The New Jersey Courts have had a singular experience in a divorce suit. The history runs in this wise: James V. Peterson was married in 1864, and lived with his wife for four years. He then sent her to Flemington, where her mother lived. Up to 1863 he visited her often and showed the usual affection of a husband. But then he feared that he was becoming insane and not wishing to retain the power he legally possessed over her person and fortune, by mutual agreement, they separated. Two years later his reason seeming to be restored, they lived together again. And they signed deeds together for the transfer of real estate. In 1867 Peterson was again threatened with insanity and an amicable separation followed, she returning to her mother for good. In 1877 he committed suicide, and when she applied for letters to administer his estate, she was told that he had procured a divorce ten years ago for desertion. This was the first intimation she had received of such proceedings. She filed a bill to have the divorce proceedings set aside and the Court of last resort has endorsed her petition and restored her to her husband three years dead.

The following from the Commercial Advertiser of Monday last, is true and worthy of note:

The New York Herald is true to its traditions. In a labored article printed in today's paper it calls on the Democrats of this State to heal their differences, and by taking advantage of what it believes to be division in the Republican party to consolidate and thereby defeat the election of General Grant. It says they will be "demented or insane if they fail to take advantage of so inviting an opportunity" and that "it would be political idiocy or lunacy to let so great an opportunity pass unimproved." The Herald does not use such strong language unless it feels deeply. In spite of its affected impartiality it has always leaned more or less toward the Democratic party. Its opposition to General Grant is inspired by the fact that he is the most popular candidate the Republicans can name, and not because it believes in any of its rubbish about the dangers of third term. The Herald has always secretly favored the Democratic party.

Glucose manufacture is making an excitement in the maize districts of the West, the factory at Buffalo and its remarkable success being the prime stimulant. Half a dozen establishments have planted within a month in Indiana, Illinois and Iowa. Cyrus McCormick and others have, it is said, put $650,000 into one at Chicago. It is to have a capacity 20,000 bushels a day, which is equivalent to 300 tons of sugar. A bushel of corn, costing about 40 cents, produces thirty pounds of grape sugar, or three gallons of syrup. This sugar, which costs them net two cents per pound, they can sell at from three and a half to four cents per pound, while the three gallons of syrup can be sold at from thirty-five to forty cents a gallon. This new industry promises to dispose of the "over-production" question, and it will probably henceforth not be cheaper to burn corn than wood in Central Iowa.—Tribune.

Commercial reports show that the balance of trade during February is for the first time in five years, against the United States. That is, we are buying of Europe more than we are selling her in return. Some consider this a strong indication of extravagance, the result of renewed prosperity.
