And now the Canton Sentinel comes forward and claims to give its readers more news than the Reporter. The Sentinel is a good paper, and well merits the patronage it evidently is receiving.

E. D. RUNDELL, will go to Williamsport this afternoon and spend Sunday in that city. Mrs. RUNDELL, who has been visiting there for several weeks will return with him on Monday.

The Daily Review, of Towanda, is a growing paper, and we would recommend it to those who desire the county news every day. It is worth more than the subscription price, try it.—Athens Gazette.

The Athens Gazette says: "H. C. BAIRD, of this place, has the reputation of being the most successful divorce lawyer in this county.

Parties who desire release from the "silken bands" of matrimony, will make a note of this.

Dr. McNIGHT's lecture on the "Great Pyramid" at Christ Church last evening was largely attended, and gave good satisfaction to the appreciative audience. We did not have the pleasure of listening to the lecture, but those who were so fortunate were highly pleased.

Among the most positive indications that spring is really here is the display of green garden vegetables at JORDAN'S market today. Mr. MULLOCK knows just what the people here need, and spares neither pains nor expense to supply them. He will provide you with vegetables fresh from the garden cheaper than you can raise them.

"What's in a name?" once asked nature's great bard. If WILLIAM had lived in these days, and hereabouts, he would have been constrained to confess that there is much in a name often. The great sale which the "Sterling" Organ and "Manville Piano" are reaching is owing to the popularity of our esteemed citizen, Capt. C. M. MANVILLE, who is interested in them. "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches."

On Thursday we advertised a bunch of keys, which had been found and left at this office. To-day the owner called for them. Although not a subscriber to the REVIEW, "some one told him" of the publication, and he was thus saved much annoyance, as the keys were necessary to gain entrance to valuable papers and documents. The REVIEW only costs 25 cents per month, but then some people "can't be bothered with it."

As an evidence of the esteem in which the REVIEW is held by our out-of-town readers, we print the following note received from one of them last evening. We beg to inform Miss W. that after this date we shall aim to get the REVIEW out in time to have it reach her the same day.

WYALUSING, Pa., March 5, 1880.
Please to start the REVIEW this way on the right time and train, then if it does not come "Uncle Sam" will be in fault. Two (2) numbers have been received, out of four due, up to date. We can't keep house without it.
MARGARET WELLES.

WM. MCMORAN, administrator of the late JOHN BILES, will sell the personal property of deceased at Public Sale, on the premises, in North Towanda, on the 18th inst.

A foot race came off on State street yesterday afternoon, between the editor of the Mercury, and CHARLIE SMITH. The knight of the quill and scissors came out ahead.

Superintendent's Notes.

March 1, 2, 3, 4.—Visited the following schools: Herrick, Union, Inez Smith; Balbay, Henry Crawford. Wilmot, Oak Hill, Mary Sweeney; Noraconk, Laonna Dodge; Grant, Jennie Jones; Sugar Hill, Emma Neilly. Franklin, Franklindale, Eliza McKean; Crayton Hill, John Loughhead; Center, Wirt Kendall. Secretaries H. H. Smith, of Herrick, and J. B. Johnson, of Franklin, accompanied to part of the schools. Sciota, Gregory and Farr schools were found closed on account of singing school and sickness. The schools in general were found doing well. Union, Balbay, Oak Hill, Sugar Hill, and Center were observed to excel in many points.

Mental Arithmetic as a separate exercise, or as found in the analysis at the head of each case in the arithmetics, is more neglected or ignored than any other subject.

All teachers, but especially those having large pupils who expect to teach, should insist on having the model analyses given in the book applied to the problems solved by the pupils, and should require the operations accurately indicated, like the examples solved by the author. Few pupils understand the use of the semicolon to separate the several steps of an operation, and hence use many false equations. Example:—Three fourths divided by five sixths equal eighteen twentieths multiplied by two equal thirty six twentieths; instead of three fourths divided by five sixths equals eighteen twentieths; eighteen twentieths multiplied by two equals thirty six twentieths.

Some teachers seem either careless or stupid in regard to accuracy in Monthly Report Book. Clear and ample instructions are found on first page, yet lateness and absence are not marked as required by the school department, and other items are either ignored or incorrect. Secretaries are requested by law to refuse to give an order to a teacher until the report is correct.

PHILOMATHAN SOCIETY.—The regular meeting of the Philomathean Society was held last evening in the Society hall.

The question, "Resolved, That the female sex is equal to the male sex intellectually," which was laid over from last week, was discussed with great spirit. Those chosen on the affirmative, in order to intimidate the speakers on the negative, posted notices on all of the doors of the Institute inviting the ladies to be present. In answer to the call about twenty young ladies appeared; but this only infused greater courage into the speakers of the negative, and prompted them to greater efforts. The affirmative was supported by Messrs. Prof. GEO. W. KIMBERLY, Prof. E. E. QUINLAN, W. V. DUGGAN, A. W. STEWART, H. GREEN, H. P. LEE, G. M. MARSHALL and H. P. CORSER. The negative was supported by Messrs. E. A. THOMPSON, S. C. JOHNSON, MR. MACE, GEO. I. BUCK, and MR. KELLEY. After the discussion, pro and con, the judge, MR. CAMPBELL, gave his decision in favor of the negative. This caused great applause, and the ladies immediately started for home, not being very highly complimented. NEG.

The Tioga Hotel was sold on foreclosure of mortgage on Monday last for $12,000. It was bid off by C. P. THURSTON, of Elmira, for the New York Life Insurance Co. It is reported that a company in Waverly is to take the property off the hands of the Insurance Company.—Waverly Advocate.

WM. H. CUMMINGS, the genial Lehigh Valley Conductor, who is known somewhat hereabout, was considerably startled upon reading in the papers yesterday that WM. H. CUMMINGS had dropped dead in Buffalo. We were somewhat startled, also, upon first reading the dispatch. We hope our BILLY CUMMINGS will live long to conduct so popularly one of the most popular express trains out of Elmira.—Advertiser.

Several egregious blunders occurred in the poem read before the "Wednesday Club," as printed in the REVIEW yesterday, and in justice to the author—Mrs. EUDORA TIDD STEVENS—we reprint it to-day, corrected:

Beyond this world there is a sphere,
As some believe, or hope, or fear,
According as their fancies lean
To things material or unseen,
Where mortals from this world departed,
Upon a new and strange life started,
Enjoy those scenes of heavenly rest,
Among the mansions of the blest—
Prepared for those who here below,
Through narrow paths, and straight do go;
Or, having in their earthly state
Preferred the wide and easy gate
In purgatory meditate,
Upon the stolen waters sweet,
And secret bread which here they eat,
Lamenting that the after taste
Of food they chose in thoughtless haste,
Should be so bitter. And no device
Could save them from the consequences,
In wretched thoughts, and tortured senses,
Of actions "naughty, yet so nice."

It happens there as often here,
Friendships are formed both sweet and dear,
That birds and fowls of kindred feather
As here below, flock together.
The spheres divide in little coteries—
Art and science have their votaries.
The gossips still their trade pursue,
And grind forever slander's mill,
For 'tis a truth that is not new,
The filthy will be filthy still.
One difference great, in realms of space,
That each soul fits in its own place.

A set of selves are kept on hand,
In places high, and each new band
Of comers miscellaneous,
Are in them instantaneously shaken.
They fit the shape of all pure souls,
Which, after passing through the holes,
Are sorted out according to their size—
A company both good and wise.

But evil hearts in form are changed;
The wondrous selves are so arranged
These wicked souls catch fast and stick,
Because with sin they have grown thick.
It happened once upon a time,
A fresh arrival in this clime,
Became the cause of some commotion
Among those spirits whose devotion
To mundane matters was conspicuous,
And in a spirit quite ridiculous.
From regions near the Susquehanna—
A river finer than Abana,
That Naaman loved in days of old.
This Spirit came and thus was told
That it was bound to freely speak to those around
Its knowledge and own private views
Upon the subject of local news.

The new arrival begged to state
In life and thoughts 'twas most sedate;
Of rumors flying, it had heard,
And treasured an occasional word,
It thought, but still would not insist
That some in town were fond of Whist.
The schools had ceased the use of hickory;
The dancing club was called Tepsichore;
While others had become fanatic
Over the art they call Dramatic.
In politics we've had Conventions,
Discussing much their good intentions
To make some wise and fit selection,
To vote for at the next election.

Among the classes and conditions
Are found, of course, the town's musicians;
To give their lives variety,
They've formed a Musical Society.
But nothing's had the great attraction,
And given the happy satisfaction,
Afforded by the class in reading,
Which some how failed to keep proceeding.

To give this subject of local news,
Its full, complete, and proper dues,
"I feel incompetent," the Spirit said,
"This tople grave, I've scarce the head
To comprehend. The Reporter's part
Is far too great—I've not the art.
Let Argus, with his hundred eyes,
Who sees all thoughts, all smiles, all sighs,
A Journal be of weekly information,
To tell what's passing in the nation;
It may not be Republican,
But politics are under ban;
Then, if you wish something new,
I refer you to the Daily Review."
