The doctrine of humane quality receives a staunch recognition in the fact that the new government bonds and currency now bear the signature of a colored man. Robert Toombs, once prophetic that before his death he would call the roll of his slaves at the summit of Bunker Hill; but instead of owning slaves now, instead of trading cotton for human lives, the very money he receives for his produce, or his legal services, bears the autograph of a man who was once sold for a thousand dollars, and once felt the lash that had fallen upon the flesh of his race for a thousand years. John Brown did not die in vain. The committee having in charge the fund raised to lift the mortgage from his widow's home would make the act significant and historical by offering the holder of the mortgage legal-tender notes of the new issue signed by Blanch K. Bruce.

One of the curious features of the census work is the collection of statistics, under the direction of Professor Hawes, of New Haven, showing the extent to which stone is produced and used in the United States. A collection of samples of American stone is being made, with an analytical description of its character and uses, blocks four inches square being sent from every quarry in the United States to the census office. There are in addition seven schedules calling for information. The first relates to the quarry; the second to the machinery and labor used to develop it; the third to the quantity, quality, color and uses of the stone; the fourth to the cost, the market and transportation facilities; the fifth to its convenience to water transportation, and the sixth aims to show the number of buildings wholly or in part erected of stone in the United States, and the amount of stone that is now in use in docks, wharfs, bridges, sewers and other structures. The seventh schedule is purely scientific, and treats of geological and mineralogical features.

A Postmaster under Buchanan, finding by his "instructions" that he was to report quarterly, addressed the following official communication to the President:

JULY 9, 1857.

Mr. James Buchanan, President of the United States:

DEAR SIR: Been required by the instructions of the Post Office to report quarterly, I know herewith foolish that please in duty by report in as follows. The harvest has been peerty, and most of the nabors have got their cuttin dun. Wheat is hardly a average crop; on rolen land corn is vallerish, and wont turn out more than ten or fifteen bushels to the akar. The health of the community is only tolerable, cholery has broken out about 2 and one half miles from here. There is a powerful awakening on the subject of religion in the falls naborhood, and many soals are been made to know their sins forgiven. Miss Nancy Smith, a near nabor, had twins day before yesterday. One of them is supposed to be a seven mouther, a poor scraggy thing, and wont live halt its day. This is about awl I have to report the present quarter. Give my respects to Mrs. Buchanan, and subscribe myself yours truly.

Prominent bankers in New York say that there is no truth in the reports that the banks of that city intend to reduce their loans as a matter of safety. There is no occasion for unusual restriction.

The Jesuits have recently been expelled from Nicaragua, and are flying in great numbers in all directions. They are accused of being enemies of a free government, and of inciting the populace to acts of disorder, resulting in bloodshed.

Thirty thousand nail makers in Staffordshire, England, Monday struck for an advance of thirty per cent on their wages.

First Assistant Postmaster General Tyner says that his resignation has not at any time been tendered to the President or to any one else. He does not expect to resign in the near future, and has reason to believe that an appointment to succeed him has not been tendered to any person.
