Col. E. A. L. Roberts's Will.

The Titusville Petroleum World of last Wednesday says: "Of course it is understood in this city that owing to a certain circumstance which need not now be enlarged upon a separation took place between Col. E. A. L. Roberts and his wife and that proceedings in divorce had begun in the courts of this county by the latter for a legal separation and maintenance for herself and her children—two daughters aged 8 and 10 years respectively. The Will now produced by Mr. Winship was dated October 17, 1877, a few months after the separation referred to, and reflects the feelings entertained at that time towards his family. We have not been allowed to see a copy of the will, but we are informed by a gentleman who has read it, that he bequeaths all his real estate to his nephews and nieces, and except a few trifling bequests, all the rest of his property to his nephew, Owen M. Roberts, of Bradford.

During the past few months his brother, Dr. W. B. Roberts, and his legal adviser, Mr. Winship, both labored with him to modify his will so as to provide for his children. In his correspondence with Mr Winship a few days before his death, he instructed that gentleman to prepare a codicil in accordance with these views, but he did not live to execute it. For these reasons the parties interested have come together, and in a praiseworthy spirit, have mutually agreed that the will shall be modified so far as the bequest to Mr. Owen M. Roberts is concerned, and that instead of a contest in the courts to break the will, in the interest of justice to the little daughters of the deceased, Mr. Owen Roberts, consented to share the estate equally with these children, share and share alike. This conclusion, it is believed, is satisfactory to all the parties interested, and the necessary papers will be filed in the Orphan's Court, at Meadville, to carry out the terms of this agreement.

In this arrangement, and in all of the negotiations which have led to it, Mr. Owen Roberts has been represented by Jas. Winship Esq., of Buffalo, and the daughters of Col. Roberts, by their Guardian, Hon. Hugh Young, of Wellsboro, Pa., who have been in this city for some days past. It is understood that the widow of the deceased elects to retain her dower interests under the laws of this Commonwealth; and that Mr. Owen Roberts will administer the estate as executor, under the advice and supervision of Mr. Winship.

Col. Roberts was reputed to be one of the wealthiest men in the State. He had for some years before his death derived a large revenue from the royalty on his patents of torpedoes used in oil wells.

The Philadelphia Evening News publishes two very important letters from London, addressed to Colonel John W. Forney, giving him what may turn out to be a most important clue to the whereabouts of Charlie Ross. The writers are gentlemen of recognized social standing, and write to the following effect: A boy was at school near London with a woman who always kept veiled and called her boy George. The boy himself said his name was "Charlie Ross," and that he was brought from America in a big ship and told the woman, in the presence of other children, "Go away, you are not my mamma. Mamma is a lady who is in America." The clue will be followed up at once.

Senor Castelar has issued addresses announcing that in the coming election in Spain he does not seek the support of the advanced Republicans and Democratic parties. He regards the policy of the present Government as favorable to the cause of liberty.

It is believed that the object of the Mexican authorities in sending troops to El Paso is to check ruffianism there and not to oppose the building of railroads.

Fanny Austin, colored, has brought a breach of promise suit against Robert Little, a young white man of wealth in Chicago. Damages laid at $10,000.
