The editor of the Waverly Advocate, has been a little chary about the advocacy of Gen. Grant, on account of the third term scare. He is getting bravely over it and in his last issue boldly says: "Though not originally enthusiastic for Grant, the least of our objections has been the very foolish objection to a 'third term.' The formers of our constitution seemed to have no fears upon that subject, and made no provision against it. They were willing to trust the good sense of the people in choosing their officers. If the people had a good President they should keep him as long as they like him. If they could be trusted to select one for a second term why not for a third or fourth? If they are unfit to decide upon the merits of a man after they have tried him, why not before they have tired him? What objection is there to a President for a third that does not lie against him for a second term, or against a Governor or a Legislator? In fact the third term, per se, is unobjectionable, but in the case of General Grant it is free from objectionable surroundings. For four years he has been a private citizen, without patronage or power of any kind which any private citizen does not possess; and as far as these objections go they would be more potent against any second term which the people in the past have endorsed. And further, Gen. Grant has been absent from the country for nearly three years, utterly unable to manipulate politics in his own interest, and should he be nominated it will be by the spontaneous effort of those who want him for another term. If the people see fit to elect him, who is there to object?"

"The question with us for the past year or two has been that of availability. Of the many candidates named for the office by the Republicans there is not one that would not honor the position, and in all respects fill the bill of a first class executive officer; and our study has been to find out the strong man with the people. Satisfy us that Gen. Grant is that man, and third terms to the dogs—we will as cheerfully and ardently support him as any other man. It looks now as though his nomination was assured, and if nominated we believe his election will surely follow."

From the London Truth: "It is satisfactory to know that, although painting languishes, sculpture is neglected, and architecture is unknown among us, the art of hair dressing is about to enjoy its renaissance. At least this is what I infer from the recent 'Grand Soiree de Coiffures,' promoted by 'the leading French and English hairdressers.' When I entered the headquarters were being actively 'executed' as promised in the programme. Down the centre of the room was a narrow platform, furnished with a table upon which were many looking-glasses with a corresponding number of chairs. Upon these chairs sat the female models upon whose heads the artists in hair were operating. Some of the models had evidently been chosen for their abundance of hair, others on account of their deficiency in this respect. With dexterous fingers the operators twisted their locks into every imaginable shape, producing ships, and Towers of Babel, and other eccentricities, beside every style that has found favor since hairdressing became an art. Those who were not luxuriantly hirsute were adorned by the professors with artificial embellishments in the form of curls, plaits, rolls, and many other nameless ornaments, the object of course being to show that art is always adequate to supply the place of nature."

and for the heartiest agreement upon candidates the majority should put up a common foe. Since then the tide of dis been turned back; every doubtful state has won, and the omens for National victory were more cheering.

THE TRIBUNE'S POSITION.
Of The Tribune's share in all this, those most enthusiastically who have seen most struggle. It will faithfully portray the phases of the campaign now beginning, earnestly strive that the party of Freedom and Public Faith may select the man surest and surest to make a good President. But crisis it can conceive of no nomination this could make that would not be preferable to that that could possibly be supported by the Solid and Tammany Hall.

The Tribune is now spending much labor money than ever before to hold the distinction enjoyed of the largest circulation among the people. It secured, and means to retain it by coming the medium of the best thought and the voice of the best conscience of the time, by keeping abreast of the highest progress, favoring the free discussions, hearing all sides, appealing always to the best intelligence and the purest morality, and refusing to cater to the tastes of the vile or the prejudices of the ignorant.

SPECIAL FEATURES.
The distinctive features of The Tribune are to everybody. It gives all the news. It has the best correspondents, and retains them from year to year. It is the only paper that maintains a special telegraphic wire of its own between its office in Washington. Its scientific, literary, artistic and religious intelligence is the fullest. Its book reviews are the best. Its commercial and financial news the most exact. Its type is the largest; and its arrangement the most systematic.

THE SEMI-WEEKLY TRIBUNE is by far the most successful Semi-Weekly in the country, having four times the circulation of any other in New York. It is especially adapted to the large class of intelligent, professional or business readers too far from New York to depend on newspapers for the daily news, who nevertheless want the editorials, correspondence, book reviews, scientific matter, lectures, literary miscellany, etc., which The Tribune is famous. Like The Weekly it contains sixteen pages, and is in convenient form for binding.

THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE
remains the great favorite of our substantial rural population, and has the largest circulation of any Weekly issued from the office of a Daily paper in New York, or, so far as we know, in the United States. It revises and condenses all the news of the week into more readable shape. Its agricultural department is more carefully conducted than ever, and it has always been considered the best. Its market reports are the official standard for the Dairyman's Association, and have long been recognized authority on cattle, grain and general country products. There are special departments for the young and household interests; the new handwork department already extremely popular, gives unusually accurate and comprehensive instructions in knitting, crocheting, and kindred subjects; while poetry, fiction, the humors of the day are all abundantly supplied. The verdict of the tens of thousands of readers who have returned to it during the past year is that it finds it better than ever. Increasing patronage facilities enable us to reduce the rates to the point we have ever touched. The rates of advertising are the most liberal yet given, and the most effective.

AN AMAZING PREMIUM.
To any one subscribing for The Weekly Tribune for five years, remitting us the price, $10, a more, we will send Chamber's Encyclopaedia abridged, in fourteen volumes, with all the parts of the Edinburgh edition of 1879, and with additional volumes, covering American topics not treated in the original work;—the whole embodied by actual printer's measurement, twelve pages more matter than Appleton's Cyclopaedia, sells for $30! To the 15,000 readers who profit from us the Webster Unabridged premium is only say that while this offer is even more, we shall carry it out in a manner equally satisfactory. The following are the terms in detail:
For $12, Chamber's Encyclopaedia, A. L. Universal Knowledge, 14 vols., with ed. American subjects, 6 separate vols., 20 vols. substantially bound in cloth, and The Weekly Tribune 5 years, to one subscriber.
For $18, Chamber's Encyclopaedia, 20 above, and The Semi-Weekly Tribune 5 years.
For $18, Chamber's Encyclopaedia, 20 above, and ten copies of The Weekly Tribune year.
For $27, Chamber's Encyclopaedia, 20 above, and twenty copies of The Weekly Tribune year.
For $26, Chamber's Encyclopaedia, 20 above, and The Daily Tribune two years.
The books will in all cases be sent at the subscriber's expense, but with no charge for packing. They shall begin sending them in the order in which subscriptions have been received on the 1st of January when certainly five, and perhaps six, volumes be ready, and shall send, thenceforth, by express mail, as subscribers may direct. The publication will continue at the rate of two volumes per month, concluding in September next.

AND Country Gentleman.
The Best of the AGRICULTURAL WEEKLIES.
It is UNSURPASSED, if not UNEQUALED, for the Amount and Variety of the PRACTICAL INFORMATION it contains, and for the Ability and Extent of its CORRESPONDENCE—in the Three Chief Directions of Farm Crops and Processes, Horticulture and Fruit-Frowing, Live Stock and Dairying—

while it also includes all minor departments of rural interest, such as the Poultry Yard, Entomology, Bee-Keeping, Green house and Grapery, Veterinary Replies, Farm Questions and Answers, Fireside Reading, Domestic Economy, and a summary of the News of the Week. Its MARKET REPORTS are unusually complete, and more information can be gathered from its columns than from any other source with regard to the Prospects of the Crops, as throwing light upon one of the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell. It is liberally illustrated, and constitutes to a greater degree than any of its contemporaries A LIVE AGRICULTURAL NEWSPAPER
Of never-failing interest both to Producers and Consumers of every class.
The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is published Weekly on the following terms, when paid strictly in advance: One Copy, one year, $2.50; Four Copies, $10, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club. Ten Copies, $20, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club.
For the year 1880, these prices include a copy of the ANNUAL REGISTER OF RURAL AFFAIRS, to each subscriber—a book of 144 pages and about 120 engravings—a gift by the Publishers.
All New Subscribers for 1880, paying in advance note, will receive the paper WEEKLY, from receipt of remittance to January 1st, 1880, with out charge.

FOR THE PRESIDENTIAL YEAR.
"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWS-PAPER."
THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE
FOR 1880.
During the coming Presidential year The Tribune will be a more effective agency than ever for telling the news best worth knowing, and for enforcing sound politics. From the day the war closed it has been most anxious for an end of sectional strife. But it saw two years ago, and was the first persistently to proclaim the new danger to the country from the revived alliance of the Solid South and Tammany Hall. Against that danger it sought to rally the old party of Freedom and the Union. It began by demanding the abandonment of personal dislikes, and set the example. It called for an end to attacks upon each other instead of the enemy;
