In the trial of Kingland, the paper manufacturer, for alleged pollution of the Passaic river whence the city obtains its water supply, witness testified that 125 factories emptied their refuse into the river and the water taken from the river at Paterson was black as ink.

Mr. Charles E. Smith, editor of the Philadelphia Press, who left the Albany Journal when it ceased to be a Conkling organ, said recently, when asked why he now supports the President: "I have always liked Mr. Conkling, and have been distressed at some of the severe criticisms upon him, but I could not defend his action in resigning from the Senate, and in this community there is hardly a man to be found who sustains him. I had already made a sacrifice for him, and left the State of New York on his account. I must think for myself and not be governed in my judgment by Mr. Conkling's extravagant acts."

The first attempt at iron smelting in California was made about a year ago and has already passed the experimental stage. A large bed of available hematite at Clipper Gap, in Placer county, was opened at that time, and the more it is worked the better it proves. A neighboring deposit of marble furnishes a flux, but as yet charcoal, made from adjacent forests of oak and pine is the only fuel. There is but little coal in the State, the main supply coming from the north and even from Australia, but the owners of this mine are not without hope that they may in the vicinity find coal near their iron, as has been the case in many other parts of the country. The manufacture of iron is increasing on the Pacific coast. Several rolling mills are in operation in San Francisco and a large stove factory is projected. All the iron made so far, has found a ready sale, as it fortunately has proved of remarkably good quality. About thirty tons are made a day.

"What everybody wants is the best organ for the least amount of money: Therefore everybody wants the Burdett; and when you've said that, you've told the whole story."

So say the brightest and busiest organ dealers throughout the land, who are furnishing this matchless instrument to a musical public, which is rapidly learning to distinguish its marvellously pure and beautiful voice from that which is not music.
