THE FAIR.

LAST DAY.

The attendance at the fair yesterday was good, but not so large as Thursday.

The judges completed their work, and of course there was some dissatisfaction, but it is impossible to please all and it is nothing strange that among so many meritorious animals and articles, judges do not always meet out exact justice.

Of the horses not heretofore mentioned, we take pleasure in calling attention to Manson Elsbree's fine Hambletonian stallion, one of the best steppers on the ground. W. A. Wood's Lord Clyde, whose stock is his best recommend. J. N. Haight's Prince Imperial jr., a fine Percheron stallion. J. W. Willcox's four years old stallion, Young Slasher. R. W. Arnold's well known George Henry. A large two years old stallion exhibited by Joel Pitcher. Almon Baxter's handsome bay carriage team. Capt. Manville's black mare, awarded first premium for riding horse. Hiram Taylor, a three years old stallion. J. M. Burlingame, a Clydesdale stallion. Philo Beardslee, a large well built stallion.

There were doubtless many more worthy of notice, but in the hurry and confusion we were unable to see them.

F. P. Herrick, of Asylum, exhibited several pens of Chester White pigs, regular beauties.

M. W. Angle exhibited Lincolnshire sheep, a breed which combine several good qualities, such as large size, fine wool and heavy clip.

Owing to a fatal disease—the cholera—which has destroyed many large flocks of chickens, and it being the moulting season, there was a very small display in the poultry department. Nearly all of the exhibits in this department came from east of the river. The principal exhibitors were Mervie Allen, R. W. McCabe, four coops; L. B. Gerould, one coop; C. S. Davis, nine coops; P. R. Patterson four coops; Geo. McCabe, one coop; W. R. Pickering, two coops; Robt. Mercur, one pen of rabbits.

The varieties varieties Toulouse, Grey and Blue Geese, Rowen and Pekin Ducks; one pen of four Pea fowls; one pen of Guinea fowls; Leghorn, Hamburg and Polish chickens, and Bronze Turkeys.

The contributors to the produce department should be congratulated on their creditable display.

D. O. Hollen had a large variety of mammoth vegetables, such as beets, potatoes mellons, cucumbers, &c.; corn and canned fruit.

Mrs. Hollen contributed samples of canned fruit and jelly. John Lane had more than 36 varieties of apples, as did also Victor Piolet, and Hon. H. L. Scott. N. S. Frazer, of Wyalusing, exhibited two varieties of very fine apples. Mrs. DeLong and John J. Webb, each two varieties of grapes. H. W. Camp, grapes, beans, several varieties of seedling potatoes, tobacco and pure cider vinegar. Mr. Camp takes great pains to add interest to the annual exhibitions. Capt. Park had six varieties of potatoes, all large and fine. They were early Vermont, Snowflake, Victor, Beauty of Hebron, Shamrock, Burbank Seedling. His whole crop is fair. He considers the early Vermont the best yielder.

Samuel Kellum exhibited excellent specimens of Dent corn; O. F. Young, several varieties of potatoes and white flint corn.

James Johnson, exhibited some large potatoes grown in East Towanda. He reported a yield of 39 1-2 bushels from 1 1-2 bushels planted.

The exhibit of better was not large. E. C. Bull exhibited samples of maple sugar, maple syrup, and amber cane syrup; Mrs. I Robbins, bread and biscuit, and were awarded first premiums.

C. M. Williams of Overton, exhibited bee hives and some fine honey.

There were some fine specimens of wheat, buckwheat and peas.

Mrs. J. F. Corser was awarded first premium for a beautiful afghan. Mrs. Capt. Manville got first premium for painted satin tidy and candles. She had several other articles in the fancy goods department.

Miss Mary Elliott had a large and handsome collection of rare flowers and house plants, as did also Miss Frank Makinson.

R. M. Welles had a large display of plows and agricultural implements.

R. E. Gilbert, of Asylum, explained very satisfactorily an ingenious, inexpensive contrivance for unloading hay. Having subjected it to a thorough practical test, he knows whereof he affirms when he recommends it.

Ed. Williams, plumber, had a boiler and fixtures, on exhibition.

McCabe & Co. exhibited specimens of marble work.

C. S. Laferty and Guyer & DeForest made a good display of carriages and buggies.

C. L. Squires, agent, exhibited a swinging churn and Cooley's Creamer, both of which attracted particular attention of the ladies.

At 1 o'clock all the live stock was put upon the track, forming a grand cavalcade of some of the best horses and cattle in the state.

We have not been careful to enumerate all the articles or to anticipate the reports of the judges, which will in due time be published.

The exhibition was a grand success. The officers deserve commendation for their successful efforts in that direction. Gate-keepers Col. Wm. Green and Robert Ferguson, who have stood as sentinels at the main entrance from the organization of the Society, were at their posts from the opening to the closing of the fair, discharging their duties courteously and faithfully.

At the Church of the Messiah, (Universalist), to-morrow morning the communion will be administered and members received. In the evening the pastor will discuss the question of "Total Depravity."

HAGERMAN & MILLER, of the Globe Mills, have already put buckwheat flour on the market. Buckwheat is very scarce, but this enterprising firm will keep their customers supplied as long as there is any in the country.

While Mr. BUNYAN was County Treasurer quite a large sum of money was lost through the failure of a bank in which the funds were deposited. Ever since that time the account has stood against Mr. B. pending negotiations to have him relieved from the payment, as the loss was through no fault of his, but legal authorities having decided that he must reimburse the county from his own pocket, he yesterday paid it in.

On account of the President's funeral the Germania Band concert announced for last Monday evening was postponed. It will come off next Monday evening in the park, and the following programme will be executed:
