You will note by the illustration that all are popular shapes and convenient sizes.

The fine walrus grain (Indian goat) and pin seal leathers are also favorites.

But the remarkable feature about "Security Lock" bags is the strong little lever that "locks" the catch, preventing it from opening accidentally.

If you've been among the unfortunate number who have experienced that annoyance, you'll readily see the importance of such a feature.

Being a patent, it appears only on "Security Lock" bags.

These bags are well lined; having two to four fittings.
