The unexpected news of the death of Gen. Kilpatrick, Minister to Chili, has been received. He made himself famous as a Union cavalry commander. When the rebels under "Jeb" Stewart were handling cavalry in their own way, by repeated raids through the Union lines, Kilpatrick met them half way and plucked many a victory. Some of his daring exploits, by way of invading the enemy's country were the most brilliant feats of Union arms. At the close of the war he settled down on his ancestral acres, giving much time to lecturing on the striking events of the war in which he took part and in campaign political speaking. A year ago this summer he organized a large military rendezvous, with mock battles and maneuvers near his residence in New Jersey. These were intended to revive experiences in the actual field. He was sent out as a minister to Chili by President Garfield. He had previously married a Chilean wife, and his sympathies were very strikingly manifested toward that country and gave rise to the recent differences between himself and Minister Hurlbut to Peru. His death will leave the case, either less or more difficult for adjustment. Gen. Kilpatrick was a very electrical sort of a speaker and was quite a popular favorite. His old comrades in arms always hastened to rally about him.

President Arthur made this beautiful allusion to the lamented Garfield, in his Annual Message:

An appalling calamity has befallen the American people since their chosen representatives last met in the hall where you are now assembled. We might else recall with unalloyed content the rare prosperity with which throughout the year the nation has been blessed. Its harvests have been plenteous; its varied industries have thrived, the health of its people has been preserved, and it has maintained with foreign governments undisturbed relations of amity and peace. For these manifestations of His favor we owe to Him who holds our destinies in His hands the tribute of our grateful devotions. To that mysterious exercise of His will which has taken from us the loved and illustrious citizen who was but lately the heart of the nation, we bow in sorrow and submission. The memory of his exalted character, of his noble achievements, and of his patriotic life, will be treasured for ever as a sacred possession of the whole people. The announcement of his death drew from foreign governments and people tributes of sympathy and sorrow which history will record as signal tokens of the kinship of nations and the federation of mankind.

A special from Somerset to the Pittsburgh Dispatch says: John Cessna, the distinguished statesman of Bedford, is here, with headquarters at Scull's Herald office, engaged in important business. He is arranging plans to contest the election of Judge Baer, who, it will be remembered, defeated Uncle John at the last election for Judge of the district by thirteen votes. The ground of contest is somewhat novel. The claim will be made that votes for Baer were received at certain polling places in this county without the asking of the questions prescribed by the law. It is proposed to take the position that in such cases proof at a subsequent hearing that the questions could all be answered satisfactorily will not be sufficient to permit the counting of the votes.

The Republican caucus in Washington on Saturday recognized the just claims of those Congressional employees who are maimed Union soldiers, without regard to politics; three of them being Democrats and three Republicans. The country will appreciate this action.

Mrs. Garfield appointed President B. A. Hinsdale, of Hiram, O., to edit General Garfield's works, with instructions to collect, edit and carry them through the press as speedily as is consistent with completeness and thoroughness. He has accepted the trust, and will immediately set about preparing the material.
