A large audience attended Dr. PAYNE'S lecture at the Institute last evening and the close attention paid must have been a gratifying evidence to the Doctor of appreciation on the part of his hearers. A full report of the instructive and interesting address will appear to-morrow.

Miss CORA JOHNSON'S party last evening was a brilliant affair and largely attended.—STULEN'S orchestra furnished the music and the happy boys and girls enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent. The young hostess left nothing undone which could in any manner minister to the pleasure of her guests. After a sumptuous collation the party dispersed, all wishing Miss JOHNSON many returns of the interesting day which had brought them together.

As the mercury which indicates the weather has ceased to be of particular interest, we are pleased to note the fact that our lively little cotemporary, the Mercury has again put in an appearance.

We suggest to the "lords of creation" that they can do their "better halves" a good turn, by purchasing material for cold lunches during moving time. McCABE at headquarters keeps "potted meats," "Boston baked beans," and other articles already prepared for the table, and sells them very cheap too.

Our Monroeton correspondent sends us the following items:

Mrs. Elder CRANMER has nearly recovered from her nervous prostration, superinduced by over-exertion.

We regret to learn that Mr and Mrs LLOYD ROCKWELL, of Monroe, have been bereaved in the death of their second born, a little boy of some two years, after an illness of only two days. The child died Sunday.
