The News Condensed.

Mr. Moody intends to continue his work in St. Louis for another month.

There is not a railroad track in Fulton county.

Elk have not been seen in the state for fifteen years.

All the slate works about Slatington are being enlarged to meet increased demands.

Ehrhart's paper bag factory, on the Bushkill River, Monroe county, is making 40,000 bags a day.

The aggregate weight of a Summitville, Cambria county family consisting of ten, is 2,000 pounds.

John Ferguson, of Latrobe, Westmoreland county, was ss badly bitten by a dog that he survived but a few hours.

The old rolling mill, of the Catasauqua iron company has been leased and will be put in operation in about ten days, employing 130 hands in manufacture of muck bar.

The Prince and Princess of Wales are said to have made up their minds to establish a fashion of 7 o'clock dinners, instead of those given at the absurd hour of 9.

Mrs. Mary Pomeroy, stepmother of the notorious "Brick," a former resident of Wellsboro and Lawrenceville, Pa., and of Southport, N. Y., died in Colorado several weeks ago.

Mrs. Schuler, of Catasauqua, went out to wash on Tuesday, and left a woman in charge of her three children. The woman left in the afternoon, and the two eldest children went out to play. Soon afterward fire was discovered in the house and the remaining child, a baby, was taken out burned to a crisp.

There are measles and to spare in the Soldiers' Orphans Home at Normal, Ohio. On Friday of last week the first case was reported, and by Saturday night there were 50 cases. At noon, Sunday, there were 150 cases, and Sunday night almost 200. There are only 325 inmates in the Home, all told.

A strange old man who died near Troy last Sunday, requested that his remains should be kept in the house for three weeks; that one of his sons make his coffin, and that his four sons dig his grave and inter the body, lowering it into the grave as the sun should be setting behind the mountains near the house.

The poor Czar cannot be shielded from the meddlesome pranks of the Nihilists. When he wakes in the morning he finds revolutionary documents on his dressing bureau. When he opens his mail he reads menacing letters written on black-bordered paper. When he goes to the theatre he draws from his pocket with his handkerchief a revolutionary manifesto. Is it strange that he distrusts everyone in his service?

Mr. Redpath, the special correspondent whom The Tribune has sent to Ireland, reports interesting conversation with Lord Randolph Churchill, son of the Duchess of Marlborough, and her active assistant in the work of managing the Relief Fund which she has called into being. The talk gives an exceedingly clear idea of the method of relief employed by the Duchess as contrasted with the method of the Mansion House Committee, and also of the extent of the famine. The encouraging statement is made that the famine is well in hand, and that all danger of general starvation seems to have passed.
