It reduces all kinds of enlarged glands, goitres and wens and is used exclusively in many large factories as an unfailing first aid to the injured anti-septic. Any druggist can supply you.—Adv.

Ignores Kansas City Protest
Chicago, May 21.—President Gilmore yesterday announced he had ruled against the Kansas City Federals in their protest based on the charge that Catcher Land had interfered with the batter in Monday's game with Brooklyn. The president was assured by the umpires that there was no ground for the protest. This was the second protest of the season involving the Brooklyn club, the other, made by Buffalo, also being decided in favor of the Ward team.

"DEAD" HUSBAND COMES HOME

Surprises 'Widow' and Son and Finds His 'Ashes' On Mantel
New York, May 21.—Dressed in black and still mourning her husband, Mrs. Emma Koster sat last night in her home, Ridgewood, Queens, with her 16-year-old son. The husband had disappeared strangely. A few days later Mrs. Koster was notified that he had died at the city farm on Staten Island. She identified the body and a sweater Koster had worn by a patch she had put on it. The body was cremated, the ashes placed in an urn which stood on her mantelpiece, and the widow collected $610 life insurance. Mother and son were talking, when the door opened and in walked Koster. He said he had been out west on a trip. When Mrs. Koster was asked if her husband would remain at home, she said: "He certainly will." Asked if she would keep the ashes of the unknown man, she replied: "I mean to keep them, too."

COATEES A NEW FEATURE IN LINGERIE DRESSES

Net and Batiste in Filmy Frocks Beneath Silk, Lace and Embroidered Jackets, Cut in Zouave and Bolero Fashion—Black and White Effects

New York, May 21.
Nowhere is the American idea of directness more strongly felt than in clothes. Paris offers a wealth of ideas and America selects one. After weeks of hesitation, while the popularity of one style or another in the priceless collection received after a perilous trip across the Atlantic, quakes in the balance, the American public, at last, places emphasis on one chosen feature and the coatee dress becomes universal; not a tailored creation as the name implies, but a sheer confection of lace, net or batiste, topped with a gay silk or lingerie jacket.
So cavalier have fashions become, they carry us back to the Cromwellian era. Like spirits of the old French empire, society in lingerie dresses trips across the velvety lawns or lollers in old rose gardens. The other day, I chanced upon a party enjoying tea in the far corner of a green lawn under the shade of a mulberry tree; the black wicker furniture, upholstered in broad stripes, strewn with apple blossoms, was as striking in effect as the frocks the girls wore.

A vivacious dark-eyed Miss, who served tea at the glass-topped table, carried off well the style of the smart coatee in a frock that bespoke the couturier Jenny. The bodice of allover embroidery, nipped in at the waist as fashion approves, showed from beneath the jaunty jacket of dark blue taffeta silk. The Quakerish collar and cuffs of white organdy made a connecting link with the billowing folds of organdy, laid in deep crosswise folds, paneled with embroidery and trimmed with Valenciennes lace, which formed the skirt.
That she was a devotee to the fad of fancy shoes, one could easily guess, for her pumps were the last word in style; the heel, back and vamp was of patent leather and the uppers of white kid to match the white silk stockings. Beside the low chair, a garden hat carelessly dropped, glistened in the sun, for it was one of the new dark blue shiny straws. The crown was circled with tulle with pearl lilies beneath and, like all other broad-brimmed garden hats, it had black velvet streamers attached to the back; these sprawled on the grass as if they were tired of their voyage through the wind.

The guest of honor, an artist of fame who is making the best of war-enforced exile, was a credit to the maker of the clothes she wore; what could be smarter for a woman passed thirty than a symphony in black and white? Again the coatee was the chief detail of the costume; this time it was a short Zouave jacket of exquisite batiste, heavily embroidered. It opened as she lounged in her chair, showing a waist of plain batiste. Flouncing, repeated in the sleeves and skirt yoke, and a lower skirt of plain batiste, cut circular that it might flare the more, needed only the black and white, blazer striped, girdle to bring out its style, so perfectly was every detail worked out.
The skirt cleared the ground by about four inches; mature women have all adopted this length as more becoming than the extremely short skirt. Below the skirt a trim white buckskin lace in black could be seen. Her white Milan straw, medium in size, with brim flaring just enough to soften her face, sported a bow of the blazer striped silk and her slender-handled parasol, resting open on

Hats, too, conform to the new lines in dress. Large French sailors, tilted on one side, daily grow in favor; satin and chiffon facings are being used on the top of the brim and sides of the crown. One smart black sailor has the

BURY THE SLAYER AND SLAIN
Suicide Husband and Wife He Killed Laid Side By Side
Cambridge, Md., May 21.—The burial of J. Ernals Beckwith and his wife, both of whom died in the double tragedy of Monday night, when he shot a bullet through his wife's brain and later committed suicide, took place yesterday afternoon at the Beckwith home at Cornersville.
The bodies were buried side by side in the Beckwith cemetery, at Todd's Point, a large crowd attended the services.

crowns covered with silk beaver and a single flower embroidered on net applied on to one side. A smoothly polished liere straw of "nigger-brown" has large detached roses, and another Marguerites and velvet streamer tacked in the back, while white Milan snailers show ropes of white beads around the crowns with a single beaded flower directly in front. For those who do not like the sailors with light dresses, there are dainty creations with plumed tulle brims and all-lace hats trimmed with roses, lilies and the like.
It would seem the whole manufacturing world had been busy, of late, digging up styles of the past century. That the glove maker has succeeded is evident in the lace gait he now offers for sale, along with the white and colored kid gloves embroidered in chain stitch.
As yet, parasols hold to the large sizes, in the immediate present the flat many-ribbed Japanese parasols of printed crepe, silk and paper being popular. Net parasols are also shown over batiste foundations, embroidered in chain stitch and band of ribbon.
Not a detail in the whole costume, has Dame Fashion slighted. Stockings are in every hue of the rainbow, embroidered, with insets of lace and smart black and white effect, the prettiest white silk with butterflies embroidered in black outlines and clocks at the sides of black flowers. So extreme have the stockings become, that some well-dressed women are going back to pure black, especially with the white dresses, as they claim the contrast is more striking.
The white buckskin or black patent leather and white kid tie or pump is favored with the lingerie dress, although such combinations as white buckskin and pale blue or pink uppers are shown in fancy models. One pump in particular has the pale blue upper and an American shield in pastel shades placed in front where the buckle belongs.

ON THE BORDERS OF FRANCE AND FLANDERS

"OH, YES MONSIEUR, THERE IS A CAMP DOWN NEAR THE RIVER, JUST BEYOND THE WOOD" © BY H. Y. HEROLD
The two French soldiers shown in the drawing have strayed from their road and have stopped to ask some information from the little boy, who is pointing out the position of the troops. By the side of the road is a peasant woman with her market cart, drawn by one of the strong limbed dogs which perform this kind of work. The drawing was made by E. Matania especially for this newspaper, the New York Herald and the London Sphere.
