A BIG BLANK BOOK.—One of the largest blank books we have ever seen has just been made for the county. It is a register for the poor-house. The form was prepared by WM. LEWIS, clerk, and when the blanks are filled will form a complete history of the inmates of that institution. The volume contains five hundred leaves, 16x21 inches in size, sewed on silk bands with the best silk thread. The workmanship reflects great credit upon A. BEVERLY SMITH & Co., the manufacturers—a better job could not have been turned out from any city bindery.

SON AGAINST MOTHER.—JOHN MARSDEN, a retired manufacturer, who had accumulated an estate worth about $70,000, died in June, 1874, while on a visit to his son, WILLIAM C. MARSDEN, who lived at Towanda. The deceased lived at No. 1513 North Second street, in this city, and left a will dated May 29, 1866, in which he gave to his son WILLIAM two farms in Sullivan county and to his widow, SOPHIA, all the rest of his estate for life. On the death of Mrs. MARSDEN, the estate was to be equally divided, one-half of which was to go to HANNAH, the descendant's daughter, and the other half to go to the son WILLIAM, who was also appointed executor of the will. Some six months after Mr. MARSDEN died, a grandson, who lived at the Second street residence of deceased, while turning over the leaves of a Bible discovered written on a piece of tissue paper a will, May 6, 1874, and in this document the bequest of the Sullivan county farms to the son WILLIAM was retained, but all the rest of the estate was given absolutely to the deceased's widow, who was appointed executrix. It was to establish this latter paper that brought the parties into Court before Judge BIDDLE yesterday, with Mrs. SOPHIA MARSDEN as plaintiff and WILLIAM C. MARSDEN, the son, as defendant, the latter contending that the paper is not the last will of his father. The case will be resumed this morning.—Phila. Press.
