skirt slashed to the waistline on one side over a chiffon underskirt, is edged all the way around with black, while through the slashes, a few inches above the bottom, are tucked in.

RECIPE TO CLEAR A PIMPLY SKIN

Pimples Are Impurities Seeking An Outlet Through Skin Pores

Pimples, sores and boils usually result from toxins, and impurities which are generated in the bowels and then absorbed into the blood through the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body.

It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and cast them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the bowels create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate, then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Epsom Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of hot water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels. It also stimulates the kidneys to normal activity, thus coaxing them to filter the blood of impurities and clearing the skin of pimples.

Epsom Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink which usually makes pimples disappear; cleanses the blood and is excellent for the kidneys as well.—Adv.

tom, is drawn lavender ribbon, which ends on either side of the slash with a large bow-knot and flower-tasseled ends. For afternoon frocks, very large polka dots are very smart and new. Cream, white, and ecru, dotted with red, green, blue, or lavender dots are seen. These dots are widely spread and sometimes are as large as a dollar.

A striking costume is made with a blue polka-dotted skirt with fullness held in at the waistline, trimmed with two scant ruffles on the lower edge. A waist in Eton effect is of plain ecru silk, matching in color the background of the polka-dotted material. A natural-colored leghorn hat, trimmed with blue velvet ribbon and pink roses, is worn with this dress.

A simple dress of striped linen is shown in the second illustration with a V-shaped front, filled in with an organdy vest and collar. The bell sleeves are faced back with white organdy, and the sleeve turned up a trifle to give a cuff effect. The full skirt is pleated at the waist without the pleats being pressed in at the lower edge. A hat in semi-poke-bonnet effect goes with the dress charmingly.

The collar-and-cuff sets are very useful to wear with simple frocks, and many a dress not quite up-to-date can be made so with the addition of one of these sets, in linen, organdy or Georgetown crepe. The material and the type of collar-and-cuff set to be appropriate depend on the style of the dress.

An Effective Striped Linen, With Organdy Vest and the New Bell Sleeves, Showing the Turned Back Cuff

Very fashionable is a wide Colonial collar, with gauntlet cuffs to match. A Henry Clay set is made of stiffened voile or organdy, flaring up about the chin, with points turned over a trifle in front. The cuffs to accompany this collar are cut to flare top and bottom.

The ribbon accessories which are worn this year are unusually attractive. Very wide ribbon is fashioned into belts about eight or nine inches wide, having tiny pockets on either side of the front. Girdles are made of wide ribbon, with narrow ribbon pleated and placed all around the edges. Another very handsome girdle was corded five times and finished at the top with a fringe of the ribbon. Still another girdle of large figured ribbon in shades of pink and white was edged around with a narrow black velvet ribbon. Down the center of the front the ribbon was placed back and forth, crossing each other as though it were a lacing. Another basque-like girdle has straps over the shoulder and is made to come to a point in front, where the closing is finished with eyelets and laced.

LOTS READY FOR PLANTING

Technical High School Seniors Lay Out Benevolent Association's Garden No. 1

Thirty-seven lots, to be assigned early next week to families making application to the Harrisburg Benevolent Association, are today ready for planting. They comprise Workers' Garden No. 1 at Thirteenth street near Sycamore. The second garden is now being played at Twelfth and Calder streets.

Seven Technical High school seniors yesterday afternoon surveyed Garden No. 1 and are making a blue print of it. They laid it out into lots 25 by 100 feet. The boys worked under the direction of Professor Wolf of the Technical faculty.

John E. Dare and J. B. Montgomery each contributed the services of a team of horses and a driver, while D. M. Shearer, of Sycamore street, gave the use of the necessary implements, with the result that the more than four-acre plot was speedily brought into condition for planting.

LEGAL FALLACIES

Ancient Superstitions That Tenaciously Cling to Life
On the subject of "Some Popular Legal Superstitions," Case and Comment says that there are many misconceptions of legal doctrines, usually tenaciously held and sometimes rashly acted upon to the client's undoing, some of which are so grotesquely distorted that it is difficult to trace them to their origin. One of the most widely spread, but fortunately harmless of these is that in order that a will disinheriting an heir may be valid he must be "cut off with a shilling." This notion is erroneous, but Blackstone finds a foundation for it in the civil law and says:

"The Romans were also wont to set aside testaments as being inefficient, deficient in natural duty, if they disinherited or totally passed by (without assigning a true, sufficient reason) any of the children of the testator. But if the child had any legacy, though ever so small, it was proof that the testator had not lost his memory or reason, which otherwise the law presumed, but was then presumed to have acted thus from substantial cause. Hence, probably has arisen that groundless vulgar error of the necessity of leaving an heir a shilling or some other express legacy, in order to disinherit him effectually."

Another erroneous idea, quite generally entertained is that a signature is not binding unless written in ink. Still another curious notion entertained in some localities is that an eye witness may not testify to any occurrence seen by him "through glass." This is probably attributable to the fact that the imperfections of ancient window glass might deceive the on-looker as to what actually took place. The writer recalls an instance where the writer recalls an instance while lecturing on the refraction of light of a window pane in his house through which passersby on the opposite side of the square appeared on coming opposite to a church, to leap over the steeple. A condition this sort brought out on cross-examination used to effect the weight though not the admissibility of the evidence.

Witness My Hand
In the early days only a few scholars knew how to write. It was then customary to sign a document by smearing the hand with ink and impressing it upon the paper, accompanied by the words, "Witness my hand." Afterward the seal was introduced as a substitute for the hand mark and was used with the words above quoted, the two forming the signature. This is the origin of the expression as used in modern documents.
