

The Hero of Gettysburg
A friend who recently visited the scene where the Federal Armies, in the vicinity of Gettysburg, won such imperishable renown, has imparted to us some valuable information, or at least some original thoughts, in reference to that momentous struggle, which was worthy of being conveyed to our readers. It will be remembered that the advance of the Army of the Potomac was led by Gen. Reynolds. No general officer in the army of the Potomac, so well as General Reynolds understood the geography of that region of country. He saw at a glance that the position of Cemetery Hill was a point on which the battle depended. There was no time for consideration. The plan and its execution were twin thoughts, conceived and born amid the roar of battle. A moment's pause might have been too late to secure a decent retreat or save his command from an overwhelming slaughter. Hence the impetuosity of the attack made by Gen. Reynolds. Hence after he had fallen, it was supposed that Gen. Reynolds had sacrificed himself in the enthusiasm of battle, when by the aid of calmer reason, he might have possibly passed through the struggle unscathed. This is not the fact, however. Gen. Reynolds coolly devoted himself to victory, because he knew that the point which he had in view, the result which he aimed at, involved the safety of the army of the Potomac. Had he lingered just at that moment—had any other man been in the advance of the army of the Potomac, the result might have been different. Cemetery Hill would have fallen into the possession of Lee—the army of the Potomac would have been crushed—Pennsylvania and the entire northern placed at the mercy of the invaders.

Thus after all, are the great victories of every war won. As with Reynolds, on Cemetery Hill, at the propitious moment the real hero steps forth and gains the actual victory—and sad to relate, such as these too frequently are robbed of their just honors, or in the decay of their brief hour of glory, cause to live and go down to the grave, while those who remain monopolized the fame of deeds in the stern enactment of which they played no other part than that of spectators. Had Gen. Reynolds not given the rebels the first check on Cemetery Hill nothing thereafter could have withstood the impetuosity of the charge of those fiends. Lee's spies had been over every foot of ground in the vicinity of Cemetery Hill. The rebel chief understood and properly valued the importance of the position afforded by that hill. It was no chance plan that drove the rebels to that point. Neither was it mere fortune that induced Gen. Reynolds to make an attack just there and then. He, too, understood the locality. His native genius at a glance comprehended the condition of affairs. He was impressed with the stupendous importance of the position, and he struck the blow just in time to check the foe in time to save the army of the Potomac from rout and annihilation!

Let it no longer, then be credited that General Reynolds fell a sacrifice to his indirection. Let it be fairly understood that he willingly sacrificed himself in order to save an army of which he commanded only a portion. General Reynolds was undoubtedly impressed with the great risk he was undergoing, when he delivered battle to the enemy. He was too good a soldier not to know that when he gave battle he must be prepared to accept death. This impressed it is no wonder that he hurled himself and his command on the enemy like a thunderbolt. Then it was that the rebels cried out, "Great God! we are fighting the army of the Potomac." Then it was that the victory was won; and then, too, alas! was it that Gen. Reynolds fell. Here we must pause, and leave to history the recording of the great event connected with this glorious death. Our object is only to rescue the name of Gen. Reynolds from the charge of indiscreet impetuosity in making his assault for the capture and possession of Cemetery Hill at the battle of Gettysburg. This assault was the prompting of a valor as dauntless and a discretion as calm as ever controlled a true soldier. Let this, for the present, be the epitaph of Gen. Reynolds, and while Cemetery Hill stands, let it represent the monument of his fame. Indeed, let that hill hereafter be known as Mount Reynolds.

AFTER THE BATTLE.—A correspondent of the New York Commercial, in a letter from the battle-field at Gettysburg, gives the following:
While passing along the center of Lee's line I found a German laborer and his wife, gathering up piles of clothing which had been thrown away or taken off the dead. Yohn was wheeling away the spoils as his wife collected them. Suspecting your correspondent of being official, she came to defend herself by saying, "They come to mine house and eat all mine geese and mine chicken and all mine hocks, but I don't believe in that; and may be shut them that eat my chickens is killed and I pe gathering their clothes." As strange things have happened.

A Washington special says that on Tuesday the Secretary of War issued an order that John Morgan and his commissioned officers should be confined in the Columbus penitentiary till Colonel Straight's officers are released or exchanged by the rebels.

VIOLATION OF A HOSPITAL FLAG.—General Lee, as is proverbially witnessed, cowardly violated a hospital flag, by using the caps of the college, filled with wounded, over which it was flying, within range of our cannon, as an observatory.

HORSES IMPRESSED.—The Government has been forced to impress horses throughout the neighboring counties of Maryland to supply pressing needs created by late notice service of our cavalry.

Our forces at Charleston.
The Navy Department promises that Gilmore and D. H. H. shall receive everything necessary to insure a speedy fall of Charleston.

DR. SWEET'S
INFALLIBLE
GREAT REMEDY

FOR RHEUMATISM, GOUT, NEURALGIA, LUMBAGO, STIFF NECK & JOINTS, SPRAINS, BRUISES, CUTS AND WOUNDS, PILES, HEAD-ACHE, AND ALL RHEUMATISM AND NEURALGIC AFFECTIONS.

For all of which it is a speedy and certain remedy, and never fails. This Liniment is prepared by the recipe of Dr. Stephen Sweet, of Connecticut, the famous bone setter, and has been used in his practice for more than twenty years with the most astonishing success.

AS AN ALLEVIATOR OF PAIN, it is unrivaled by any preparation before the public, of which the most skeptical may be convinced by a single trial.

This Liniment will cure rapidly and radically, RHEUMATISM arising from imprudence or excess, this Liniment is a most happy and unfailing remedy. Acting directly upon the nervous tissues, it strengthens and revivifies the system, and restores it to elasticity and vigor.

FOR PILES.—As an external remedy, we claim that it is the best known, and we challenge the world to produce an equal. Every victim of this distressing complaint should give it a trial, for it will not fail to afford immediate relief, and in a majority of cases will effect a radical cure.

QUINSEY AND SORE THROAT are sometimes extremely malignant and dangerous, but a timely application of this Liniment will never fail to cure.

SPRAINS are sometimes very obstinate, and enlargement of the joints is liable to occur if neglected. The worst cases may be conquered by this Liniment in two or three days.

BRUISES, CUTS, WOUNDS, SORES, ULCERS, BURNS AND SCALDS, yield readily to the wonderful healing properties of DR. SWEET'S INFALLIBLE LINIMENT, when used according to directions. Also, CHILBLAINS, FROSTED FEET, AND INSECT BITES AND STINGS.

Dr. Stephen Sweet, of Connecticut, the Great natural Bone Setter.

NEURALGIA PLASTERS.
or Toothache produced by colds.

It is immediately cured by their application. They act like a charm, and are perfectly harmless in their nature; do not produce a blister, and leave no unpleasant remains. None are available except the Neuralgia Plasters, which we send in an envelope on receipt of the price (15 cents) and one stamp. But to accommodate persons in places where the drug stores and stores are few, we have prepared boxes, 7 inches by 4, with compartments, each box containing a bottle of Dr. Hurd's Mouth Wash and Teners' Dental Plaster, a bottle of Tooth Powder, the Neuralgia Plaster, and a valuable treatise on Teeth and their Diseases, the best means of preserving them, and the proper treatment of children's teeth, worth of itself the entire cost to the young man, or woman, or parents with young children, with study other necessary articles; price per package, One Dollar, or six packages for $5, sent by express as directed. As the Express charges are not much, if any, more on a dozen than on one, it is far cheaper to order six or a dozen packages at one time. A large family will want all, or the surplus can be disposed of to neighbors with public benefit, for no one can estimate how much pain, suffering, unbusiness and disfigurement, expense, loss of time and money would be saved to the country, if every family to complete all of these packages, which in itself, is a complete set of Dental Remedies. Address Wm. H. Hurd & Co., Tribune Buildings, New York, and write the name and address plainly. W. R. H. & Co. refer to the Mayor of Brooklyn, to G. W. Griffin, President of the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank, Brooklyn; to the Editor of the American Manufacturer's Gazette; to J. P. C. Co., Publishers Agents, N. Y.; to J. T. Barnum, Esq., who knows a good thing when he sees it; and has already ordered a second supply, &c.

1000 Agents Wanted.
To introduce Dr. Hurd's Dental Remedies into every county. Men or women who want to make money quickly, can do better with these articles than anything in market. They are new, useful, low priced, and they are sending thousands in advertising them for the benefit of agents. Boxes of samples, containing a dozen of the one dollar packages above specified, with circulars, sent by express, on receipt of seven dollars, about half price, to any person wishing to test his or her skill in selling, with the view of becoming an agent
