Home Again.

At a banquet given to Gen. Grant, by the City of Galveston, Texas, on Thursday night the toast—"Gen. Grant—our honored guest—greater armies than Napoleon's have marched at his command, and greater glories than a crown have been his." was responded to by the General as follows:

"It was my fortune, more than a third of a century ago, to visit Texas as a Second Lieutenant, and to be one of those who went into the conflict which was to settle the boundary of Texas. I am glad to come back now on this occasion, to behold a territory which is an empire in itself, larger than some of the empires of Europe. I wish for the people of Texas, as I do for the people of the entire south, that they may go on developing their resources, and become great and powerful, and in their prosperity forget, as your worthy mayor expressed it, that there is a boundary between the North and South. [Prolonged cheering.] I am sure we will all be happier and much more prosperous, when the day comes that there will be no sectional feeling. Let any American, who can travel abroad as I have and with the opportunity of witnessing what there is to be seen that I have had, and he will return to America a better American, and a better citizen than he was when he went away. [Loud cheers.] He will return more in love with his own country. Far be it from me to find fault with any of the European governments. I was well received at their hands on every side, by every nation in Europe; but with their dense populations, and their worn out soil, it takes a great deal of government to enable the people to get from the soil a bare subsistence. Here we have rich virgin soil, with room enough for all of us to expand and live with the use of very little government. I do hope we may be able to get along happily and contently, without being too much governed.

There is great indignation expressed in Baltimore over a resolution passed by the city council allowing the Society of the Army and Navy of the Confederacy, in Maryland, to erect a memorial monument to their soldier dead in Eutaw Place, one of the most beautiful sites in the city. This is a very different sentiment from that which prevailed there when the Sixth Massachusetts passed through that city, of which General E. F. Jones, now of this city, was then Colonel.

Professor Barker, Professor of Physics in the University of Pennsylvania, who with other scientists has been experimenting at Menlo Park recently with Edison's electric light, during a lecture in Philadelphia on Wednesday night gave an unqualified endorsement of the light and said it was cheaper than gas at sixty cents a thousand.

General H. E. Paine, the Commissioner of Patents, has tendered his resignation, to take effect as soon as the unfinished business of his office can be disposed of. He will resume the practice of law with his former partners. Mr. Paine says the reason of his resigning is because the position is unremunerative.

A number of Protestant clergymen, at a meeting in New York on Wednesday night, prepared articles of incorporation for an American Independent Catholic church, to be conducted by an ex-clergyman of the church of Rome.

The students of Queen's College, Cork, who presented Mr. Parrell with an address on his arrival at Queenstown, have been summoned before the Council of the College to answer for their conduct.

FOR THE PRESIDENTIAL YEAR.

"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWS-PAPER."

THE NEW YORK

TRIBUNE FOR 1880.

During the coming Presidential year The Tribune will be a more effective agency than ever for telling the news best worth knowing, and for enforcing sound politics. From the day the war closed it has been most anxious for an end of sectional strife. But it saw two years ago, and was the first to persistently to proclaim the new danger to the country from the revived alliance of the Solid South and Tammany Hall. Against that danger it sought to rally the old party of Freedom and the Union. It began by demanding the abandonment of personal dislikes, and set the example. It called for an end to attacks upon each other instead of the enemy; and for the heartiest agreement upon whatever it candidates the majority should put up against the common foe. Since then the tide of disaster has been turned back; every doubtful state has been won, and the omens for National victory were never more cheering.

THE TRIBUNE'S POSITION.

Of The Tribune's share in all this, those speak most enthusiastically who have seen most of the struggle. It will faithfully portray the varying phases of the campaign now beginning. It will earnestly strive that the party of Freedom, Union and Public Faith may select the man surest to win, and surest to make a good President. But in this crisis it can conceive of no nomination this party could make that would not be preferable to the best that could possibly be supported by the Solid South and Tammany Hall.

The Tribune is now spending much labor and money than ever before to hold the distinction it has enjoyed of the largest circulation among the best people. It secured, and means to retain it by becoming the medium of the best thought and the voice of the best conscience of the time, by keeping abreast of the highest progress, favoring the freest discussions, hearing all sides, appealing always to the best intelligence and the purest morality, and refusing to cater to the tastes of the vile or the prejudices of the ignorant.

SPECIAL FEATURES.

The distinctive features of The Tribune are known to everybody. It gives all the news. It has the best correspondents, and retains them from year to year. It is the only paper that maintains a special telegraphic wire of its own between its office and Washington. Its scientific, literary, artistic and religious intelligence is the fullest. Its book reviews are the best. Its commercial and financial news is the most exact. Its type is the largest; and its arrangement the most systematic.

THE SEMI-WEEKLY TRIBUNE

is by far the most successful Semi-Weekly in the country, having four times the circulation of any other in New York. It is especially adapted to the large class of intelligent, professional or business readers too far from New York to depend on our papers for the daily news, who nevertheless want the editorials, correspondence, book reviews, scientific matter, lectures, literary miscellany, etc., for which The Tribune is famous. Like The Weekly it contains sixteen pages, and is in convenient form for binding.

THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE

remains the great favorite of our substantial country population, and has the largest circulation of any Weekly issued from the office of a Daily paper in New York, or, so far as we know, in the United States. It revises and condenses all the news of the week into more readable shape. Its agricultural department is more carefully conducted than ever, and it has always been considered the best. Its market reports are the official standard for the Dairymen's Association, and have long been recognized authority on cattle, grain and general country produce. There are special departments for the young and for household interests; the new handiwork department already extremely popular, gives unusually accurate and comprehensive instructions in knitting, crocheting, and kindred subjects; while poetry, fiction and the humors of the day are all abundantly supplied. The verdict of the tens of thousand old readers who have returned to it during the past year is that they find it better than ever. Increasing patronage and facilities enable us to reduce the rates to the lowest point we have ever touched, and to offer the most amazing premiums yet given, as follows:

TERMS OF THE TRIBUNE.

To the 15,000 readers who procured from us the Webster Unabbreviated premium we need only say that while this offer is even more liberal, we shall carry it out in a manner equally satisfactory. The following are the terms in detail:

The books will in all cases be sent at the subscriber's expense, but with no charge for packing. We shall begin sending them in the order in which subscriptions have been received on the 1st of January, when certainly five, and perhaps six, volumes will be ready, and shall send, thenceforth, by express-mail, as subscribers may direct. The publication will continue at the rate of two volumes per month, concluding in September next.
