

As the Season Advances, Smart Plaids Continue to Gain Favor

Designers of the flourishing checks and plaids are mighty popular fellows nowadays whether they know it or not.

But to draw a "dead line" between the host of patterns that are contesting popularity would be a difficult task; for it seems inspirations have been unusual this season in producing smart and snappy effects.

The result is a surprising variety of choice designs.

Well represented here in clothes of quality; and from—

Two More Days to Take Advantage of Stock-Reducing Prices

This is a great 4-Day event in which every department is endeavoring to clear out a certain portion of merchandise before rebuilding operations commence.

It is then stocks must be somewhat condensed to afford sufficient selling space and we've availed ourselves of this opportunity to dispose of such lots that will not materially affect the assortments.

Take a trip to this store to-morrow; for many bargain surprises will greet you.

If Ever a Sale Was Welcomed, It Was This Sale of Turkish Towels and Face Cloths

A number of improvements will be made at the Masonic Home during the coming season. A vegetable garden of 5 1/2 acres will be laid out and the entire tract will be irrigated by the Skinner system. Already 250 poles have been placed equidistant over the tract and over the top of these run perforated water pipes, which, when the water is turned on, will throw a spray 35 feet in every direction. The cemetery is being put in very attractive condition according to the architect's plans, with hedge surrounding and markers for the graves. An apple orchard of 1,400 trees is being planted. One hundred paragon chestnut trees donated by Col. C. K. Sober, of Lewistown, Pa., were also planted. There are 1,000 Japan Barberry hedge plants and a grove of sixty beech trees, nine varieties, all of which were donated by the late W. U. Hensel. A double row of Chinese ginkgo trees have been planted opposite the rear of the Grand Lodge hall to line the two sides of the future street of the village.

Plant Schell's "Quality" Seed in the Home Garden

It pays to plant Schell's "Quality" seed in the home garden, if you want vegetables that you will want to put on your table.
My seed is the highest quality procurable, insuring high productivity and perfect crops. I have "Everything for the Garden," but here are a few planting suggestions:

Carrots

Danvers Half-Long—Rich, orange red roots; smooth and handsome; tapering to a blunt point; flesh sweet and crisp.
Chattanooga—Half-long, stump-rooted; carrot; smooth; rich orange color; best quality.
Improved Long Orange—Longer than either of the above, and tapering to a sharp point.

Parsnips

Improved Hollow Crown—Popular variety; highest quality; in high favor with all growers.
Maitese—A new snow-white parsnip; very fine.

Walter S. Schell
