Excellent taste is not only required to dress a show window handsomely, but fine goods are equally necessary. At M. E. Rosen-FIELD'S Clothing store both are displayed most a tractively, the exhibit of neckwear, suspenders and gents' furnishing goods being particularly conspicuous. The windows are not only attractive, but their dressing is pronouncedly metropolitan.

MONROETON ITEMS .- On the 22d inst , the puritanic stock, allied by blood and marriages, to Mrs. D. Plume, made their fourth annual surprise visits at the Monroe Grotto, in full force and with great success. Suffice it to say the day was fine, the surprise was complete, the presents the best productions of forest and field. The table of their own supplying was rich and delicious, and the dinner was hugely enjoyed by more than twenty as good-natured beings as ever sat face to face. Some 15 persons were from Rome: some from Greenwood, and some from Monroe. Thanks. Please call again. N. D. P.

THE BOUNDARY SURVEY .-- In 1879 the New York Survey commenced the work of re-establishing the boundary line between New York and Pennsylvania. This line was first run nearly a hundred years ago and at that time was a form dable undertaking as the party found very few, if any clearings between the Delaware river and lake Erie.

Their work was very accurately done, considering the difficulties they had to meet and the imperfection of the instrument they had to work with

The boundary line was supposed to be established on the 42d parallel, but there were some deviations which the present survey do not intend to change. Two of the greatest deviations occur at Wellsburg and Great Bend, at one of which places the boundary line is above nine hundred feet from the parallel.

The survey was completed in '79 and at present a party under charge of Maj. H. W. CLARK of Syracuse New York, Is placing the "monuments" marking the boundary.

The monuments are only to be placed across this valley the present fall, and the work to be completed in the spring. They are placed one mile apart and also at every important road. - Waverly Review.

- in regard to the County Institute? 3. What can be done to make the work of
- our Commou schools more practical than it at present seems to be?
- 4, Is the practice of giving reward cards and other prizes as incentives to pupils a wise and commendable one?
- 5. Is any change from the present mode of examining and licensing teachers advisable!

The exercises will be interspersed with music, and by declamation or recitations by Frank Lyon, Julia S Hawes, May Alden, Hattie Vangorder, Mary Bowman, Lottie Payne, and Hallie Dodge.
