A correspondent of the Cincinnati Inquirer says a Monongahela belle has been selected by Forepaugh's agent from some twelve or fifteen hundred applicants for the $10,000 prize offered for the prettiest woman in America to travel with his show the coming season. The young lady's name is Scott and she is thus described by the writer:

Miss Scott possesses a form tall and shapely. It is not the airy, fleecy, filmy, ethereal nothing that Olive Logan ascribes to Sara Bernhardt, but a realistic, tangible form. Her shoulders are rounded; her bosom is full and undulating, and her waist symmetrical, filling her bodice nicely and seeming superlatively huggable. Were Hiram Powers again selecting his model for that American master-piece of art, "The Greek Slave," he could travel over much territory and find no better form than Miss Scott's. In carriage she is at once easy and graceful.

Her face in some respects reminds one of the late Adelaide Neilson; it is fair as the lilies, and the cheeks are tinged with a delicate pearly pink. Her features are striking, regular and classical and of the Grecian type, save, perhaps, the nose, which curves slightly from the aquiline, and verges upon what is generally termed the American feminine nose. Her lips are full and expressive of a bright vermilion tinge, and when severed by a smile reveal a double row of teeth that are typical in their regularity and dazzling whiteness. Her eyes are large and full, of a dark brown color. With varying emotions they change their hue as often as summer clouds, too, if for no other reason than they are so soft and shadowy. Her eyebrows are most delicately curved and her long sweeping eyelashes add intensely and at times a half melancholy languor to the orbs over which they keep sentinel. Her hair, which is long, wavy and abundant, is of a glossy black and possesses that silky texture which is such a pleasant contrast to the usual deadbeony we so often meet.

Your correspondent would like to stop right here, but it won't do. Miss Scott is the niece of John Ryan, a coal-miner, and they abide in rather a dilapidated house. When the scribe asked her if she would travel with the circus as a queen, she carelessly shuffled a well-worn deck of Hars's best playing cards—squeezers—and, throwing out a bob-tail flush on the greasy table, said: "Well, I reckon not; that old duck Forepaugh couldn't get me to travel with his show for no money. Will you take a hand at $1 limit?" Your correspondednt drew out.

Kansas papers take a most enthusiastic view of the prospective harvest of 1881. The acreage of grain sown last fall was considerably in excess of that of any previous year, and the weather throughout the winter has been such as favor rapid growth and abundant yield. The sheep interest, is in a prosperous condition. Kansas claims to have more sheep in proportion to the population, than any State in the Union, or any country in the world. The cattle interest is advancing at a rapid rate, and assuming proportions that are hardly short of the marvellous. Southern and Southwestern Kansas have the major share of this industry, though large herds can now and then be found in every county.

Preperations are being made to contest the Utah case in a vigorous manner. It is stated that President Garfield has assured Governor Murry that he should have the support of the administration in the matter. It is claimed that Campbell's friends have the most convincing proof to establish the fact that the papers upon which Cannon made his claim to citizenship are forgeries.
