Gillette-Bates-Doro
A triumvirate of stars—William Gillette, Blanche Bates and Marie Doro—will make the revival of Victorien Sardou's masterpiece, "Diplomacy," at the Majestic Wednesday evening a notable event in the year's dramatic calendar.

Charles Frohman, under whose direction the important revival is made, must have exercised uncommon managerial "diplomacy" himself in bringing together so notable a trio of famous stars for the interpretation of the Sardou masterpiece. "Diplomacy" comes here direct from long runs in New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago, where this revival has delighted the present generation of theatergoers who have never had an opportunity of seeing the celebrated Sardou play before.—Adv.

This Man Grows While You Wait
Willard, the man who grows, came to Harrisburg to-day to begin a three-day engagement at the Colonial theatre. Willard is called the man who grows because he walks out on the stage rather dwarfed in size and before the eyes of his audience begins to grow. When he leaves the stage he has reached the height of 6 feet 6 inches. Willard's act has attracted attention all over the world. He has exhibited his wonderful power of growing in almost every country, and down to the present time no one has ever been able to explain how it is possible for him to stretch out the way he does. There are three good acts on the same bill, all new to this city.—Adv.

Photoplay To-day "After the Ball"
A little maiden climbed an old man's knee. Begged for a story, do, Uncle please, Why are you single? Why live alone! Have you no babies? Have you no home?

The story he tells this maiden makes a society drama and thrill filled melodrama. Supplementary to the main action in "After the Ball," is an underworld story containing thrilling moments. There is a hand-over-hand clothesline escape from a house besieged by the police; there is a 50-foot jump of Barney McPhee from a bridge into the water, there is a pursuit of a train by a motormounted policeman, who jumps from his machine to the rear platform, only to lose his quarry when there is a jump into the river below as the train passes over a bridge and one of the greatest race track scenes ever shown on the screen. The scene dissolves back to the little child with her arms around her Uncle John, who murmured:

That's why I'm lonely,
No home at all,
I broke her heart, pet,
After the Ball.
