PROSPECTUS.—"Of making many books there is no end," and the multiplication of newspapers is the popular source of educating the people. We are aware that the idea is quite prevalent that Bradford County has too many papers, but with the large number not one is wholly devoted to the interest of the great producing class—the agriculturists—and at the urgent solicitation of some of the best practical farmers in the county, we have decided to commence about the first of the new year, a local agricultural weekly, especially adapted to the wants of the farmers of this section. The contributors to the paper will embrace the best practical farmers in the county, and we shall aim to make it of real value to every tiller of the soil, dairyman and stock raiser in the county, by giving the results of experiments by those in whom the classes interested have confidence, and whose success in business is an evidence of thorough practical knowledge.

The paper will contain a condensation of the general news and the fullest local notes. Fuller particulars hereafter.

The M. E. church Sociable will meet on Wednesday night, at the house of A. D. DYE, corner of Main and State streets.

A first class orchestra will discourse choice music before the opening and between the parts, at the select readings by Miss KELLOGG, Thursday evening.

IMPORTANT TO TRAVELERS.—Special inducements are offered you by the BURLINGTON ROUTE. It will pay you to read their advertisement to be found elsewhere in this paper.

It is expected that over four hundred teachers will attend the session of the County Institute, and any of our citizens who are willing to take a portion of them as boarders, can notify County Superintendent RYAN at J. A. WILT'S office. A list will be kept there or the accommodation of teachers.

MONROE—There was carried through this village to-day, to their last resting place, Cole's burial ground, the earthly remains of Mrs. Lyman Dodge; formerly Mrs. Gilbert, mother of Nelson Gilbert, Esq., of Franklin twp., at whose residence she endured her last sickness, and met her last enemy, being kindly ministered unto and tenderly cared for by those of her own household. Her earlier years were spent in Monroe, while living with her first husband Mr. Daniel Gilbert. We have no exact dates at hand from which to quote, but from our recollections we place her age up in the nineties. Her maiden name was Wythe, and we do not recollect a person of her father's family living in the State, or in the world. The great west may yet retain some fragments of the family of Wythe's. She was one of the pioneers of this valley, and acted nobly her part, in the stirring times of its early cultivation. We claim the privilege of paying our full quantum of respect to all such prominent and worthy marks of our earlier times as they pass away. For many years of the latter part of her life, she was a devoted christian, and known to us as a faithful member of the M. E. church. She has passed safely home; unsolicited we drop our little token on the foot of her grave.

Monroe's Sunday Schools in the M. E. church, is preparing for a large time for the little folks, on Christmas eve. The children have a clear title to one day in the year; and it occurs usually about the 25th of December. "He took them up in his arms and put his hands upon them and blessed them." So mote it be. The Christmas tree always wears a charm.

MONROE, DEC. 11th.

HOW JURORS ARE MADE.—The Jury Commissioners, V. M. WILSON and T. J. SMILY, assisted by their clerk, E. B. COOLBAUGH, are now engaged in placing the eight hundred names of persons to be drawn as jurors during the year 1882 in the wheel. The modus operandi of securing jurors is not understood by everyone. The Presiding Judge every year orders so many names placed in the wheel as in his judgment will suffice for the courts to be held during the ensuing year.

The system of drawing these names is as follows: When jurors are required in any of the courts the clerk of the court sends to the sheriff an order directing him to draw a certain number of jurors—this order is called a venire. As soon as received by the sheriff it is registered in a book kept for that purpose and is sent to the clerk of the jury board, who prepares his book to receive the requisite number of names when they are drawn. At a time when it is convenient for the jury commission consisting of the sheriff and the jury commissioners, the wheel is opened and the names required by the venire are drawn out separately and duly recorded. The first twenty-four names drawn at each term are designated as "Grand Jurors." After the drawing is concluded, the clerk sends to the sheriff a duly certified list of the names so drawn with the residence and occupation of each juror. This list is the sheriff's guide and from it he makes out the notices for jurors. It becomes the duty of the officer charged with the service of the notice to find the juror, no matter where he may be—whether at the address given or at any other. After proper effort has been made to find the juror, the officer returns to the sheriff all the notices he has been unable to serve and a statement of those served, and the sheriff then prepares his answer to the venire and affixing it thereto, returns it to the court clerk, who uses the list for his roll. It will be seen from this statement that the system is a complete one and absolutely free from any chance of fraud.

An idea is to a certain extent prevalent that the sheriff has the power to excuse jurors, but this is wholly erroneous, that power being in the court alone. If jurors fail to attend at the time named the court may impose a fine and issue an attachment for the arrest of the juror and his production in court. A great majority of the jurors summoned serve; some are excused. Deafness, ignorance of our language, physical inability to sit and other physical ailments are good excuses. Physicians surgeons and apothecaries are also excusable under a statute passed in the reign of Henry VIII. (1513), and now in force. Attorneys and other officers of the courts exempt from service. Some few other persons are exempt, but to secure the privilege must comply with certain stringent requirements of the law. Jurors are under no circumstances excused from service on account of business engagements, the judges having taken a firm stand upon that point, desiring the services in the court of just that character of men. The pay of a juror is $2 per day.
