Our Great Republic.

The great advantage possessed by the United States over Europe are forcibly shown by Mr. Edward Atkinson in a table in which he compares our burdens with those of the older civilization. Whoever glances at his figures will be able to understand why multitudes of people in Europe are now eager to enjoy the happier conditions which prevail in the Western republic.

For the purpose of his comparison he takes Europe as a whole, with the exception of Russia and Turkey, the half civilized nations, and omits Alaska from the United States. The rest of Europe contains about 225,000,000 inhabitants, who occupy 1,546,802 square miles of territory. The population of this country is a little over 50,000,000, and besides Alaska the United States comprise 3,034,399 square miles. That is, less than one quarter of the population of Europe are here living on about twice the amount of land. In other words, while Europe has 145 inhabitants to the square mile the United States have only sixteen and a half.

Since 1848 the debt of Europe has nearly trebled, and is still increasing, whereas our debt is now less than it was in 1865 by over a thousand millions of dollars. We have already paid more than a third of the great cost of the war, and therefore, now owe only about $1,880,000,000, against $2,997,386,203, the debt at the close of the wasteful contest. The debt of Europe in 1880 was $16,794,800,000, or an average to each inhabitant of $74.64, while here the average on the first of last March was only $36.85, though in 1865 it was $83.35.

The national expenditures of Europe were $2,582,800,000 in 1880, or an average to every person of $10.15. Our expenditures for the year ending June 30, 1880, were $267,642,957, or an average of $5.35 to each inhabitant.

The standing armies of Europe number over 2,100,000 men, besides the still more numerous reserves who may be called in to the field at any moment. More than one in ever 110 of the population is a soldier in active service. Reckoning one able-bodied man to every five inhabitants, each twenty-two men sustain one soldier. Our army is only 25,000 strong, and each 2,000 inhabitants, or each 400 men sustain a soldier.

Is it any wonder that the people of Europe, witness our prosperity and envying our comparative freedom from the burdens which rest on their industry, are now crossing the ocean at a more rapid rate than ever before to share in our good fortunes? They find military glory too expensive a luxury, and long for the republic where men can work for themselves and are not obliged to toil for the support of vast armies whose only occupation is to learn the business of fighting against the possible coming of a time when they shall be engaged in actual war. One of the great blessings which this country enjoys is our freedom from the militarism which is eating out the life of Europe and crushing the spirit of its people.

Fortunately we have plenty of room for the immigrants who are now crossing the ocean at the rate of half a million a year.

Affairs in the Chickasaw and Choctaw nations have about reached a crisis. The United States cavalry at Fort Sill were ordered to report for duty at Muscogee, to co-operate with the Choctaw militia in removing the white intruders and their stock. All persons not Indians, or intermarried with them, are classed as intruders, and will be driven out. The order of banishment will be speedily and effectually executed. Great terror and distress exists. Three hundred families have crossed the border within the last ten days, leaving everything behind. The roads are lined with flying fugitives, who had abandoned their cabins to the flames and their growing crop and stocks. A number of whites refuse to leave, and threaten to fight if force is used, claiming to hold genuine permits.

After July 1st the charge for transportation of worn or mutilated United States notes received for redemption in sums of $500 or multiples thereof, and of new United States notes returned therefor, will be paid by the Government. On remittances not sent in the above amounts or consisting in any part of notes fit for circulation or of other notes than United States notes, the entire charges will be deducted.
