GARRICK M. OLMSTEAD, a prominent lawyer of Jersey City died very suddenly in that place a few days since. The deceased was an only brother of Mrs. Judge STREETER of this place. The Jersey City Argus of the 9th instant thus notices his death:

Mr. Olmstead had just reached the age of 50 years. Probably no man in his profession in this city or in any other, was more respected or beloved by all who knew him. As a lawyer his business was confined almost exclusively to chamber practice and was so extensive that he had accumulated a comfortable fortune. He was of a genial, kindly temperament, a man whom to know was to respect and admire. At the same time he was a public spirited citizen and took active though unobtrusive interest in public affairs. A democrat in politics, Mr. Olmstead was frequently solicited to accept public office, but his business was so extensive that he always refused.

The funeral of Rev. JOHN W. NEVINS was attended, on Monday, at the M. E. Church in Catharine. He died very suddenly. He had been a minister in the Methodist church for more than 50 years.

He had been very prominent, during much of his time, occupying important churches, being Presiding Elder, &c., &c. He was largely known through this region, and universally respected. A more extended notice will be expected in the church papers.

Although it was a very rainy day, yet the church was crowded. Revs. M. S. HARD and M. F. DEWITT of this city; F. STACEY, of Havana, N. M. DEPEW of Reading; A. D. EDGAR and I. B. HYDE, of Burdette; Rev. Mr. ROSS, of Odessa, and A. H. KINNEY, of Catharine, were present and assisted in the services at the funeral.—Elmira Advertiser.

One of the leading attractions with Bachelor & Dorris' Great Inter-Ocean Largest Show on earth, which is to exhibit at Towanda on the 31st, are the miraculous feats of Zazel, generally termed the Human Cannon Ball and Queen of the Air, by the press of London and Paris, where she has been the reigning sensation during the past two years. This remarkable young lady is rammed into the muzzle of an immense piece of artillery, which is loaded with powder in full view of the audience, and is shot horizontally seventy-five feet into mid-air to the dome of the canvass, where she alights upon a slender cobweb wire, which she crosses and re-crosses, performing such feats as Riding a Bicycle blindfolded, walking upon stilts, running and dancing with her feet encased in sacks, and other danger-defying acts. Zazel has already appeared in New York, Boston and Chicago.

The following is the program for the open air concert to be given by the band in the park this evening:

The ecumenical or universal conference of all churches belonging to the Methodist family, which is to assemble in London on the 7th of September next, will be an important gathering of one of the greatest religious sects in the world. It is hoped that the council will result in bringing the various branches of the Methodist Churches into closer relations with each other, and possibly open the way to the reunion of many of them. By special request of the Eastern section of the conference, Bishop Simpson will deliver the opening address, after which the regular business of the council will be taken up, and continued daily, except Sunday, until the 20th, when the final adjournment will take place.

The New York Commercial's Washington special says that a trusted friend of Senator Conkling says Conkling is utterly indifferent as to what takes place. His resignation was made after the greatest deliberation, when everything had been carefully weighed. The recent action of the State Senate in opposing Cornell and its unvarying hostility to Conkling, were not lost sight of. There was no expectation that this sentiment would be changed because the Senator had put himself in the Legislature's hands, Mr. Conkling knew his resignation would be followed by a favorable report on Robertson's nomination and his prompt confirmation. Still he took the step. If anybody believes he cherished the idea that he would be rapturously re-elected by a servile Legislature, he confesses he does not understand the condition of affairs in New York. Mr. Conkling has taken no chances, and has left nothing to luck. He is wearied of the misrepresentation and vituperation showered upon him. Conscious that he has devoted his best years to his party, to the exclusion of personal interests, and being treated with the grossest injustice of any public man of recent times, he has simply resolved to get out of public life, if the people of his State wish it, and let others look after their interests in the Senate. Mr. Conkling feels that if, after the years of service he has rendered his party he does not deserve better treatment than he has received of late, for simply exercising the right accorded to other Senators without a murmur, it is better for all concerned that he step aside. This is the Senator's true position. He has no expectation that his enemies in the Legislature will do anything but continue to oppose him as in the past. If he should be returned, it would be grateful to him after the treatment he has received, but Mr. Conkling will not lift a finger to effect this.

J. DEVOE.
