Solid Ground for Republicans.

Senator Davies writes like the full-sized man and sterling Republican that he is. He made his fight for the nomination in dead earnest. The people encouraged him with their applause. The Convention nominated another. Senator Davies and his friends were disappointed, but disappointment has not driven them into revolt. The Republican party is their party. They mean to stand by it and stay in it. They will neither be coaxed out nor driven out.

The struggle for popular rule is not ended; it is only fairly begun. The men who stood by Davies are resolved to maintain their ground and stand by their guns. They are not brevet Democrats to steal the livery of Independent Republicanism to serve the Democracy in. True Independent Republicanism fights within the party lines, is patient but determined courageous but discreet, gives and takes, and keeps right on with its work, refusing to be diverted by side issues. Duty, no less than expediency, marshals good Republicans to the support of General Baily. "Had I been successful," says Senator Davies, "I would have expected General Baily and all his friends to support me." And they would have done it. If Senator Davies had been nominated in September he would have been elected in November. No bolt would have been organized by General Baily's friends.

"Why is he not entitled to my full and hearty support?" The nominee is an honest capable man; in war he was a gallant soldier; he has always been a good citizen; he is a Republican nominated by a Republican Convention—why is General Baily not entitled to the full and hearty support of every Republican? "To refuse to vote for him is to aid the Democratic party." In this single sentence Senator Davies sums up the whole case—hits the nail on the head and drives it home. No independent Republican need hesitate to follow where William T. Davies leads. He is as independent as the best, but a Republican above all. His independence is unsullied by the taint of a Democratic alliance.—Press.

At a reception tendered to Senator Miller of New York on Saturday evening the following ringing letter from Senator Davies of this place was read:

TOWANDA, PA. October 27, 1881.

David T. Davies

MY DEAR SIR: Yours of October 24th inst. received. I willingly comply with your request, and would be very happy could I meet with you and other Welsh citizens of your city in the interests of the Republican party.

I was a candidate for the nomination before the recent State Republican Convention for State Treasurer. I was not successful, and General Baily was. Had I been successful I would have expected Gen. Baily and all his friends to have supported me.

Why is he not entitled to my full and hearty support? He was for aught I know, fairly nominated; there was no fraud in his nomination. Is he honest? Is he capable? Is he worthy? All these questions have been answered by even his opponents in the affirmative. Then why not vote for him? Has he not always been a good citizen? Was he not a brave and gallant soldier? And has he not tested his courage and patriotism on many a fierce battlefield?

As a Republican who has been identified with the party from its organization, I can give no good reason why he should not receive my vote. To refuse to vote for him is to aid the Democratic party. This I decline to do.

Trusting and hoping that the Republican party of Pennsylvania will give General Baily, as he deserves, their free support and triumphantly elect him. I am, yours truly.

W. T. DAVIES.

Country Gentleman

THE BEST OF THE AGRICULTURAL WEEKLIES.

ENLARGEMENT FOR 1882.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is the leading journal of American Agriculture. In amount and practical value of contents, in extent and ability of correspondence, in quality of paper and style of publication, it occupies the first rank. It is believed to have no superior in either of the three chief divisions of while it also includes all minor departments of rural interest, such as the Poultry Yard, Entomology, Bee-keeping, Greenhouse and Grapery, Veterinary Replies, Farm Questions and Answers, Fireside Reading, Domestic Economy, and a summary of the News of the Week. Its Market Reports are unusually complete and much attention is paid to the Prospects of the Crops, as throwing light on one of the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell. It is liberally illustrated and is intended to supply, in a continually increasing degree, and in the best sense of the term, a LIVE AGRICULTURAL NEWSPAPER.

The Volume of THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN for 1882 will be largely increased in Contents by the addition of a sufficient number of pages to meet the growing demands upon its space, but the terms will continue as follows, when paid strictly in advance: ONE COPY, one year, $2.50; FOUR COPIES, $10, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club; TEN COPIES, $20, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club.

All New Subscribers for 1882 paying in advance now, WILL RECEIVE THE PAPER WEEKLY, from receipt of remittance to January 1st, 1882, WITHOUT CHARGE.
