A few days since we wrote for an item, "D. F. PARK has been poor-master of Athens or 23 years," but a compositor substituted the word post-master for poor-master. The blunder was so palpable that we did not think it worth while to correct it, but now that several of our county cotemporaries have fallen into the same error, we are moved to say Mr. PARK has not been post-master of Athens during the last 23 years at least.

On Friday evening next, February 25th., the Episcopal Mite Society will be held at the residence of M. C. MERCUR, Chestnut street. The public are cordially

- Invited to partake Of ice-cream and cake, The very best make, For which there is at stake

As this is to be the last meeting of the Society for the season, it is hoped and expected that an amount sufficiently large to liquidate the remainder of the church debt, (about $60), will be realized.

Members of the Church and congregation, if unable to attend, are requested to contribute.

The Elmira Advertiser says: "JAMES BURNHAM fell dead at Gilletts Tuesday about six o'clock p. m. He had been to the funeral of JOSEPH C. GALE, and acted as one of the pall bearers. He complained during the day of feeling bad, but walked about half a mile before he reached home, and went in the house, laid off his overcoat, walked out in his kitchen and spoke a few words, then fell over on his face dead. The funeral occurs at half past ten o'clock to-day, at the house. The deceased was a member of Union Lodge of Elmira."

Mr. BURNHAM was one of the most enterprising and successful farmers and stock raisers in the county.

The Little Graveyard by the River's Side.

BY MRS. M. A. STROUD.

[These beautiful lines will touch a tender spot in many hearts in Towanda. They were written for the Tunkhannock Standard, but the reference is to our own Riverside Cemetery, and the fair young daughter of the writer, whose remains were laid away to rest there only a few months since.]

A little graveyard by the river's side, Nestling amid hills of beauty rare; My little ones and I, their number, five, Would oftentimes in the summer wander there, And pause with tender, loving thought, beside Some dear friend sleeping by the river's side.

Clothed in the Autumn's richest coloring Was the lone graveyard path we trod once more. But ah! with sorrow-stricken hearts beside An open grave we grouped; our number only four: Our gifted one, our darling hope and pride, We laid her sleeping by the river's side.

We gazed not on the rich autumnal tints, Or noted varied hues or rare perfumes of flowers; The sweetest bud just opening to our view, God took to blossom in the heavenly bowers; While angels chanted o'er the spirit purified; We left her sleeping by the river's side.

Far from the cherished spot, to our sad hearts so dear, Where duty called, obediently we turned, And in our Master's service consolation found, And at His footstool sweet submission learned: In his kind, loving hands our darling glorified We leave fast sleeping by the river's side.
