Can any one read the following from the Police Reports of Brooklyn and not feel that something more must be done to rid the land and rid the human race of the horrible curse of intemperance?

"The Police of the Fourth Precinct were last evening notified that James Burns, aged nine years was lying dangerously ill at the residence of James Irving at No. 398 Kent avenue. The ambulance was summoned, but before its arrival the child was dead. Behind the case of the unfortunate boy there lurks a story of drunkenness, degradation and devotedness which is in itself a powerful temperance sermon. The lad's father, John Burns, was but a short time ago an industrious shoemaker, who was able by his labor to make a comfortable living for his family. Burns' wife was, however of dissipated habits, and finding that she had no ambition to keep the house tidy and neat, Burns himself contracted a passion for liquor. Then as is usually the case misfortune crowded fast upon the family. Burns gave up his shop and trade and fell into evil ways. Finally the couple parted and Burns took with him his son James who despite the fact that he worshipped a drunken vagabond, had a great affection for his father. The subsequent life of Burns and his son was of the most miserable character. Every cent that the father earned was spent for rum, and the boy frequently spent days without the commonest necessities of life. Lodgings were refused to the couple and they were forced to spend their nights in wagons and stables in the vicinity of Jackson Hollow. Despite all this, little Jimmy Burns remained faithful to his besotted parent and nothing could induce him to desert his father under any circumstances. The exposure consequent upon their mode of life soon told upon the boy's health and for the last two or three days he has been ailing but made very little complaint. On Saturday last the father got a small sum of money but instead of spending it upon his famished son, he invested what little he had in drink. At an early hour on Sunday morning the father, with the boy by the hand, reeled into McGoldrick's saloon, on Kent avenue. He asked for a drink and paid for it. The boy who had been up all night with his drunken sire was scarcely able to stand. In a short time both lay down on the floor of the bar-room and fell asleep, remaining there until daylight. When discovered by the barkeeper they were ordered to leave the saloon. As they were going out of the place a man named Brady noticed the child's condition and told the father that he had better take him to a doctor. Nothing more is known at present of the wanderings of the pair until a late hour yesterday afternoon, when Burns, with his son, entered Mr. Irving's residence, on Kent avenue, and asked permission to leave the lad there for a few moments. A coat was thrown on the floor and the boy was told to lie down on top of it. He lay there breathing heavily for some time while the father left the house, saying that he was going for a doctor. While he was away it became evident the boy was dying, and a message was sent to the Fourth Precinct Police Station as above stated, for medical attention. Before the ambulance arrived, however, the faithful little sufferer was dead. When the father came back to the house he was so drunk that Police Captain Wilmarth, who took charge of the remains, ordered his arrest on a charge of intoxication. It is supposed that the boy died from the combined effects of starvation and exposure."

The Tribune denies that there is any political rivalry between Secretary Blaine and other members of the Cabinet, and states that on the contrary there exists the warmest friendship and most entire harmony.

DR. A. E. BURR'S

HOMEOPATHIC LUNG SYRUP.

This remedy is something new, both as to name and composition. This is one of the wonders of the world. This Syrup, I claim, is better and more effective than any other ever offered to the people of America or any other country, and what I say of this I can prove. This Syrup, like the Pills, is harmless and safe. It contains no opium or other narcotic poison, like the most Syrup, and is not disagreeable to take. Any child will take it. And it will cure any and all inflammations arising from Cold. It is superior to all others in every respect and especially for the following reasons:

- 1st. It will cure Croup every time.
- 2d. It will cure Inflammation of the Lungs.
- 3d. It will cure Quinsy.
- 4th. It will cure Whooping Cough.
- 5th. It will cure Bronchitis.
- 6th. It will cure Hoarseness.
- 7th. It will cure Sore Throat.
- 8th. It will cure any Cold.
- 9th. It will cure Congestion of the Lungs.
- 10th. It will cure any Cough.
- 11th. It will cure Scarlet Fever.
- 12th. It is the best remedy that any one can take for Consumption, and if taken in the first stage I will guarantee a cure.
- 13th. It is perfectly safe for all ages as there is nothing in its composition that can harm a child.
