

GRASS LAND—HOW TO IMPROVE IT.
If you ask this question of many farmers, the only reply will be, break up and sod down fresh. Others will hesitate before giving this uniform answer. They will insist on looking at the land first, or at least will wish to know what is the matter with the present grass crop. Is some part of the field mossy or boggy? or does it grow certain coarse grasses which indicate undue moisture at the bottom? If so, their eyes will be opened, and they will reply, in medical language that "under draining is indicated." Nothing does the land need so much as this; nothing will do it material good, until this is first attended to. Plowing and manuring will be nearly all useless, so long as the land is clogged with surface water.

If this is not the trouble, they will enquire whether foul weeds have got possession, to the exclusion of wholesome grasses. If not, but the trouble is simply an impoverishment of the surface by long cropping, they will advise to scarify the sward in the fall with a heavy harrow, tearing up the mosses, and disturbing the soil a little, so that it will receive fresh seed. Then they will sow from 10 to 15 quarts per acre of clear Timothy and Red Top in equal parts, and cover the same with a light harrow. We should have said, too, they will apply a good coat of old manure, before the seed sowing. In this way repeating the manuring once in two years, many a meadow or pasture can be brought up to a high state of productiveness. If, however, the land is infested with white daisy, dock, or thistle, the only way will be to break it up thoroughly, cultivate it five years with crops and grain and finally seed down again. Manuring should go along with this cultivation, of course. When seeding down, be not sparing of seed, but use half a bushel of Timothy and the same of Red Top. If Red Clover is desired, it should not generally be sowed until in the spring, as it is apt to winterkill. If a farmer is a progressive man, perhaps he will enquire whether the grass crop could not be improved by irrigation. We believe that much is to be realized from this practice during the next generation.

OIL THE HARNESS.
And have it repaired if necessary, before a drier season sets in. Wash it thoroughly with warm soft water and castile soap, and brush out every particle of dirt before putting on the oil. This is the important point. Better not oil at all than to apply it on dirty leather. The harness should be taken apart and the pieces washed and oiled separately. Rub on the oil while the leather is softened with the water. It can be applied at once if the leather is rubbed a little with a dry cloth. It should be soft, but not too wet. After applying, the oil hang up to dry for a few hours, till the oil is absorbed. Old harness that has been neglected, and is dry and hard, had better not be oiled. It will do no good. The evil is already done. The fibres of the leather have lost more or less of their tenacity, and oil will not restore it. In fact, by softening the leather it only weakens it—just as a wet sheet of paper will tear more easily than a dry one. Oil does not add to the strength of leather; it merely softens it and keeps it from cracking. It is a preventive of decay—not a restorer—Harnesses are now so high that it is more than ever important to take good care of them. Never let them suffer for want of oil; kept in good repair, they will last as long again.

EARLY PLANTING OF CORN—PREPARATION.
In the Northern States, May is often a cold, wet, rainy month, and corn planted early, either does not come up at all, or it drags out a poor, yellowish, dwindling life, until the warm weather of June, while the farmer has to wage a steady battle with the weeds in order to see his corn rows at all. This is often the case at least, and we very much prefer to do our work in the early part of the month, meanwhile keeping the ground open by occasional harrowings, so that perhaps, two or three crops of weeds, will start up and be killed before the 20th or 25th, at which time we prefer to put in the main crop. An early maturing kind is best, and this cannot be too much insisted on both at the East and West; and we prefer not to go far out of the neighborhood for it, if we have not enough of such seed as we want of our own raising.

Take perfect care with small cobs, and well filled out. Use only the perfect kernels, if the ear is perfect and thoroughly ripe, all the kernels may be used; but if the ear is misshapen and the kernels at the tip not so ripe and hard as the rest, plant only from the middle of the ear. Soak the corn twelve hours, then change the water, adding that which is as hot as one can bear his hand in. To this add a little pine tar, and stir the whole until the corn is all thinly coated with tar. Pour off the water and roll the corn in slaked lime. Plant within twelve hours, covering only about half an inch deep.
