There is a great deal of non-political pressure being brought to bear in Washington on the Senate, to get it to go into executive session and take up the nominations.

A strange and terrible disease has broken out among the Chinamen employed on the Canada and Pacific railway in British Columbia. A Chinaman sat down apparently perfectly well to eat his dinner. His feet began to swell, the swelling extended up his legs and reaching the vital parts in ten minutes, causing the chest to expand to most unnatural proportions. He tumbled down dead in less than fifteen minutes from the time the disease attacked his feet. More than a hundred have been carried off in the same way. The whites are alarmed and in some instances the foremen have fled.

Mr. Rainor, colored, who served as lieutenant-governor of S. C., and subsequently represented the state in congress, is now working in the streets as a common laborer. Saturday while busy handling his pick an incident occurred which must have vividly reminded him of the vicissitudes of fortune. A garbage cart backed up to where the ex-lieutenant governor was working and dumped a load of dirt on the street. Among the rubbish was a copy of a congressional record containing a speech made by himself on the civil rights bill while a member of congress. Mr. Rainor is not ashamed to labor, although at one time wealthy.

Ben Hill's attack on Mahone has brought out some ugly things in his own frail history. Among them is the following, found floating in the newspapers: Ben Hill, the liar and coward, is charged with causing the death of William L. Yancy. During a heated debate, some years ago, Hill called Yancy a liar, and the latter sprang toward to strike Hill, who caught Yancy and threw him violently over a desk. Hill was much the larger and stronger man, and Yancy the more active. In the fall his spine was injured and he lay unconscious on the floor, with blood oozing from his lips. He was taken away, and the members tried to keep the matter secret, and did prevent it from being known for six months. Yancy never recovered; he dropped from day to day, became hopeless, listless and vacant, and passed quietly and calmly away.

Should the removal of Commissioner Le Duc from the Agricultural Department be decided upon by the President, Orange Judd is our man for his successor. The appointment could not fail to give satisfaction to the farmers of all sections of the State and country. He has a formidable array of backers, including presidents of colleges, professors of natural science and chemistry and eminent agriculturists everywhere. He possesses a broad, liberal education. He has had special training in the technical details of agricultural science. His long connection with the Agriculturalist has brought him in intimate relations with the most eminent practical and scientific agriculturists in the United States. He is a most admirable business manager, proved by his personal success. He has always contributed liberally towards the advancement of scientific agriculture. He is above dependence on the pecuniary emoluments of the office, which will be conducted on the broadest basis commensurate with the vast importance and varied interest of the agriculture of our country.

DISOLUTION.—The partnership heretofore existing between Saml. Woodford and Jno. VanDorn under the firm name of Woodford & VanDorn, is this day dissolved by mutual consent. The books and papers of the late firm are left in the hands of Saml. Woodford, to whom all debts due the firm must be paid and by whom all debts owing by the firm will be settled. SAMUEL WOODFORD. JOHN VANDORN. Towanda, March 18, 1881.
