One More Reason Why Peas Are a Healthful Food

One noted writer on food values says: "Everytime we eat peas we eat the "bran" of the pea and it is well that we eat these things, because while they are not digested in themselves, they surrender to the body the invaluable mineral salts which they contain."

published.

This wonderful book, profusely illustrated and with actual photographs of war seenes taken right on the firing line and embellished with color-plate pietures from well-known artists on the ground, starts its account with the fundamentals of the great struggle and brings the story of the first six months' fighting (the most important months) down to the latest minute. It deals with facts; it is unbiased; it can be read by the man or woman of any naead by the man or woman of any na-ionality with profit and without mis-tivings such as are inspired by speculacivings such as are inspired by specura-tive reports.

The compilation of this exceptional work required the combined efforts of a large staff of foreign contributors, as well as American artists, reporters and photographers, and much of the material was secured within sound of the great guns. Photographs taken during battles by intrepid camera men e reproduced here in their true un-uched state. Never before in the touched state. Never before in the history of literature has such a comprehensive report of a difficult subject been so compactly gathered and under such difficulties of threatened censorship, confinement and even personal peril rarely equaled.

APPLE BEST SHADE TREES

State Zoologist Surface Makes Sugges tion to Cambria County Citizen

A popular-spirited citizen in Portage, Cambria county, wrote to State Zoolotended to plant shade trees in the vaeant lots in the borough so that the children would have shade in their playshould plant. In accordance with the practical suggestions offered by Governor Brumbaugh in his Arbor Day mes sage, Professor Surface replied that the best possible trees for the purpose would be different varieties of apple trees. He said these would be beautiful, make shade, and at the same time produce fruit. As there were two hundred trees to be planted he recommended a list that would ripen fruit in succession, including ten different varieties, and twenty trees of each kind. This list was as follows:

Yellow Transparent, Early Harvest, Sweet Bough, Summer Rambo, Duchess, Delicious, Tolman Sweet, Winter Sweet Paradise, Grimes Golden and Stayman Winesap. trees. He said these would be beautiful, Winesap.

The members of the School Board at Portage at once took up the subject with the correspondent, and the trees were ordered and paid for by the gentleman who had opened the correspondence. Plans are completed for a public demonstration of planting and pruning and indeed for a close co-operation of the teachers, parents and pupils and the Department of Agriculture, represented by the Division of Zoology in all the demonstration and practical work necessary for the proper growth of these trees. This develops the proper spirit and attitude toward Nature, nature study and agriculture, as the children will have an opportunity to see the fruit grow, and gather it and use it without trespass signs forbidding their enjoyment of these natural productions. A great number of sweet varieties of apples was included in the list, as these especially will feed the birds as well Plans are completed for a public especially will feed the birds as well as the children. These trees are being as the children. These trees are osing grown for public service, and thousands of persons will be interested in this venture, which is the beginning of the practical utility of fruit trees for shade and ornamental purposes as well as for fruits.

Donald Brien looks as if life was all beer and skittles, as he nimbly dances his inimitable numbers in the same company, but he, likewise, can tell a tale of hardships and efforts that seemed unavailing. He could relate that he answered the strident call of "cash" in a Boston department store "cash" in a Boston department store as a boy, but that he found time to sing in the famous Boy Choir of the Gate of Heaven church, and thus secured valuable vocal training. He remembers well his first theatrical experience as one of the Boston City Quartet, and later how he acted valiantly in a piece called "Shannon of the Sixth" with it found its way to the store. until it found its way to the store-house. After many rebuffs at the hands of managers, Mr. Brian might inform of managers, Mr. Brian might inform you that George M. Cohan gave him a chance in "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," and then came his big opportunity when he was awarded the role of Prince Danilo in the never-to-beforgotten. "Merry Widow." "Diplomacy" is unquestionably one of the most fascinating dramas ever staged. Of the original cast presenting Sardou's "Diplomacy" in this country at Wallack's Theatre, New York, in 1878, the only player now actively before the public is Rose Coghlan, who was the first American actress to essay the role of the Countess Zicka. In Charles Frohman's present revival of the famous drama Blanche Bates appears as Countess Zicka and naedless to say gives a brilliant and finished impersonation. Her co-stars, William Gillette and Marie Doro, playing Henri Beauclere and Dora respectively, are likewise admirably suited with striking parts of equal importance. The tri-star alliance was one of Charles' Frohman's achievements upon which of Charles Frohman's managerial achievements upon which he may well pride himself. It must have taken no little "diplomacy" on Mr. Frohman's part to bring together three stars of the magnitude of Gillette, Bates and Doro.—Adv. "

This great feature was taken from the story written by the track Armen and the control of the control great feature was taken from the story written by that great American writer and Ambassador to Italy, Thomas Nelson Page. It is a play of excitement and thrill—humor and pathos—that strikes every note in the scale of human emotions. The heroine is a girl of the slums—by environment—but she finally comes into her own and realizes her dream of a life in the open far away from the city's streets. There is a wonderful court room seene in which "The Outcast" is on trial for murder and is saved from the severity of a hard-hearted Judge, who turns out to be her father. There is also a true-to-life cabaret seene, in which the heroine plays the part of a dancing girl.

reeis, will be repeated to-day. In addition to the big production, "Miser's Legacy," Biograph drama, "Aunt Mary," Selig drama, "Mr. Jarr Takes a Night Off," Vitagraph comedy, will be shown. To-morrow and Thursday a drama of romantic youth, "Young Romance," with Edith Taliaferro, will be the attraction.

To-day will, be the last time that the big Marie Doro picture will be shown in this city. It is a Paramount feature and cannot be shown in any other theatre. Miss Doro is well known here and has appeared in some famous plays here as the star. Although "The Morals of Marcus" is her first adventure on the screen her artistic acting is not lacking and she gives every indication of having been in the moving picture world for years.—Adv. *

Songbirds at Colonial

Songbirds at Colonial

Al White's Six Songbirds began a three-day engagement at the Colonial theatre yesterday and scored an immediate hit. These are six juvenile performers, three boys and three girls, and all of them singers with voices that compel their audiences to call them back and back. It is a long time since any act has gone as well as this one did at yesterday's performances. There are three other acts on the bill also, rounding out an interesting show. To morrow and Thursday the Colonial will present a moving picture of the ill-fated Lusitania starting out from New York on its final voyage across the Atlantic. This picture was made as result of the rumors and warnings alloat before its departure that danger lurked in its course. The film is of exceptional interest because it shows the passengers going aboard, none of them fearing the fate that was meted out to them before they reached the other side. Many of those who have been reported lost can be seen in the picture.—Adv.*

SHORT AND SOUTH STREETS

Pfaffiin for a long time lived near Palmyra, but years aço removed to Harrisburg to be near his daughter, Mrs. Balsbaugh, who resided at Green and Forster streets. Several years ago, owing to declining health, he went to the Pacific coast, taking up his residence ih Los Angeles. Mr. und Mrs. Balsbaugh joined him there about two years ago and were with him at the time of his death.
