The President's Condition.

The news from Washington continues to be of the most cheering character.—The President's progress toward recovery yesterday was marked and tangible. We hope to be able to announce a like result to-morrow, and have no doubt now that he will be speedily raised up.

OFFICIAL BULLETINS.

8:30, A. M.

The President has passed a tranquil night and this morning his condition is quite as favorable as yesterday at the same hour. Pulse 100; temperature 98.4; respiration 18.

12:30, P. M.

At the dressing of the President's wound, this morning, the parotid swelling was found to be discharging freely. It looks well, and has materially diminished in size. The wound remains in about the same state. His general condition is evidently more favorable than at this time yesterday. Pulse, 95; temperature, 98.4; respiration, 17.

6:30 P. M.

The President has passed a better day than for sometime past. He has taken his food with increased relish, and the usual afternoon rise of temperature did not occur. At the evening dressing the fluid used to wash out the parotid abscess found its way into the mouth, which it did not do this morning, showing that an opening into the mouth has spontaneously occurred. The abscess is discharging freely and the swelling continues to diminish. There is some increase in the discharge of pus from the wound. Pulse, 109; temperature, 98.6; respiration, 18.

Blaine cabled Lowell, at 9:30, p. m.: The President has had less fever this evening than upon any previous evening since he was wounded. His temperature at six o'clock was normal. His entire day has been most encouraging in all his symptoms. Hereafter I shall send but one report daily.

We are constantly receiving orders for "Lum Smith's imitation stained glass," and are ready to give our patrons the full benefit of an inexpensive and handsome decoration by placing it on any glass whether door or window, large size or small glass, green or white, round or square, in fact any position, shape or kind of frame or glass that needs shading from the rays of the sun, or from the gaze of inquisitive eyes. Thankful for the very liberal patronage bestowed since we have received the agency of this imitation, we shall by a strict attention to business, hoping to merit a continuance of the same. To those who have heard of the "Imitation Glass," and have not seen it, we extend a cordial invitation to examine into its real merits, and ask the prices for which it can be obtained, we are prepared to contract with churches, halls, or other public buildings, and warrant all of our work to surpass in beauty the genuine stained glass and our prices are less than one-fourth the cost of the same. Those in need of anything of this kind or who are lovers of art, whether they wish to purchase or not, are respectfully invited to examine the same at CHAS. F. CROSS' Book Store.
