PROSPECTUS.—"Of making many books there is no end," and the multiplication of newspapers is the popular source of educating the people. We are aware that the idea is quite prevalent that Bradford County has too many papers, but with the large number not one is wholly devoted to the interest of the great producing class—the agriculturists—and at the urgent solicitation of some of the best practical farmers in the county, we have decided to commence about the first of the new year, a local agricultural weekly, especially adapted to the wants of the farmers of this section. The contributors to the paper will embrace the best practical farmers in the county, and we shall aim to make it of real value to every tiller of the soil, dairyman and stock raiser in the county, by giving the results of experiments by those in whom the classes interested have confidence, and whose success in business is an evidence to thorough practical knowledge.

The paper will contain a condensation of the general news and the fullest local notes. Fuller particulars hereafter.

The foundation of the remaining half of the Sayre round house is nearly completed. When finished the whole building will furnish stabling room for about thirty of the "iron horses of the rail."—Waverly Rev.

State Superintendent HIGBEE gives it as his opinion of the spirit of the law, that teachers employed to teach both day and night school ought to be paid as much while attending county institute as they would receive should they continue teaching at home.

Cole's Great Circus was lately wrecked on its way to Kansas City. After its arrival there, a Kansas City Times' reporter found John Sawbright, its veterinarian, rubbing the injured animals with St. Jacobs Oil. He said it was the best remedy known for injuries to horses, and was so very clean to use.

MICE THIS WINTER.—Mice are very prolific; a single pair will often multiply to fifty or more during a single season, as the earlier broods reproduce one or more generations. Usually a large proportion of each summer's

The funeral of the late Mrs. JAMES HARRIS will take place Sunday. Friends will meet at the house at 1:30 and services at Presbyterian church at 2 p. m.

The following sensible words from the Elmira Advertiser have a local application here as well:

Parents and guardians should avail themselves of the long winter evenings wherein to impress the minds and enlist the attention of the boys and girls under their especial charge. The twilight and early hours that make up the waking time after supper are the harvest moments for bad influences to grow and thrive in young hearts. The education of the street is always productive of evil. It tends to the formation of habits which lead to a doubtful reputation. How many a bright boy has become proficient in wickedness that might have proven an ornament to society and a benefit to mankind, had his evenings been spent at home. It is next to impossible for children to run the streets and escape the vices so common to the ignorant and vicious. It is upon the streets at night that the horrid oath is uttered, and the petty quarrel is made the pretext for more brutal work, and the first glass leads to irregular ways. Home can, with little effort, be made attractive. A few books, juvenile magazines and papers, with a smile and an occasional word from their elders, are all that is necessary under ordinary circumstances, to keep within doors children and youth.

C. L. S. C.—The next meeting of the Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle will be held at the residence of Mr. G. S. SMITH, at the foot of Chestnut street, Friday evening, December 9, at 7 o'clock. The work for the evening will be a review of "Man's Antiquity and Language." Chautauqua text book No. 29, from the first to the fifty-second page, inclusive. The first 25 questions on "Man's Antiquity," as contained in the December number of the Chautauquan, will be used in the review. Essays on various subjects will be read by members of the Circle. As the next meeting is expected to be of unusual interest, a full attendance of members is requested. All who are interested in the Circle work are cordially invited to be present.
