S. W. PITTS, who is well known to all the printers in the country, as one of the most genial gentlemen with whom the craft are ever brought in contact, has been afflicted in the death of a child. He will receive the sincere sympathy of a host of friends everywhere.

Apples are abundant and can be bought at reasonable prices.

WILLIAM TROUT, a former well known citizen of this place, died in St. Louis on Friday last.

The HELEN POTTER Pleiades were greeted with a very fair audience Saturday evening, quite a number of whom came from Dushore. Everybody was delighted and we knew they would be. We can only reiterate what we said of the performance when the company were here before, it was grand. Miss PORTER is without a question the cleverest impersonator and most perfect elocutionist now before the public. The four young lady violinists produce the sweetest music ever heard, and they were frequently encored. Mr. MACY, Miss ERNEST and Miss GREEN sustained their parts in keeping with the other members of this unrivaled company.

While all present enjoyed themselves so fully at the entertainment, every one did not know how much they were indebted to Mr. C. E. SCOTT for his untiring efforts in securing a return of the Pleiades.

REDMON CATEN who has kept a grocery and saloon near the Barclay depot for the past ten years, and has been liberally patronized, is just now seized with the spirit of enterprise and improvement which leads him to add to his building and connect with business a hotel. To this end he has employed MYRON SMITH one of our most skillful mechanics, under whose direction the employment is rapidly approaching completion. The improvements consist of an addition of a hall on the south side and another story, giving room for a spacious parlor, sitting room, dining room, kitchen and 14 sleeping rooms. The outside appearance will be greatly improved by a verandah across the front, which will be accessible from the second story. The building when completed will be an ornament to the first ward and must prove a great convenience to people who have occasion to wait for Barclay trains.

We find the following account of a pleasant party assembled in honor of a gentleman well known and highly respected here, in the Tunkhannock Standard of last week:

On Saturday evening of last week between thirty and forty of the friends of Hon. F. C. Bunnell met at his residence as a surprise party, it being the anniversary of his birth. It is one of the essential elements of these surprise parties that the "victim" be kept in blissful ignorance of the descent to be made upon him and therefore, being entirely unaware of the scheme of his neighbors and friends, it so happened that Mr. Bunnell chanced to take that day to look after business interests out of town. As he expected to return at 9 o'clock p. m. no intimation was given him of the party, it being considered best to surprise him on his entering his house. Owing to a failure to catch the train he did not come and therefore the guests had to give up all hope of seeing their expected host that night. The company, however, had come to enjoy themselves and in that respect there was no failure. Mrs. Bunnell is well known for her hospitality and every one was made to feel perfectly at home. So pleasantly did the hours pass that it was well nigh Sunday before we had even thought of breaking up. We then took our departure feeling highly pleased with our evening's visit and hoping there were many more such pleasing events in store for us and the kind people whose residence was so freely opened.
