ERRATUM—Yesterday's edition was dated February 1, but it was not printed on Sunday; the error was probably occasioned by the fact that our foreman got to the office at two o'clock A. M.

Republican Convention.

The Convention called to select delegates to the State Convention assembled in the Court House last evening and was called to order by Chairman Peck. On motion Dr. O. H. Rockwell, the gentleman who so successfully presided over the Convention two years ago, was called to the Chair, and THOS. E. MYER and A. C. FANNING, elected Secretaries.

Every district except one was represented. On calling the roll, from a list prepared at the Review office, the following delegates took their seats:

After the roll call had been completed Mr. Holcomb offered a series of resolutions instructing the delegates to be chosen to the State convention to support Blaine delegates to the National Convention, and oppose the adoption of the unit rule. J. W. Ingham offered a substitute, declaring against instructions. On motion of Mr. Carnochan, action on the resolutions was deferred until after the election of delegates.

A ballot for delegates to the State Convention resulted as follows;

C. E. Gladding,	76
P. J. Dean,	94
Alex. C. Elsbree,	86
J. Holcomb,	24
H. J. Madill,	20

Gladding, Dean and Elsbree were declared elected. For Senatorial delegate Kelton Packard was recommended, receiving 91 votes against 12 for General Madill. It is proper to state that Gen.

Madill's nomination was unauthorized, and it was generally understood by delegates that he could not attend if elected.

After a long discussion on resolutions of instruction, participated in by Messrs Carnochan, Holcomb, Davies and Landon, the resolutions were indefinitely postponed, and the delegates go to Harrisburg untrammelled. To test the sentiment of the convention, Hon. Geo. Landon moved that "it is the sense of this convention, all things being equal, that Jas. G. Blaine is the first choice of the Republicans of Bradford for President," which was adopted without a dissenting voice. After which the convention adjourned.
