You see it in the husband's careworn face, in the genial hearty expression that tells of domestic peace, though the battle for bread be long and fierce; in the wife's serene countenance, though she be a mother and full of care; in the tender concern for her children; in the involuntary caresses that bespeak a He lectures in the Presbyterian church this heart full of tenderness and deep thounhtfulness for her possessions and exceptional

The M. E. Church was densely packed last evening with an intelligent audience drawn thither by the announcement that an eloquent Scotchman would lecture on temperance. It was evident that something more than ordinary was anticipated, and none went away disappointed. The speaker, Prof. MOFFAT, Ganeral Agent of the Temperance Alliancean organization which aims to unify and utilize the efforts of all temperance societies- business. took for his text the following passage from the 28th chapter of Isaiah:

When he hath made plain the face thereof, doth he not cast abroad the fitches, and scatter the quamic, and cast in the principal wheat and the appointed bar-ley and the rie in their place?"
