Gen. Garfield's Remarks upon the Death of Lincoln.

The official report in the Congressional Record of Saturday, April 14, 1866, recites that Mr. Garfield, in the House of Representatives, after Chaplain Boynton, moved to dispense with the reading of the journal, concluded a speech upon the assassination of Lincoln, as follows: "It is no one man who killed Abraham Lincoln; it was the embodied spirit of treason and slavery, inspired with fearful and despairing hate, that struck him down in the moment of the nation's supremest joy. Ah, sir, there are times in the history of men and nations where they stand so near the veil that separates mortals from immortals, time from eternity, and men from their God, that they can almost hear the beatings and feel the pulsations of the heart of the infinite. Through such a time has this nation passed. When 250,000 brave spirits pass from the field of honor that thin veil to the presence of God, and when at last its parting folds admitted the martyr President to the company of the dead heroes of the Republic, the nation stood so near the veil that the whispers of God were heard by the children of men. Awe stricken by His voice the American people knelt in tearful reverence and made a solemn covenant with Him and with each other that this nation should be saved from its enemies, that all its glory should be restored and on the ruins of slavery and treason the temple of freedom and justice should be built and should survive forever. It remains for us, consecrated by that great event, and under a covenant with God, to keep that faith, to go forward in the great work until it shall be completed. Following the lead of that great man, and obeying the high behests of God, let us remember that

"He hath sounded forth a trumpet that shall never call retreat; He is sifting out the hearts of men before His judgment seat. Be swift my soul, to answer Him; be jubilant my feet, For God is marching on."

At the conclusion of this peroration the House silently adjourned.

The following curious dispatches, never before printed, were sent by Mr. Stanton to the Hon. Edwards Pierrepont about a month after the assassination of Mr. Lincoln. They are interesting as evidence of a very different phase of excitement in Washington at that time from any which has been caused by the attempt on the life of President Garfield:

WAR DEPT., May 12, 1865, 10.05 P. M. The Hon. Edwards Pierrepont, New York. I have written to-night to retain you and Cutting and Brady, or any one else you may desire to have associated with you, to prosecute Horace Greeley and the owners of the Tribune for Greeley's persistent efforts the last four weeks to incite assassins to finish their work by murdering me. Please give the matter your immediate attention on receiving the letter, and secure copies of all the Tribunes printed since the night of the President's murder, and get the names of the owners. I propose to prosecute criminally and also by civil suit, for I shall not allow them to have me murdered and escape responsibility without a struggle for life on my part. EDWIN M. STANTON.

WAR DEPARTMENT, May 13—5.20 P. M. To the Hon. Edwards Pierrepont and the Hon. F. B. Cutting, New York: I have proof of express personal malice against me by Greeley, and believe that I can establish a combination between him and others which may end in accomplishing my death, as it did against Mr. Lincoln and Mr. Seward. This is my reason for distinguishing his case from others of general vituperation. EDWIN M. STANTON.

The second telegram was sent in reply to one which contained an intimation that it might be at least indiscreet to make such an arrest as the one suggested by Mr. Stanton.
