WANTED.—A gentleman wants a furnished room centrally located, Address REX, this office, with terms and location.

The remains of little Indian Japooses are being exhumed from the Poorhouse farm. One was dug up last week with very curious stone ornaments about the neck. The bodies are all found in a sitting posture and covered with a layer of charcoal and flat stones laid in an arch over the grave.

The following is clipped from the Wellsboro Agitator. Has Bradford been imposed upon in the same manner by the State authorities?

We have here an item which will interest all the taxpayers in this county. For a number of years the State authorities have been in the habit of charging Tioga county with a certain sum to be assessed and collected as a State tax. In 1878 the Commissioners came to the conclusion that the assessment was illegal in form and entirely too high. The time having passed for an appeal, the tax was paid over to the State—under protest, however. In 1879 a similar assessment was made on this county from which the Commissioners made an appeal and refused to pay a portion of the sum demanded, amounting to $1,101.89. The assessment for 1880 was also appealed from. Proceedings were commenced against the Commonwealth to recover the overpayment for 1878 and for an adjustment of the claim for 1879. Under the date of April 5th the Commissioners were advised by the Auditor General that a decision had been made in favor of this county, and that they were entitled to recover the sum of $2,203.34 from the State Treasury. This speaks well for the prudence and careful oversight of our county officials.

Somebody, THOMAS JOHNSON, the Elmira watchmaker we presume, has been enjoying the fun of seeing maple sugar made in this county and thus relates his experience in the Elmira Advertiser:

"Are you posted by experience in the various mysteries of the 'Sugar bush,' and resultant sweets? If not I pity you, and deplore the circumstances preventing the recall from 'memory's hall' of its excitement and pleasure, the lack of which makes one more 'green oasis' in the monotony of life. To realize the full text of its enjoyment several things must be granted, to-wit, an invitation, a large 'bush,' pleasant weather, plenty of sap and a jolly crowd to 'kinder help along' and keep things moving. In the case of our party the requirements were more than filled as the invitation came from one of the many whole-souled, large-acred farmers of old Bradford county, Pa. Arriving at the scene of action the first work,—which of course with us was fun,—was to go through the bush with horses attached to a sleigh, on which are barrels, tubs, pails, &c., to hold the sap, which is gathered from pails attached to the 'bleeding sides of monarch maples.' With a full load we proceed to the boiling down or evaporating pans, which are not as of yore, in the bush away from all comforts, but in a building for the purpose, hard by the house where the boiling-down commences, and is kept up for hours until our load of 'sweet water' is reduced to ten or fifteen gallons of miraculous syrup, which is drawn off, strained and left to cool over night.

Morning finds all hands ready for 'sugar-ing off.' The syrup is returned to the pans, a slow fire kept up, and while it boils, sizzles and fizzes in its transformation, assisted by stirring, the white of eggs, etc., the eager by-standers with saucers and spoons take frequent dips, which, cooled in snow, makes, oh!! such luscious eating, which one seems never to get sufficient of. The final test—all too soon, however, for our pleasure—comes in about an hour, when by 'good authority,' the mass is pronounced 'maple sugar,' ready for the molds, when presto change, in a few hours 'tis weighed, and we find a realistic seventy-five or eighty pounds of 'the finest,' a sample bar of which accept herewith.

The Foremen of Cos. 1, 2 and 3 are requested to report at their Engine Houses, Thursday, at 1 p. m., with their respective companies, for the purpose of testing a portion of the hydrants of water-works.

By order of the Chief Engineer.
