FINANCIAL.

A man without money is like the following things, according to our experience and observation:

- Like a body without a soul,
- Like a wagon without a pole,
- Like a thresher without a flail,
- Like a ship without a sail,
- Like a lever without a prop,
- Like a drunkard without a drop,
- Like a church without a preacher,
- Like a school without a teacher,
- Like a hunter without a gun,
- Like a day without a sun,
- Like a mill without a wheel,
- Like a negro without a heel,
- Like a poet without a sound,
- Like a woman without a bonnet,
- Like a made berry of her tongue's tip,
- Who cannot join in the gossip,
- A pair of spurs without the rowels,
- An alphabet without the vowels,
- In the matter as far as his feelings go, He feels like a girl without a beau.

If a man fails to have money the following things generally occur:

- The men all doubt him,
- The women all rout him,
- The children all scout him,
- The men call him green,
- The women call him mean,
- The children call him leas,
- A man to be drawn from our observations:

The root of all evil is love for the pelf. But want of it, friends is the devil himself.

VARNISH FOR SHOES.

It is a bad plan to grease the upper leather of shoes for the purpose of keeping them soft; it rots the leather and admits dampness more readily. It is better to make a varnish thus:

Put half a pound of gum shellac, broken up in small pieces, in a quart bottle or jug, cover it with alcohol, cork it tight and put it on a shelf in a warm place; shake it well several times a day, then add a piece of gum camphor as large as a hen's egg; shake it well, and in a few hours shake it again and add one ounce of lamp black; if the alcohol is good, it will be dissolved in three days; then shake and use. If it gets too thick add alcohol—pour out two or three teapoonfuls in a saucer, and apply it with a paint brush. If the materials are all good, it will dry in about five minutes, and will be removed only by wearing it off, giving it a fine gloss almost equal to patent leather.

The advantage of this preparation above others, is that it does not strike into the leather and make it hard, but remains on the surface and yet excludes the water almost perfectly. The same preparation is admirable for harness, and does not soil when touched as lamp black mixtures do.

During the visit of Congressmen to New Orleans three men sought an introduction to Ben. Wade, and stated to him that they were rebels, had been from the first, and intended to remain so. Senator Wade replied: "Well, gentlemen, I am happy to meet you, as you are the first rebels I have seen since the war closed, the balance of the Southern people claiming to be Union men. Now tell me, if you please, how did you three men manage to carry through such a dreadful war against the government, and keep it up for four long years by yourselves? The rebels were silently received by the rebels and the crowd."

A SATISFACTORY EXPLANATION.—A tangible reason why the stars didn't shoot last month as advertised. The awkward mistake is explained as follows:

When the meteoric temperature of the horizon is such as colorise the impendent indentation of the hemisphere analogy, the cohesion of the borax curcuma became surcharged with infinitesimals, which are thereby virtually deprived of their fissural disquisitions. This effected, and a rapid change is produced in the thorax of the gymnasticus palerium, which can be a conular in the hexagonal antinathes of the terrestriam aqua versala. Clouds then become a mass of deostomized specks of ceremoual light, which can only be seen when it is visible.

THE QUESTION SETTLED.—The Supreme Court of the United States has formally rendered its opinion that Congress has no power to authorize the trial of a citizen not in the military or naval service by a military court where and while the ordinary courts of law are open and in operation.

"Papa" observed a young urchin of tender years to his fond parent, "Does the Lord know everything?"

"Yes, my son," replied the hopeful; "but why do you ask that question?"

"Because our preacher, when he prays, is so long telling the Lord everything, I thought he wasn't posted." The parent reflected.

Advice is like snow, the softer it falls the longer it dwells upon, and the deeper it sinks into the mind.

Why is the REPUBLICAN like a tooth-brush? Because everybody should have one of his own, and not borrow his neighbor's.

Dissolution of Partnership.
THE partnership heretofore existing between GEO. E. MINOR and L. K. EVANS, under the style of GEO. E. MINOR & CO., is this day dissolved by the withdrawal of Geo. E. Minor from said firm. The business of said firm will be settled by L. K. Evans, who alone is authorized to collect all debts and pay all indebtedness of said firm.

GEO. E. MINOR,
L. K. EVANS.

Dec. 4, 1866.

I recommend my former partner—L. K. Evans—to the former customers of the late firm for a continuance of their patronage. dec11

Farmers' Column.

From the N. Y. Observer.
SUGGESTIONS FOR JANUARY.

O January! Ruler of the year!
Thy scattered hair, with sleek like ashes filled,
Thy breath congealed upon thy lips, thy cheeks
Fringed with a beard made white with other snows
Than those of age, thy forehead wrapped in clouds,
I love thee, all unlively as thou seem'st.

As summer is the time to labor in the field and consummate improvements, so winter is a proper period for farmers and gardeners to think and plan for future operations. In many localities, cold weather and deep snow prevent doing anything of much account out of door, while in other places, something may be done on the farm, or in the garden, quite as well as at any other season of the year.

The chief business on farms is to take care of domestic animals. When a farmer has stored a hundred dollars' worth of hay for his stock, one important item of his business will be to convert that hay into more than one hundred dollars' worth of meat, milk, or wool. If a hundred dollars' worth of hay be fed out, and the animals that consume it are worth no more than they were when the following season commenced, the system of management is defective and non-paying. Consuming the coarse grain, and other products of the farm, economically and with a reference to future profit, will constitute one important item of labor for the present month.

Milk cows should be well taken care of; if they cannot be expected to give a bountiful supply of milk. Soon after a cow has finished eating, she wants to drink. If she yields a large quantity of milk, she requires more water than a dry cow, or an ox.

For want of a necessary supply of water, in winter, cows frequently become nearly dry. In order to maintain a full flow of milk, cows should be well watered at least three times during the twenty-four hours.

Horses that are not worked, or exercised in some way, every day, should have the benefit of a yard, where they can travel around for several hours each day. It is exceedingly injurious to any horse to be tied in the stall, day after day, without any exercise. And it injures a young horse far more than an old one, as long standing stillness the limbs of a young animal and causes them to swell, so that he will after a few years, more like an old stager. When a horse is used only once or twice in the course of a week, he should be turned loose—not tied by the head—in a large box stall, so that he can move around—Better take down the partition between two row stalls, so that a horse may have ample space for turning around, (that) to keep him tied day after day, in a narrow stall.

In many instances sheep need to be separated into small flocks. Sometimes a few yearlings, lambs and old sheep may be placed in one yard, where they can be fed a small quantity of grain, or roots, daily. In some flocks there may be half a score of poor ewes, which are pushed around by the stronger sheep and deprived of their allowance of feed. Unless they receive proper care and feed, their lambs will be small and weak, their fleeces thin and light, and, in many instances, they become so poor, before spring, that when once down, they can never rise again. There is no profit in keeping sheep poor, nor in trying to winter poor sheep.

Swine require a warm place to sleep in, and plenty to eat. These two items embrace about all that needs to be said with reference to them, after a good breed has been secured. It is always poor policy to feed store hogs, or fattening swine, whole grain.

Domestic fowls of all kinds require attention during cold weather. They often suffer exceedingly for want of water, and of gravel of suitable size for macerating their food. It is always better, and far more economical, to grind all kinds of grain before it is fed to fowls; and it is especially so in those localities where there is no small, sharp gravel to which birds can have access.

Now is the time to select plans for erecting buildings next season. It new buildings are to be erected, study the plans and procure the lumber, that it may be thoroughly seasoned before it is used.

Seed grain may be exchanged, or procured from distant parts of the country. If new implements are to be purchased, it is better to procure them two months before they are to be used, than to be obliged to wait for them after the time has arrived when they are to be used.

As the new year commences, let a new and improved system of farm management be inaugurated, both in the barn and in the field.

TO DAY.
Away, and take thy rusting plow!
Uplurn the fertile fields of clay!
There is no time for toil but now—
No promise leans beyond to-day!
