Secretary Sherman made a speech in Mansfield, Ohio, the other evening, in which he announced himself as a candidate. The speech was able and politic. He said:

By the course of recent events, and not by my self-seeking, my name is mentioned among those from whom the Republican party will select one to carry its banner in the approaching Presidential contest. It is not egotism to state this fact, and it is not manly to shrink from the criticism and scrutiny which such a choice necessarily invites and provokes. I accepted the position without pretense of modesty, because I did not think it right to allow friends to put themselves to trouble on my account without a frank avowal that I was willing to accept, and without delaying until I was certain of success (applause), but with a firm determination not to detract from the merits of others nor to seek this lofty elevation by dishonorable means or lying evasions or pretensions. (Applause.) In this way, and in this way only, am I a candidate, but with great doubt whether, if nominated, I would meet the expectations of friends, and resolved, in case of failure, that I will abide cheerfully and kindly by the choice of the convention. (Applause.) There is one condition, scarcely necessary to state, upon which my candidacy depends, and that is, if the Republicans of Ohio do not fairly and fully in their convention, express a preference for me and support me with substantial unanimity in the National Convention my name will not be presented to that convention with my consent.

The Republican party is a party of principle and the Democratic party of opposition. The Republican party wins only upon its bold leadership on questions of public policy. It proposes now to maintain the policy of resumption and which has been so successfully executed thus far, but must be supported hereafter by the friendly action of the government. It proposes now to maintain and enforce the Constitutional amendments with all the powers of the National Government, to the end that every man, poor or rich, white or black, may be secured full enjoyment of civil and political rights. (Applause.) It proposes to foster and extend the system of free, common, public schools, both by the State and National Governments, to the end that every child of the proper age may receive instruction in the primary branches of education, and thus give poor as well as rich a fair chance in life, so that opportunities to win an honorable position in life may not be confined to any favored or fortunate class. (Enthusiastic applause.) I believe the Republican party is the only party in this country that has the courage and ability to carry out these great objects of national desire, and that the controlling element of the Democratic party cannot and ought not to be trusted to secure either of these primary conditions of good government.

The New York Conference of the M. E. Churches opened its session Wednesday in that city, Bishop Isaac W. Wiley presiding. Rev. J. J. Dean preached to the conference on "True Greatness." In touching on the subject of the greatness of men he compared the characters of Sumner, Calhoun and Webster. He said there was another man whose name should be added to that list—the man who lately has received attention from the whole of Europe. He alluded, he said, to General Grant, who had served the country well on two terms, and the speaker saw no good reason why he should not be elected a third time. Mr. Dean's remarks in reference to Grant were long and loudly applauded.

BUSINESS LOCALS.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 10, 1880.
A. E. BURR—Dear Sir:—I got a bottle of your Neuralgia Pills when I was in Scranton the other day, for my mother. She was nervous and could not sleep nights, and was troubled with pains all over. Your Neuralgia Pills relieved her so she slept well after taking two doses. Send me one dozen bottles. Yours in haste, THOMAS KELLEY.

I have sold Dr. Burr's Neuralgia and Sick Headache Pills for years. They give good satisfaction.

FOR THE PRESIDENTIAL YEAR.

"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWS-PAPER."

THE NEW YORK

TRIBUNE

FOR 1880.

During the coming Presidential year The Tribune will be a more effective agency than ever for telling the news best worth knowing, and for enforcing sound politics. From the day the war closed it has been most anxious for an end of sectional strife. But it saw two years ago, and was the first to see, the danger of the new danger to the country from the revived alliance of the Solid South and Tammany Hall. Against that danger it sought to rally the old party of Freedom and the Union. It began by demanding the abandonment of personal dislikes, and set the example. It called for an end to attacks upon each other instead of the enemy; and for the heartiest agreement upon whatever candidates the majority should put up against the common foe. Since then the tide of disaster has been turned back; every doubtful state has been won, and the omens for National victory were never more cheering.

THE TRIBUNE'S POSITION.

Of The Tribune's share in all this, those speak most enthusiastically who have seen most of the struggle. It will faithfully portray the varying phases of the campaign now beginning. It will earnestly strive that the party of Freedom, Union and Public Faith may select the man surest to win, and surest to make a good President. But in this crisis it can conceive of no nomination this party could make that would not be preferable to the best that could possibly be supported by the Solid South and Tammany Hall.

The Tribune is now spending much labor and money than ever before to hold the distinction it has enjoyed of the largest circulation among the best people. It secured, and means to retain it by becoming the medium of the best thought and the voice of the best conscience of the time, by keeping abreast of the highest progress, favoring the freest discussions, hearing all sides, appealing always to the best intelligence and the purest morality, and refusing to cater to the tastes of the vile or the prejudices of the ignorant.

SPECIAL FEATURES.

The distinctive features of The Tribune are known to everybody. It gives all the news. It has the best correspondents, and retains them from year to year. It is the only paper that maintains a special telegraphic wire of its own between its office and Washington. Its scientific, literary, artistic and religious intelligence is the fullest. Its book reviews are the best. Its commercial and financial news is the most exact. Its type is the largest; and its arrangement the most systematic.

THE SEMI-WEEKLY TRIBUNE

is by far the most successful Semi-Weekly in the country, having four times the circulation of any other in New York. It is especially adapted to the large class of intelligent, professional or business readers too far from New York to depend on our papers for the daily news, who nevertheless want the editorials, correspondence, book reviews, scientific matter, lectures, literary miscellany, etc., for which The Tribune is famous. Like The Weekly it contains sixteen pages, and is in convenient form for binding.

THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE

remains the great favorite of our substantial country population, and has the largest circulation of any Weekly issued from the office of a Daily paper in New York, or, so far as we know, in the United States. It revises and condenses all the news of the week into more readable shape. Its agricultural department is more carefully conducted than ever, and it has always been considered the best. Its market reports are the official standard for the Dairyman's Association, and have long been recognized authority on cattle, grain and general country produce. There are special departments for the young and for household interests; the new handwork department already extremely popular, gives unusually accurate and comprehensive instructions in knitting, crocheting, and kindred subjects; while poetry, fiction and the humors of the day are all abundantly supplied. The verdict of the tens of thousands of readers who have returned to it during the past year is that they find it better than ever. Increasing patronage and facilities enable us to reduce the rates to the lowest point we have ever touched, and to offer the most amazing premiums yet given, as follows:

AN AMAZING PREMIUM.

To any one subscribing for The Weekly Tribune for five years, remitting us the price, $10, and $-more, we will send Chamber's Encyclopedia, ten abridged, in fourteen volumes, with all the revisions of the Edinburgh edition of 1879, and with six additional volumes, covering American topics not fully treated in the original work—the whole embracing, by actual printer's measurement, twelve per cent more matter than Appleton's Cyclopaedia, which sells for $50! To the 15,000 readers who procured from us the Webster Unabridged premium we need only say that while this offer is even more liberal, we shall carry it out in a manner equally satisfactory. The following are the terms in detail:

For $12, Chamber's Encyclopedia, A Library of Universal Knowledge, 14 vols., with editions on American subjects, 6 separate vols., 20 vols. in all, substantially bound in cloth, and The Weekly Tribune 5 years, to one subscriber.

For $18, Chamber's Encyclopedia, 20 vols., above, and The Semi-Weekly Tribune 5 years.

For $18, Chamber's Encyclopedia, 20 vols., above, and ten copies of The Weekly Tribune one year.

For $27, Chamber's Encyclopedia, 20 vols., above, and twenty copies of The Weekly Tribune one year.

For $25, Chamber's Encyclopedia, 20 vols., above, and the Daily Tribune two years.

The books will in all cases be sent at the subscriber's expense, but with no charge for packing. We shall begin sending them in the order in which subscriptions have been received on the 1st of January, when certainly five, and perhaps six, volumes will be ready, and shall send, thenceforth, by express-mail, as subscribers may direct. The publication will continue at the rate of two volumes per month, concluding in September next.

A MAGNIFICENT GIFT!

Worcester's Great Unabridged Dictionary Free!

The New York Tribune will send at subscriber's expense for freight, or deliver in New York City FREE, Worcester's Great Unabridged Quarto Illustrated Dictionary, edition of 1879, the very latest and very best edition of the great work, to any one requesting $10 for a single five years' subscription in advance or five one year subscriptions to The Weekly, or $15 for a single five years' subscription in advance or five one year subscriptions to The Semi-Weekly, or, one year's subscription to The Daily, or, $30 for a single three year's subscription in advance to The Daily Tribune.

For one dollar extra the Dictionary can be sent by mail to any part of the United States, while for short distances the expense is much cheaper.
