Russian Orchestra With Choral Society
Although Harrisburg has had many treats in almost every line of activity, the spring music festival of the Harrisburg Choral Society in the Majestic theatre on Thursday, April 29, will be one of the best, if not the best, the city has ever had musically. The famous Russian Symphony orchestra of New York, with Mr. Modest Altschuler as conductor, will arrive on the morning of April 29; will give a symphony concert at the Majestic theatre in the afternoon and assist the Harrisburg Choral Society at the evening concert. The orchestra and soloists are making a tour of Central Pennsylvania, playing in Allentown, York, Harrisburg and other cities. The orchestra is on tour west and it was only through the most exceptional circumstances that it was possible to get the services of this famous orchestra. Last year when this orchestra was here it won unstinted praise from the audience and press and Mr. Altschuler assures the officers of the Choral Society that his orchestra is better this year than ever before.

Crowded houses greeted the Choral Society last year and it is safe to assume the same conditions will prevail this year. The demand for tickets is as large, if not larger, than last year, and the applications already received from out of town applicants indicate a wide spread interest. It is suggested that those who contemplate attending the concert should give the matter their early attention and secure tickets from the members now.

CHRISTENING OF BABY BY THE REV. C. DOUROPOULOS

Little Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Coloviras Christened in Faith of Orthodox Greek Church—Ceremony Solemnized at 4 O'clock

MARY G. COLOVIRAS

An unusual and impressive ceremony was solemnized this afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Coloviras, 1908 Market street, when their little daughter, Mary G. Coloviras, was christened in the faith of the Orthodox Greek Church in the presence of almost one hundred guests from this city, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Altoona and Philadelphia and other parts of the State.

The service took place at 4 o'clock, with the Rev. Dr. C. Douropoulos, of the Orthodox Greek Church, of Pittsburgh, officiating. According to the rules of the church, the little one was immersed and then given in charge of her mother, who took the baby and clothed it in dainty white garments that had never been worn before and which were a part of the complete outfit presented to her by her godfather, Harry J. Coloviras, an uncle, of Baltimore.

Following the christening, dinner was served, during which the godfather pinned upon each guest a sacred emblem of gold as a christening favor. Only three times before has a ceremony of this kind been performed in this city, as there are very few Orthodox Greek families residing here.

"Fragrant spring blossoms in a dainty color scheme of yellow and pink decorated the rooms and the refreshment tables."

Will Hold Orange Social

YOUNG FLIM-FLAMMER TO HAVE NEW HEARING

Man Who Victimized Harrisburg Merchants Has Another Chance for Liberty—Pardon Denied to Murderer Who Trained a Sparrow

David Kaufman, the young flim-flammer from New York, who, with a companion, victimized several Harrisburg merchants in the summer of 1913, the result being that both were sent to the penitentiary, yesterday obtained from the Board of Pardons another chance to get free. Kaufman's companion, Michael Peters, was pardoned last fall. Last January Kaufman applied for a pardon but the Board yesterday decided to give it to him. His case will be heard next May.

Alfred Rudy, of Lebanon county, who since October, 1913, has been serving a term for arson, failed to obtain a pardon. E. M. Abbott, a Philadelphia attorney, who appeared for Rudy, also represented Samuel Dent, of Cumberland, who since 1909, has been serving under a thirty-year sentence in the pen for robbery, but the Board declined to set Dent free.

Calogero Strazzieri, an Italian who murdered a man in Reading and was sentenced to the pen for fifteen years, failed to get a pardon. Strazzieri is the prisoner who tamed an English sparrow in his cell in the Reading jail and afterward took the bird with him to the Eastern penitentiary where it died, causing him much grief. His attorney made much of this story in his plea for clemency, but the Board listened to District Attorney Heintz, of Berks, who opposed the pardon, and declined to recommend clemency for the murderer.

WEALTH HIS IF HE WEDS

At Least So He Said and Then Borrowed From Women He Met

Portland, Ore., April 22.—Spurious letters indicating he had fallen heir to a quarter of a million dollars on condition that he be married by June 20 were used by Webster A. Waugh, alias N. W. Neely, in profitable wooing, according to several women who say he obtained from them cash advances in various sums. Their complaints resulting in the arrest of Waugh. He is held on a minor charge pending investigation of the complaints of four women.

The police say Waugh has confessed he wrote the "fortune letters" as an aid in the wooing he has under way. "A telegram found on Waugh said: 'Uncle Paul is dead. One-half of estate of $250,000 is yours provided you marry and call it St. Francis hotel, San Francisco, on June 20, 1915. Should you have had no children, two-thirds of your portion goes to Herman.'

The telegram was signed "E. E. Schomover, Chicago," as were two letters found on Waugh, which pretended to prove him for his reluctance to marry and advised haste.

The Portland women from whom Waugh had obtained money are reluctant to prosecute.

DUKE WEDDING CARDS LOST

Uncle Sam Excites Prospective Guests of the Biddles

Philadelphia, April 22.—Hundreds of prominent persons who had anticipated being invited to the wedding of Miss Cordelia Biddle to Angier Buchanan a Duke, of New York, which will take place here next Wednesday, were disappointed yesterday when no invitations were received. A formal announcement from Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Drexel Biddle relieved the anxiety. It said that the invitations had been mailed April 2, but that a great number of them had been lost in the Philadelphia post.

More than 1,000 of the invitations, which numbered several thousand, went astray this way.

Falls 50 Feet, but Isn't Hurt

York, Pa., April 22.—Michael Ulrich, a carpenter, employed in making improvements at the York Haven paper mill, fell fifty feet from a brick tower and was injured in his back when he was precipitated to the ground. In his fall he struck a ladder, breaking it and further down hit a plank. He was picked up in a dazed condition, but an examination failed to reveal any injuries.

Lafayette to Have $90,000 Chapel
Easton, April 22.—The contract for the building of a new $90,000 chapel at Lafayette college, was awarded yesterday to H. L. Hoover & Son, Philadelphia. The chapel will be after the style of the colonial churches of New England, and will be in the form of a Greek cross. It will occupy a central location on the campus. The work is to be finished March 31, 1916. The design for the building was drawn by Carerre & Hastings, of New York City.
