LEARN A TRADE.-Judge DEXTER setenc ed five criminals yesterday. Of all the number but one claimed to have a trade. This certainly seems a very significent fact. There is no doubt but what if more of the boystof this generation would learn trades, the part ons would not be so fall. Young men, if you are without a profession, learn a trade, mad when you have selected one after your the e, go to work with a will. and make up your mind to thoroughly conquer it, and be a master workman. You will never fear then, with ordinary geod health, for your bread and butter, for even in hard times first-class workmen are always in demand, while the inferior ones stand about idle. There is no danger of a young man who starts life with such an object in view, and sticks to it, ever being before a judge fer sentence, but there is a strong probability that he will occupy an honorable and pleasant position in society, and be looked up to and respected .- Elmira Advertiser.

About the busiest place in town is the Five Cent Store. The designation, by the way, is a misnomer.
